BULLET KILLS POLICEMAN AT WOODS PARTY

Patrolman C. D. Poole Is Pistol Victim Near Soldiers Home.

INSTITUTION INMATE IS JAILED AS SLAYER

"Strong-Arm Methods" in Rum Selling Are Blamed for Shooting Affair.

Patrolman Charles D. Poole was shot and instantly killed last night, allegedly by Bert Davis, a lame inmate of the Soldiers' Home, who opened fire on the policeman during a drinking party in a wood 70 feet west of Fort Totten road near the east wall of the Soldiers' Home Grounds.

The murder is directly attributed by police to "strong-arm methods" used by a policeman in directing trade from the Soldiers' Home to a particular bootlegger in the vicinity, it was learned by The Post last night.

For the past six weeks Inspector Albert J. Headley, The Post learned, has been investigating a complaint that a policeman from the Twelfth Precinct had beaten inmates of the home who refused to buy their liquor from a bootlegger recommended by him.

Alleged Killer Found Asleep.

The alleged murderer was captured an hour after the crime by Lieut. John M. Roper, of the Twelfth Precinct, who found him "sleeping" in a clump of bushes in a vineyard less than a half mile from the crime scene. He is charged with murder.

That a policeman from the Twelfth Precinct was linked with bootleggers in the vicinity of the home, was the complaint to Lieut. J. C. Morgan by an employe of the home, who said he had been beaten when the policeman found him dealing with a bootlegger other than one favored by the officer.

The man, who refused to give his name, said that the policeman, who who operated a Twelfth Precinct automobile, would station himself while in police uniform near his favorite bootlegger's place.

Any inmate of the home, he complained, who patronized any of the other speakeasies which infest the vicinity would be warned by the policeman against the practice. If the inmate continued to patronize other places, the complainant said, the officer would beat him.

Complaints Under Inquiry.

Inspector Albert J. Headley, whose inspection district embraces the Twelfth Precinct, has been investigating the complaint for six weeks, but had been unable to gather enough evidence to warrant an arrest.

Poole, who was 39 years old, drove a radio scout car attached to the Twelfth Precinct. For the past few days he has been frequently in the vicinity of the Soldier Home, and was known to many of the inhabitants of the section.

The belief that the shooting was the outgrowth of "strong-arm methods," it was learned, was expressed at a conference held directly after the murder in the Twelfth Precinct, which was attended only by Assistant Superintendent William S. Shelby, Inspector Frank S. W. Burke and Inspector Headley.

"I shot at a chicken and missed it," Davis said to Roper when arrested.

Prisoner Highly Nervous.

To Lieut. Roper's question regarding the shooting Davis replied: "What shooting? I thought I heard some shooting but I thought I was dreaming."

The prisoner was so nervously overwrought from excessive drinking that it was necessary for policemen to support him. His body trembled, as if with the ague, when he was brought to the Twelfth Precinct. So irrational was he, that detectives deferred questioning him until today.

When informed that Davis was being held in connection with the murder, Col. L. R. Dunbar, director

Hugh White Leads Mississippi Voting

Runs Far Ahead of Foe Seeking Nomination for Governor.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Hugh White and Dennis Murphree were running ahead on incomplete returns late tonight in the race for governor and lieutenant governor, respectively, in today's Democratic primary.

Complete returns from 178 precincts out of 1,590 gave White 4,660 votes and his nearest opponent, Mike Conner, 3,750. Paul Johnson was third with 2,176, and George T. Mitchell, supported by Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, was trailing with 1,998. In the race for lieutenant governor, complete returns from 164 precincts gave Murphree 5,298; Bidwel Adam, 3,805.

The available returns came from all sections of the State, reports being held back by the arduous task of counting the 3-foot ballots and tallying totals for 7,000 candidates for office.

RIOTS MARK STRIKE OF 100,000 IN CUBA

40 Workers Are Arrested as Bombs Hit Street Cars; Others May Quit.

Havana, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A general 24-hour strike today involved some 40,000 workmen in Havana and an estimated 60,000 to 70,000 more throughout the island. Labor leaders said tonight that strong sentiment had developed for a new stoppage of work to begin within the next two days.

The new strike, if called, would protest the arrest of nearly 40 strikers and other persons today, they said.

Arrested persons included Lucio Fuentes, president of the Association of Commercial Employes; Jose Llera, one of the leaders of the striking 2,400 employes of the Havana Electric Railways Co., and Pedro de la Concepcion, one of the directors of the newspaper El Pais.

Three attempts to dynamite street cars were made during the day. One motorman was slightly hurt and windows were blown out of two cars. Another bomb, exploding near the building of Heraldo de Cuba, government-owned newspaper, blew off the hand of Amador Vales, photographer for the review, "Bohemia," who was sitting in a nearby automobile. Strikers and police exchanged fire several times, but, so far as could be learned, no one was injured.

Officials of the Tram Car Co. announced earlier in the day that 118 cars were in operation and that number was increased slightly during the day. The car men have been out since early Friday, protesting wage reductions, and the company has maintained partial service during twelve hours of the last three days by use of new employes. Service was halted again at 6 o'clock this evening.

Houses Shaken Down By Mount Etna Quake

Aci Reale, Sicily, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—A serious earthquake shook the Mount Etna region last night and the volcano was spraying ashes over the countryside today.

Scores of residents fled their homes in the villages around the volcano and it was estimated that damage would total about $26,000. Several houses collapsed and about 100 others were cracked or otherwise damaged. The natives were alarmed by a great cloud of smoke which enveloped the peak.

Mrs. Cooper to Seek Election to Congress

Racine, Wis., Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper announced today that she would seek the congressional seat held by her late husband, who was representative from the First District of Wisconsin for more than three decades.

SOVIET SAFE BARES FEES TO ARGENTINES

Vault of Buenos Aires Agency Cut by Officials After Raid; 150 Arrested.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The safe of the Yuzhamtorg, Soviet South American trade corporation, was opened today in the presence of officials of the treasury, police and navy departments after blow torches had again been used to cut through the heavy walls.

Police found the locked safe when they raided the Yuzhamtorg headquarters two days ago, arresting more than 150 people and confiscating a great number of records and documents.

In the safe today, it was reported, the officials found Soviet securities valued at approximately $1,000,000, other securities, and a sum of Argentine money, together with a number of receipts, one of which indicated the payment of approximately $35,500 to Dr. Mario Guido, vice governor-elect of Buenos Aires Province.

Dr. Guido is a prominent Radical, and was the Radical vice presidential candidate in the recent elections in which Honorio Pueyrredon, former Ambassador to the United States, ran on the same ticket for governor and received a plurality of votes. Dr. Pueyrredon was since requested to leave the country, and he departed for Europe a week ago.

Dr. Guido has been counsel for the Yuzhamtorg, as also was Dr. Pueyrredon. The payment indicated by the receipt found today, it was said, covered fees for drafting the corporation's charter.

Police indicated that many of the approximately 100 persons who are still held after having been arrested in the Yuzhamtorg raid would be released immediately.

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Honorio Puerrydon and Dr. Mario Guido, former Radical candidate for governor and vice governor of Buenos Aires, tonight said their connections with the Yuzhamtorg were entirely as legal advisors for the company.

They also said that the Yuzhamtorg was a purely commercial concern, of great importance to Argentina because it exported large quantities of hides, wool and quebracho extract and that there was no indication that it had been engaged in the dissemination of political or Communist propaganda.

Tokyo Hears Debuchi Will Be Sent to China

Tokyo, Wednesday, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Nichi Nichi, Japanese newspaper, understands that Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, who has been granted a leave of absence to return home, may be appointed to a post in China, as he is well acquainted with Chinese affairs.

Debuchi's three-year term expires this autumn.

Navy of Full Treaty Power Now Policy of Department

(Associated Press.)

A Navy second to none, efficient, well-balanced and capable of ready war-time expansion yesterday was pronounced the objective of America's sea forces.

This was contained in a statement of policy, the first of the Hoover administration, signed by Secretary Adams and issued in poster form to all branches of the naval establishment. It superseded one issue in 1928 by Secretary Curtis D. Wilbur.

The new declaration advocated the maintenance of a fleet of all classes of fighting ships built up continuously to the limits of the London Treaty and maintained at that level by a replacement program.

Outlining "Fundamental Naval Policy," it said: "The Navy should be maintained in sufficient strength to support the national policies and commerce and to guard the continental and overseas possessions of the United States." With a slight change of wording, this was a reiteration of a statement made in Wilbur's enunciation of policy.

The latter contained an outright declaration against the further construction of small cruisers which was omitted by Adams, who simply called the maximum cruiser tonnage allowed by the London Treaty with no reference to the size of the vessels. He stressed, however, superiority of armament and wide radius of action as the most important considerations in designing fighting ships.

A wholly new policy looking toward "industrial mobilization" in case of

COLONIAL BODY DRAFTS VIRGIN ISLANDS' CODE

Some of Authors Jailed During Regime of Navy.

ORGANIC ACT TERMS BEING KEPT SECRET

Educational Workers Ousted as Governor Appoints Own Associates.

By ROBERT B. SMYTHE
(Special Correspondence of The Washington Post).

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, July 25.—After three weeks of deliberation the committee of five, appointed by Gov. Pearson from among members of the Colonial Council to draft a new organic act for the islands, has made its report. This will be kept secret until Congress meets.

Shortly after the appointment of Gov. Pearson, President Hoover wrote him that Congress was working on a new organic act (the old Danish laws governing the islands have never been changed), which would be submitted to the Colonial Council for any suggestions that it might desire to make before being enacted into law.

The President's letter was read to the council, but Gov. Pearson suggested to the members that he thought it better for the council to prepare the new organic act and submit it to Congress for any suggestions it might consider proper. The recommendation of the governor was adopted almost unanimously, only the two white members of the council (formerly from the United States) voting "no."

Committee Is Named.

The committee was thereupon announced, as follows:

Lionel Roberts, editor of The Emancipator.

Alfred Maduro, carpenter.

Benito Smith, owner of a grocery store.

Conrad Cornerio, assistant fire chief.

George Moorehead, labor leader, collector and director of the women employed in carrying coal on their heads for the West India Co. ships.

Of course, there is no reflection on this committee to state that some of its members spent considerable of their time in jail under the recent hard-boiled naval rule here. Lenin and Trotzky had the same experience under the czar's regime in Russia.

The department of education has not yet quite settled down after a complete reorganization. The office of director of education was held by a man named Arthur E. Lindborg, who had held the position for twelve years. He was a captain in the A. E. F. and was decorated by two governments for heroic action in France. Aside from his military record he was commended for his educational work in its recent exhaustive report on the survey, conducted here under authority of the United States Government, by leading educators from Hampton and Tuskegee institutes.

High Qualifications.

As his assistant in St. Croix he had Herold J. Benedict, who is reputed to have been just as good a man in every way as his chief, except that he had only one leg, having left the other near the Argonne in France during the war.

Considering how the Navy never hands out favors or bouquets to

Rum Jury Chosen For Diamond Trial

First Witness in Effort of U. S. at Conviction to Appear Today.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The first witness in the Federal Government's attempt to send Jack (Legs) Diamond to prison on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law will take the stand tomorrow.

A complete jury was impaneled in less than two hours at the opening session today. Judge Richard J. Hopkins ordered the jury locked up at night during the trial because of the "importance of the case." Diamond himself remained free on bail during the trial.

Earlier in the day, John Scaccio, indicted with Diamond and Paul Quattrocchi, was ordered to stand trial separately on motion of Assistant United States Attorney Schwartz. Scaccio is to be sentenced in Catskill tomorrow for assaulting Grover Parks, Cairo truck man. Quattrocchi went on trial with Diamond.

Only 33 veniremen were questioned in selecting a jury.

Senator Moses to Run For His Fourth Term

Concord, N. H., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—United States Senator George H. Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, announced today he would seek a fourth term. He made it plain that the Vice Presidency had no attractions for him.

Senator Moses predicted that Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War under President Wilson, would be a compromise Democratic candidate for the Presidency. He had previously announced his conviction that President Hoover would receive the Republican nomination.

OKLAHOMA OIL WELLS CLOSED BY GUARDSMEN

Governor Sends Soldiers to Enforce His Order on Producers.

STEP TAKEN TO RAISE PRICE UP TO DOLLAR

3,106 Prorated Plants Are Affected by Ukase; Legal Battle Promised.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Martial law was invoked tonight by Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray to choke off the flow from 3,106 oil wells in prorated fields of Oklahoma.

The drastic move was Gov. Murray's long-awaited answer to purchasers of crude oil who refused his demand to post $1 per barrel prices. The present top price is 50 cents.

His executive order, issued after National Guardsmen had entered the Oklahoma City field and brought about the closing of many of its gushers, established martial zones for 50 feet around all but "stripper" wells in the State. It directed that the National Guard maintain military control "against all orders whatsoever except an order from the President or the Supreme Court of the United States."

100 Soldiers Take Field.

Mobilized on verbal orders of Adjt. Gen. Charles F. Barrett, of the National Guard, troops were moved to the Oklahoma City field this afternoon. Detachments, accompanied by Cicero Murray, the governor's oil representative, bearing a colonel's commission, visited field offices of producing companies, and in a few minutes great valves were twisted and wells were closed.

Fourteen wells, including several of the Sinclair Oil & Gas Co., and the Champlin Refining Co., avowed opponents of the shutdown, were closed before the order was signed and sealed at 5:25 p. m. Offices of the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Co., dominant field producer, were not visited, but the company closed in fourteen wells voluntarily.

About 100 officers and enlisted men were in the field late today. It was the first oil-producing area of the State to see the troops.

Appeal to Courts Expected.

No opposition to the closing of the wells was expected in the fields themselves. But the oil purchasers and others have indicated they will lose no time seeking relief from the courts.

The voluminous order declares the shutdown is necessary to conserve natural resources of the State. It includes an attack on the Sinclair and Champlin companies, which have transportation, refining and marketing facilities for their production.

It charges an intrigue by Sinclair to seek a means of impeaching Murray "because the governor blocked efforts to repeal the oil laws," allegedly made in order to depress the prices of oil against the best interests of school children of the State who benefit on a price percentage basis from oil produced on State school lands.

Gov. Murray had delayed the decree since Saturday night, the deadline he set for higher oil prices.

The Daily Oklahoman estimates 7,500 oil employes will be thrown out of work as a result of Gov. W. H. Murray's shutdown order of today and that some companies will operate on half-time basis to prevent discharge of many more.

Roy St. Lewis Sworn As Aid to Mitchell

(Associated Press.)

Roy St. Lewis, of Oklahoma City, former United States attorney for the Western District of Oklahoma, took the oath yesterday as Assitant Attorney General in charge of admiralty, alien property and war claims. Attorney General Mitchell attended the brief ceremony.

St. Lewis succeeds George R. Farnum, of Boston, who resigned about a year ago.

Mercury Hits 91; Same Seen Today

Humidity Higher Yesterday, With 71 Per Cent in Morning.

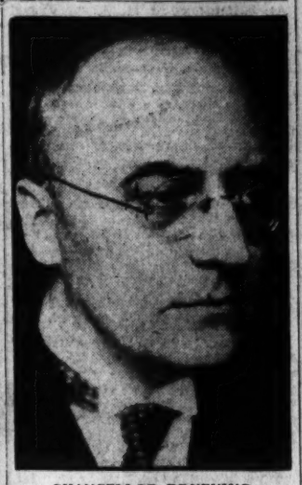
Washington will continue to enjoy a breathing spell between heat waves today when the temperature, according to the forecast, will be about the same as yesterday. The maximum yesterday was 91 degrees. Kiosk temperature was 98.

Humidity was higher yesterday. It was 71 per cent at 8 o'clock in the morning, 58 at noon and 48 at 3 o'clock. Last night was cooler. Non-official weather prophets in Washington are speculating on whether the temperature will ever reach the 100 mark this summer. The highest temperature thus far has been 99. The second hottest day was registered two days ago with 98 degrees.

Suffering from heat exhaustion, Alice Boyd, 21, colored, yesterday was removed from her home at 931 P street northwest to Freedmen's Hospital.

Help From Germans Is Urged by Bruening

Avers Rock Foundations of Real Progress Are Now Visible.



CHANCELLOR BRUENING.

Berlin, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Heinrich Bruening, chancellor of Germany, tonight appealed over the radio to the only power at present able to pull the nation through the next few weeks of economic stress—the German people themselves.

Frankly telling his fellow citizens that the real burden of restoring financial stability to the Fatherland rested on themselves, Herr Bruening warmly commended the calmness and common sense with which they stood the nerve test of the last three weeks. His hearers had a right to know, he said, what their government has been doing and trying to do to meet the emergency.

The chancellor asserted that in the first place the government was not claiming infallibility. It has been doing its best, he said, but does not pretend that the best has been in every way sufficient.

What the government does contend is that it acted vigorously and boldly instead of wasting precious moments attempting to arrive at a theoretically perfect solution.

The chancellor pointed out that beneath the shattered fragments of some of the hopes built on tthe Hoover plan and later on the London conference, the rock foundations of real progress are beginning to be visible.

One of the positive results of the crisis, he said, is that "the whole world today is agreed that the destinies of the peoples are most closely welded together and that disturbances in the organism of a great economic body, such as Germany, can not remain without grave consequences in other countries."

However, Herr Bruening continued, the world is not likely to regain con-

INA CLAIRE DIVORCED FROM JOHN GILBERT

Tells Los Angeles Judge of Twice Leaving Mate; Settlement Made.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Ina Claire, stage and screen star, was granted a divorce late today from John Gilbert, romantic figure of the screen, at a brief session behind closed doors in the court of Superior Judge Joseph P. Sprout. Gilbert was not present.

Paul Born, motion picture executive, and the actress' secretary, Stena Larson, appeared as corroborating witnesses. At the hearing it was announced a property settlement had been made out of court.

Later, in the offices of his attorney, Gilbert denied there had been a property settlement in the usual sense of the term, stating he had merely reimbursed Miss Claire for certain expenditures made while she was his wife.

At the divorce session Miss Claire told of leaving Gilbert twice and of returning to him twice.

"Then it became impossible to live with him any more," she said.

Once, she went on, she received a letter from him, saying, "I have tried to make a go of it, but everything is against us. I am sure that we will be giving ourselves a better chance by living apart. But I am not for company, nor do I want anyone about me."

Gilbert's statement said:

"Whatever the reason, and wherever the responsibility for the failure lies, one thing has been established and that is the dignity of the lady who was Mrs. Gilbert.

"She has been more than fair in every way and has refused all offers of a financial settlement from me. In fact, I know that money has never been in her thoughts at all. She voluntarily signed away, one year after our marriage, all rights to my property.

"And the only time money has been mentioned at all between us was as the result of our lawyers' efforts to wipe the slate clean, in auditing certain legitimate expenditures made by her as my wife during the two years since our marriage."

They were married May 9, 1929.

Edison Able to Walk To His Auto for Ride

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Physicians granted the request of Thomas A. Edison that he be permitted to take an auto ride this afternoon and the 84-year-old inventor, recovering from illness, walked unassisted to the car.

A big sedan stood alongside the touring car as Edison left the house. He waived it aside and chose the open car.

JOHN W. RUST WINS IN SENATE PRIMARY

Col. Jesse, of Arlington, Admits Nomination of Fairfax Rival.

Col. Charles T. Jesse, of Arlington County, early this morning conceded the Democratic nomination for State senator in the Thirtieth Virginia District, to his opponent, John W. Rust, of Fairfax County.

Although totals from the nearby Virginia precinct were not available, it appeared the lead piled up by Col. Jesse in his home county, and in Alexandria, was wiped out by heavy Rust gains in Fairfax and Prince William Counties.

Col. Jesse himself acknowledged defeat shortly after midnight. He sent the following telegram to the man who beat him in the race:

"I congratulate you and assure you of my hearty cooperation."

Mr. Rust late last night had a majority of 1,599 votes over Jesse in the heaviest vote cast in the history of the county.

Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, was the leader in the race for the House of Delegates with 1,308 votes over John C. MacKall, of Langley, with 1,203 votes and Herbert Williams, of East Woodford, Centerville District, with 660 votes. However, MacKall's home district was yet to be heard from and it was said to be certain that he would carry it by a large majority.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby, of Fairfax County, was leading for reelection by 843 votes over Harvey Cross. Dr. F. W. Huddleson, encumbent, was leading by 150 votes in the race for county treasurer over C. C. Carr and Alton Money. Returns from the Langley District, not received at midnight, are expected to decide this race. James W. Kincheloe was leading by a large majority for the office of commissioner of revenue over A. Page Wrenn. Wilson M. Farr, encumbent, of Fairfax, with 418 votes, was leading for Commonwealth attorney over Harold E. Hanes, of Herndon.

Returns in the election of supervisors were as follows: Centerville

Pangborn, Herndon Still On Ground in Siberia

Moscow, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Unfavorable weather conditions in eastern Siberia and over the north Pacific continued today to delay the around-the-world flight of Clyde E. Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr.

The American fliers, who have lost all hope of breaking the Post-Gatty record, have been at Khabarovsk since yesterday. They landed there after a difficult flight from Chita through a severe storm.

Yacht's Crew Tells Names Of 'Higher Ups' in Rum Ring

Philadelphia, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—While twelve members of the crew of the pleasure yacht Allegro, seized early Monday with liquor valued at $120,000 aboard, were held under $35,000 bail in Camden, N. J., customs agents here revealed tonight that the men had named "higher ups" in a huge rum-running ring dominating the eastern coast.

Frank Laughlin, chief customs agent, asserted members of the alleged crew were intoxicated when the yacht was captured and that they readily answered questions and named their employers. He said valuable papers which gave evidence against New York and Philadelphia men were found in the vessel's strongbox.

Laughlin said members of the crew told him that rum boats could land their cargo on the beach at Atlantic City, unmolested, that everything was "fixed" there and inland. The Coast Guard offered the lone opposition to rumrunners, the arrested men added.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The twelve members of the crew of the pleasure yacht Allegro, captured 95 miles at sea with liquor estimated to be worth $120,000 aboard, were today held in bonds totaling $35,000 for a further hearing before Federal Commissioner Wynn Armstrong.

The yacht, its three motors crippled and its starboard side damaged, was towed to Philadelphia by Coast Guard cutters. The craft was captured Sunday night after a chase which lasted more than three hours.

Two women reported aboard the yacht were identified today as wives of members of the crew. They were released. Coast Guard officers said, soon after being brought to Cape May. When the yacht was sighted the men of the crew appeared to be wearing yachting uniforms and the women were nattily attired in sports clothes, giving the ship every appearance, the Coast Guardsmen said, of being on a pleasure cruise.

LINDBERGH SHIP LEAVES ON HOP OVER BADLANDS

Takes Off at Baker Lake on Daring Flight of 1,115 Miles.

SINGLE JUMP SLATED IF WEATHER PERMITS

Decision of Colonel to Go Directly to Aklavik Is Complete Surprise.

Baker Lake, Northwest Territories, Aug. 4 (By Wireless to Churchill) (A.P.).—Beginning a daring 1,118-mile dash across the most treacherous of Canada's bad lands, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off at 6:35 p. m. (E. S. T.) today for Aklavik.

Contrary to all previous information, it was announced just before the take-off, that if weather permitted a single jump would be made to Aklavik.

"However, we may stop at Copper Mine," said Col. Lindbergh.

The Lindberghs had spent the entire day checking over their plane.

Action Is Surprise.

Before he left the United States they said they would plot a northerly course direct from there to Aklavik. Later at about the time some Canadian aviators expressed apprehension over the safety of such a route it was said the Lindberghs would travel in a more southerly direction by way of Hunter Bay, Fort Norman and up the MacKenzie River to Aklavik.

Col. Lindbergh's announcement that they would go by Copper Mine, which lies on the direct northerly course at the head of Copper Mine River, came as a complete surprise.

The Lindberghs will have the benefit of the unusually long period of daylight in this territory during the summer season.

Upon their arrival here yesterday at 5 p. m. (E.S.T.), 3 hours and 15 minutes after taking off from Churchill, the Lindberghs were applauded by this trading post's dozen white settlers for their navigating ability. They made the 375-mile jump with ease despite the fact their compasses were swinging wildly, due to the proximity of the magnetic pole.

Laughs at Injury Rumor.

The flying colonel enjoyed a good-natured laugh when the radio operator here told him it had been rumored generally he was injured in an attempted take-off. The report had been broadcast even before the lowwing Lockheed was unmoored and made ready for its dash toward Aklavik.

The take-off here was perfect, especially in view of the fact that the plane was heavily loaded with fuel for the longest jump thus far of the Washington-to-Tokyo flight.

The white pontoons, which are also fuel containers, skimmed over the wind-tossed waters, and for a moment it seemed that the swaying plane might dip its low-hung wings into the waves. But the bullet-shaped monoplane eased up, sped along the water, then rose into the blue sky. It circled a parting "good-by" to the waving Eskimos and whites and droned away toward the Arctic coast.

100 Miles Within Circle.

Coppermine, referred to by Col. Lindbergh as a possible stopping place, is about 100 miles within the Arctic Circle and almost exactly halfway to Aklavik. It is a tiny settlement on the low-lying Arctic shore of Coronation Gulf, at the mouth of the wandering Coppermine River. Coronation Gulf is a gigantic break in the north shore of Canada's mainland.

All landings are made on the gulf-shore and planes are pulled up on the muddy bank.

At present the Mounted Police schooner, St. Roch, is lying at the mouth of the Coppermine River.

The Rev. I. B. Webster is the Anglican missionary there and the Rev. Father Pallaize the Roman Catholic priest.

A few independent trappers are operating at present in the district, but the Eskimos left some time ago on a caribou hunt in the interior, leav-

575 Miles Away.

At his usual speed, Col. Lindbergh should be able to land his plane at Coppermine — 575 miles from Baker Lake—before midnight, Eastern standard time. But the slow radio communication from Coppermine to Aklavik and thence down the Mackenzie River network may not report the plane arrival before morning. If the Lindberghs press on nonstop to Aklavik, they probably would reach there by about 5 a. m., Eastern standard time.

In any case, even if the Lindberghs fly through the night, they will not be flying in the dark. The one or two hours of darkness on the Arctic shore are really only a period of twilight. It would be quite possible for the flying colonel to trace the outline of the land over which he is flying at any time during the night. Although the north shore route has been described by northern fliers as highly dangerous due to fog from the cold seawater, it is easier for navigation from at least one standpoint. From Baker Lake to Coppermine, almost a perfect water-route is afforded the air traveler.

Plan to Fly West.

From Baker Lake, the Lindberghs planned to fly direct west along a chain of lakes to Beverly Lake, about 120 miles away. Then they would sped northwest to the looping Beechy River, 100 mies distant, thence to the north-flowing Coppermine River.

From Coppermine to Aklavik, the trip is traced along the north shore to the Mackenzie, then 80 miles south to the midst of the sprawling delta.

Aklavik is on the extreme northwest edge of Northwest Territory.

Dr. J. A. Urquhart will welcome the Lindberghs to Aklavik. He is the Canadian government medical officer at that place. Mrs. Eanes, wife of the R. C. M. P. inspector, and several nurses of the Anglican Hospital, will take care of Mrs. Lindbergh.

Plane Overturns; 3 Escape Injury

New York Publisher and Two Comrades Unhurt in Taking Off.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Joseph Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News, and two companions narrowly escaped serious injury today when his amphibian turned over in an attempted take-off for his Ossining, N. Y., estate.

Alicia Patterson, daughter of the publisher, had been sitting in the plane talking with her father, but she left the cabin a few minutes before the ship started down the runway.

In the ship with Patterson were Pilot Frederick Becker and Mechanic Charles Suttor. Becker switched off the ignition when he saw a crash was coming and thus averted fire. All three occupants succeeded in extricating themselves before field attendants reached the scene. Shortly afterward Patterson ordered his biplane brought out of a hangar and took off in it for Ossining.

Fire After Fierce Heat Brings $200,000 Ruin

Calipatria, Calif., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Fire, following days of fierce desert heat which caused 40 deaths in the Imperial Valley recently, destroyed one-fourth of the business district here today. The damage was estimated at $200,000.

A water shortage, caused by the low level of the Colorado River, hampered fire fighters. Imperial Valley farmers and urban residents are faced with possible water rationing. The Weather Bureau reported July the hottest month for the valley in 54 years.

Trucker's Detention In Georgia Protested

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Georgia Motor Vehicle Department today received a protest from Virginia authorities on the detention of a Virginia truck driver who was forced to qualify as a Georgia motor carrier Monday.

The truck driver, J. M. Slade, was not arrested but was compelled to pay $60 to qualify as a Georgia carrier and an additional $25 for a tag, it was said at the Public Service Commission. He came into Georgia to transport a load of furniture.

Two Youths With $742 Held for Robbery Quiz

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Two youths who failed to explain to the satisfaction of police their possession of $742, much of it in small bills and coins, were held today for questioning concerning a recent $1,000 safe robbery at Harrisburg, Pa.

Stains believed to be from blood were found on a coat in the room the youths occupied, police said. They gave their names as Francis Sullivan, 20, Baton Rouge, La., and William Blue, 18, Miami, Fla.

U. S. Complains Against Owners of Wild Horses

(Associated Press.)

The Justice Department announced yesterday it was taking action in the form of a legal complaint against wild horses reported to be trespassing on the Shoshone Indian Reservation, Cheyenne, Wyo.

A complaint on behalf of the Government, the department said, already has been sent to the United States attorney for Wyoming against Elisha Henton and others, reported to be the owners of several thousand wild horses.

OPERA IS SUSTAINED FOR VIRGIN ISLANDS

Needed to Build Up Morale of Natives, Says Edwards, Acting Interior Head.

The staging of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas in the Virgin Islands is designed to build up the morale of the natives, Acting Secretary of the Interior John H. Edwards said yesterday.

In a community where there is so much poverty, he said, it is important that something be done to lift the morale of the people, just as the Salvation Army seeks to improve the morale of unfortunates in this country.

Judge Edwards—he was formerly solicitor of the department—made the statement in commenting on the attack which Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, launched the day before on Paul M. Pearson, the American governor of the Virgin Islands.

Unauthorized Jobs Charged.

Mr. Brown, who was responsible for the transfer of the islands from the Navy Department to the Interior Department, and who recommended Gov. Pearson to President Hoover, accused the governor of creating jobs that were not authorized by Congress.

Mr. Brown loosed his attack on Gov. Pearson after reading an exclusive dispatch in The Post last Sunday. He directed his criticism particularly at two of the jobs—"director of public entertainment" and "supervisor of adult education."

The director of public entertainment is Ralph Dunbar, an old friend of Gov. Pearson. Thus far, Mr. Dunbar has staged "Pinafore" for the natives, using a real boat in the harbor, and he is now planning to boost morale with a production of another of the rollicking Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, "Pirates of Penzance."

Head of Playgrounds.

The supervisor of adult education is Mary Flynn, who, like Mr. Dunbar, was for many years associated with Gov. Pearson in chautauqua work. Her job is to establish playgrounds and to persuade the natives to take part in community exercises and diversions.

Gov. Pearson created two other jobs that were not specifically authorized by Congress in appropriating money for the Virgin Islands—commissioner of industry and supervisor of handicraft. Harry E. Taylor is the commissioner of industry and Ruth Martin is supervisor of handicraft.

In discussing these four jobs yesterday, Acting Secretary of the Interior Edwards pointed out that the combined salaries amount to only $15,200 a year. Granting that Congress had not specifically authorized them, he expressed the opinion that the appropriation act was sufficiently broad to permit of their creation.

Job-Producing Group.

"The four positions," Judge Edwards said, "should be separated into two groups. One is a prosperity, or job-producing group, and the other is a morale-building group.

"The commissioner of industry, Mr. Taylor, was hired to attract industries to the islands, to carry out the homestead plan and to supervise the building of a hotel for tourists. If he succeeds, he will, in a measure at least, add to the prosperity of the islands.

"Miss Martin, the supervisor of the handicraft, is employed to teach the natives to turn out salable objects that might be made at home, and a number of articles turned out under her supervision are now on exhibition in New York. She, with Mr. Taylor, constitutes the prosperity group.

"Mr. Dunbar, who is in charge of public entertainment, and Miss Flynn, who is encouraging the natives to take part in community activities—they are the morale-building group.

Jobs Ultimate Aim.

"Now I am willing to admit that there is room here for a difference of opinion. Some will say that it is ridiculous to be giving the natives music when what they really need is jobs. Others will appreciate the need of keeping up the morale of the natives, the while we try to provide them with jobs.

"As I say, there is room for a difference of opinion here. However, Gov. Pearson has only been in charge about four months. Why not give him a chance to try out his plans? If, later on, these plans do not work out well, they can be abandoned."

Mr. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, does not agree with his friend, Judge Edwards, that Congress gave Gov. Pearson such latitude where jobs were concerned. Congress, he said, specifically authorized just so many jobs and no more. Therefore, he argues, Gov. Pearson has exceeded his authority.

Rewards Swarthmore Friends.

What aroused the ire of Mr. Brown as much as the creation of new jobs was Gov. Pearson's award of jobs to friends from his home town, Swarthmore, Pa.

There are indications that the Interior Department also was somewhat irritated by this. Without consulting the department, Gov. Pearson asked some eight or ten men and women to work under him in the Virgin Islands. By the time the Interior Department learned that Gov. Pearson had formed his own cabinet, the aforementioned men and women had resigned the jobs they held in this country and were making preparations to head South. Consequently the Interior Department did not interfere.

Hoover Is Silent.

Mr. Brown yesterday stood on the statement he made the day before, and he again declined to discuss the 75-page complaint which he filed with President Hoover in asking for the removal of Gov. Pearson.

President Hoover has maintained silence so far as the Virgin Islands controversy is concerned.

Use of Gasoline Mounts 36,715,000 Gallons

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Gasoline consumption in 45 States and the District of Columbia for the month of May, as indicated by reports made by dealers under provisions of tax or inspection laws, totaled 1,202,340,000 gallons, compared with 1,165,625,000 gallons for May, 1930, an increase of 36,715,000 gallons, or 3.1 per cent.

The consumption for the five months ended with May, 1931, amounted to 4,990,303,000 gallons, compared with 4,838,117,000 gallons for the corresponding period of 1930, an increase of 152,186,000 gallons, or 3.1 per cent.

McBride Warns Of Dry Straddling

Antisaloon Head Says That Parties Must Be Clear on 1932 Rum Stand.

(Associated Press.)

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said yesterday that "half measures or attempts to straddle on prohibition will be suicidal on the part of the political party that attempts it."

"In the 1932 campaign," he said in a statement, "neither political party can afford to be neutral on this question either in its platform or in its candidate.

"While the plank sought in party platforms by the dry group will be one committing the party to enforcement of law, the attitude of the standard bearer of each party must be unequivocal on the prohibition question. The attitude of the candidate more than any other fact will determine the party's attitude."

ORGANIC ACT DRAWN FOR VIRGIN ISLANDS

Colonial Council Members Maintain Secrecy on Terms of Code.

Army men, these two former soldiers must have been exceptionally well qualified or the Navy would have put them off the islands years ago.

Gov. Pearson fired them both even before he got here. He appointed Mr. George Ivans, a young man 25 years of age, one of his former elocution students at Swarthmore, Pa., at $4,200, as director of education.

Miss Mary L. Flynn, secretary and business adviser to the governor when he was engaged in Chautauqua work, was given the other position—that is, she was given the $3,900 salary, but the title was changed to "director of adult education." As there are no adults in the Virgin Islands who care for any further education, of course Miss Flynn has no one to direct, and nothing particular to do, except sign the pay roll twice a month.

Ouster Move Resisted.

Lindborg and Benedict put up a gallant fight to retain their jobs. Even the Navy felt a little upset about their removal, though they were doughboys, who are not ordinarily considered very important by seafaring men. The Navy has just offered Lindborg the appointment as director of education in the Island of Tutuila, American Samoa, where the Navy still holds on, and he leaves here with his family within the next two weeks, via San Francisco and Hawaii.

Benedict did not have such good luck. He had been expecting to get the same kind of post on the island of Guam, in the Pacific Ocean, but the Interior Department, perhaps anticipating some such strategy on the part of the Navy, persuaded the President to transfer control of the island to that department, thus cutting off a hoped-for refuge. This doughty soldier of fortune, however, has not yet surrendered. He is hoping that the United States Congress will buy some other island that might need the services of a one-legged assistant director of education.

I understand that the local government has it in mind to request Mr. Benedict not to be too hasty to leave, as the American Legion has sent some suggestions in reference to the matter.

Receipts Were Inadequate.

The costumes, paint pots, masks, hats, shoes, scenery, armor, spears, bell-ringers' equipment, and other paraphernalia needed for a theatrical presentation, weighing about two tons, were shipped to these islands at the time the governor and the director of public entertainment, Robert Dunbar, arrived. This equipment belonged to the Swarthmore Chautauqua Co. (not connected with Swarthmore College).

It was used in the production of "Pinafore," last month, near the wharf on a remodeled barge, here at St. Thomas. This was supposed to be a paid performance, but the receipts were not equal to the expenses by $340. The audience consisted mainly of the governor and his female relatives, visitors from Swarthmore, and natives of the islands. The admission fee was $1, which did not apply to government officials, who made up a large part of the audience.

May Reclaim Equipment.

The New York Times recently reported from Swarthmore that this theatrical equipment was a part of the assets of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Co., now in the hands of a bankruptcy court. It is expected a demand will be made for the return of the equipment, which may interfere with presentation of "The Pirates of Penzance," which was scheduled for August, on the hill, with Bluebeard's Castle as a background. This castle, declared actually to have been the stronghold of the famous pirate Bluebeard, is in a fair state of preservation. It is now occupied by the local lodge of thirty-second degree Masons. The castle is only a few hundred yards from Main street, St. Thomas.

I am going to take up my abode on one of the uninhabited islands here, where there is not so much politics and I can think out a few things relating to the beautiful scenery and unsurpassed climate I have been told exists here, but which I have not had time yet to enjoy.

U. S. TO DISCLOSE ITS CAPONE DATA

Mitchell Says Case Must Be Disposed Of by Courts First.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Government intends to keep no secrets about the Scarface Al Capone case and will throw open to the public all available information as soon as the gangster is through with the courts.

This was the answer yesterday of Attorney General Mitchell to questions about a reported agreement between Capone and Federal officials concerning his plea of guilty.

The Government's case against the most widely publicized of racketeers was momentarily disrupted when Federal Judge Wilkerson in Chicago announced in court no previous agreement would influence him. He later allowed Capone to withdraw his plea of guilty to income tax law violations, and set the case for September 8, when he also will decide whether Capone's plea of guilty to prohibition law violations may be withdranw.

Mitchell yesterday reiterated the Government's stand that the problem of the gangster was primarily a State affair. He asserted most Federal weapons against them were "round-about."

"There is not much satisfaction in getting a racketeer for violation of the income tax laws when they are machine gunning children in the streets," he said, referring to the recent incident in New York. "Most of the serious offenses of the gangster are committed against State laws."

As for the Capone case, the Attorney General during the course of a discussion of the Government's activity against racketeers handed to newspapermen the following brief statement:

"As long as the case is pending in the courts, no statement about it can be issued from this department. The reason for this is obvious. After the case is finally disposed of in the courts, any information we may have about it here will be available to the press or to anyone who is interested."

Turning to specific Federal activity against gangsters in Chicago and New York, where, he said, the Justice Department now was cooperating with immigration officials on deportable aliens as well as with Internal Revenue agents, the Attorney General continued:

"Every time we make a move like that people think we are taking over the entire job of extinguishing rackets. It is not our job. Of course we are glad to help. But there will be rackets as long as the public in the municipalities allows them to stay."

Asked if the Government was planning for additional legislation to help curb gangster activity, Mitchell replied that "the problem can't be handled by passing more Federal laws."

"The Government is not in a position to handle local offenses even if it wanted to," he asserted. "It is not right to shoulder off this problem on Uncle Sam.

"In fact, it would be the worst thing that could happen if all these cases were dumped into Federal hands. It would upset our whole scheme of government. The whole spirit of our institutions requires that these cases should be handled by local institutions."

Ford Cut Temporary, Pending Better Model

Detroit, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Detroit News, commenting on a recently announced reduction of the employment roster of the Ford Motor Co., says that an official of the company has reported that the reduction is temporary in preparation for an "improved model" in September and that not less than 30,000 men will be continuously employed during the current month.

The News says that the daily pay roll of the Ford company during the current month will approximate $500,000 and that a September schedule calling for 100,000 units of the "improved model" has been issued. The paper says that no change is expected in the motor design of the automobile.

Lloyd George Reported Making Good Progress

London, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A most satisfactory report on the condition of David Lloyd George was issued by his physicians tonight.

The bulletin said the former premier was making steady progress, was free from pain, slept well and his general condition was improving. He was operated on for a kidney ailment last week.

Writer Lends His Dispute; Prefers Southern Clime

By JOHN J. DALY

THERE is confusion and great indignation.

Horace Greeley told young men to go West and grow up with the country.

Bernard Shaw says go East and commune with Russia, advising young men to get out of the foolish countries.

Col. Charles Lindbergh and his wife in the land of the Aurora Borealis proclaim the Frozen North.

"I just love the North," exclaims Mrs. Lindbergh, watching the spectacular play of northern lights.

"A night's rest in the North is as good as a week in the South," says the colonel, refreshed after five hours' slumber.

Only one point of the compass now needs recommendation—the South, slightly disparaged by the colonel, but Senator Pat Harrison may be expected to take that up at the next session of Congress.

The South, with its Vermilion Sea and its Virgin Islands, seems far more alluring than all the rest—the romance lands, swooning in pale moonlight, redolent with jasmine and magnolias. Lady, play your mandolin!

Look ye to the East, was the first call of civilization from the cradle. The world awakened in the East with the rising of the sun. The Wise Men came out of the East, which proved their wisdom. The East is old, worn out; its glories are departed. Its decrepit and tattered trappings furnished meretricious material for Kipling, its last lone troubadour.

So, too, the West—the land of the setting sun. Westward, the course of empire, once took its way, but the West is jaded, too. It is the end of the journey matrimonial. Night comes out of the West—darkness, death, dissolution.

* * * *

THE North is cold—the lair of Old Boreas, the North Wind. Winter whistles there, and icebergs glitter in deathly light. The North is the icy grave of heroic men.

Give us the South—our own Southern States, with honeysuckle and lilac in profusion; the far flung South of the Southern Cross and lovers' sighs; Mexico, topaz and opal Mexico, the Land of Manana, where no one thinks of doing today what can be put off till tomorrow. Give us the South American Eldorados, South Africa, the South Sea Islands, the Elysian Fields.

Let the Norwegian and the Swede, the Lapp and the Eskimo, and the skirling Highlanders have their North, with the wind that comes howling down over the Firth from Burnt Island and the Icelandic hills.

Even the names of the towns—Moose Factory, Medicine Hat, Point Barrow, Spitzenbergen, Aklavik, are repellant, unlike the southern sobriquets—Buenos Aires, Santiago de los Caballeros, Miraflores, Honolulu, Agua Dulce, Playa del Mar—places inhabited by hula-hula girls and glorious beauties, both wine-dark and alabaster. Of course, Mr. Shaw contrariwise, it's every man to his taste. The doctors and surgeons, who see no pleasure even in the health of their friends, would seek no climate that by its very nature precluded the practice of their profession. There are such places on earth, where men lead the simple life without benefit of physician.

* * * *

LAWYERS could not reasonably be content in a community where all men were honest, for it is by the contention of men, their conniving and contracting, that the legal lights shine.

Even the clergymen would have a hard time working to circumvent the devil in a place that was heaven on earth.

In the Balkan States, by adhering strictly to a buttermilk diet—the lacteal fluid of the mountain goat—men live to the ripe old age of 150 years, which discourages the migration there of American morticians.

Russia may look good to Mr. Shaw, the far frozen North may have a particular appeal to the Lindberghs as they fly away from it to the East as fast as their plane will carry them, and the men who went West on Greeley's advice may have other notions by this time; but the South, ah, the South still beckons!

If Sovietism is bent on leveling mankind, Russia will not attract the merry merchants. They thrive best when rich men's sons are permitted to run wild and loose. On such wantonness trade thrives. The Whoopee Parlors of Broadway are there to attest it.

After all, no man or set of men can control the compass of human affairs. The politicians will still seek Washington, the artists will continue on to the Quartier Latin, and Soldiers of Fortune will seek the countries enjoying the highest pitch of turmoil and revolution.

The husbandman will cultivate his farm, wherever it is, the confirmed bachelor will hide away in his club.

Nature seldom deviates from her general polity. Thus, the reason why Australians live "Down Under" and the Eskimos, on cakes of ice, are sitting on top of the world.

Shaw tells the world to go to Russia. The world tells Shaw to go to Heligoland.

Argentine Cadets Visit Navy Plants

Midshipmen See Capital on Training Cruise; Call at White House.

Forty-six midshipmen and officers from Argentina, who are on their annual training cruise aboard the Presidente Sarmiento, stopped in Washington yesterday. They were greeted at the White House by President Hoover, after visiting the United States Naval Academy and the United States Navy Yard here.

The delegation of future Argentine naval officers was headed by Commander Francisco Lajous, in charge of the ship on which the cruise is being made. Commander Lajous was naval attache at the Argentine Embassy until last year. The midshipmen were presented to President Hoover by Felipe Espil, Argentine Ambassador.

Before departing, the midshipmen were given a reception at the Argentine Embassy, which was attended by diplomatic and governmental officials, including Admiral Sexton, assistant chief of naval operations; Admiral Butler, commandant of the navy yard, and Oreme Wilson, in charge of Latin-American affairs of the State Department.

Steps Are Taken To Speed Traffic

Three Signal Lights Will Be Eliminated; Stop Signs, Instead.

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer yesterday took his first step in a previously announced policy of eliminating unnecessary signal lights for the purpose of speeding traffic.

Upon his recommendation the District Commissioners ordered three signal lights removed and replaced by "Stop" signs. The lights are at the intersections of Connecticut avenue and Ashmead place and Seventh and K streets and Ninth and K streets, all in the northwest section.

The new traffic director is also giving consideration to a proposal to turn off the signal lights at all times except during the rush periods in the morning and afternoon.

Cars Cross Area Reached On Wheels for First Time

National Geographic Society Advised of Success of Haardt Transasia Expedition in Perilous Trip. Through Pamirs; 3 Parties Share Triumph.

"Cars arrived 10 today," was the message received by the National Geographic Society headquarters here yesterday from the Citroen-Haardt Trans-Asia Expedition, signalizing the triumph of two motor cars over the first arduous leg of a journey through the Pamirs, the "roof of the world" area in central Asia never before traversed by a wheeled vehicle.

Two light but powerful cars, depending upon band drives instead of rear driving wheels, made the climb. The motor party, preceded by a small advance party, was accompanied by a caravan of mountain ponies and 150 native bearers.

The three sections of the main expedition, which fought its way mile by mile through passes which had been practically obliterated by heavy rains and over mighty landslides, highe rthan many peaks of the European Alps, constituted the largest group ever permitted on the Gilgit road, which is maintained by the British and Kashmiri governments primarily for military purposes.

While the expedition was encamped near Srinagar, several weeks ago, parts of the Pamirs were deluged by some of the heaviest rains in history. The Jhelum River overflowed its banks and bridges and riverside structures were threatened. Telegrams to the expedition from Gilgit stated that large sections of the trail to that station and to Hunza, still higher in the mountains, had been washed out.

The main section of the expedition, which is headed by Georges Marie Haardt, leader of the entire caravan, has about 150 miles to go before reaching the border of Chinese Turkestan, from which it will proceed to Kashgar in Turkestan. At Kashgar the main group will be joined by a smaller section which has been making its way across the Gobi Desert from Pekin, China. Both sections will then continue to Pekin.

Although not experiencing as much road difficulty as the main group, the Chinese motor section has been hindered by bandit raids and sandstorms, both of which arrived without any warning. Several weeks have elapsed since any word has been heard from the Chinese caravan.

Freight-Car Loadings For Week 15,803 Less

(Associated Press.)

Revenue freight loadings for the week ended July 25 were announced yesterday by the American Railway Association as totaling 741,752 cars. This was a decrease of 15,803 cars below the preceding week and a decrease of 177,549 cars below the same week a year ago.

Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 278,796 cars, a decrease of 76,131 below the same week of 1930. Merchandise, 212,153; decrease, 18,817. Coal, 112,291; decrease, 28,446. NEGRO POPULATION MOVES NORTHWARD

Center Quits Georgia for Undetermined Point in State of Tennessee.

(Associated Press.)

The center of Negro population, which traveled Southward and Westward from the first census in 1790, until World War industries changed its trend in 1920, steered rapidly North by East in the last decade.

Northern cities were the magnet drawing it from the northwest corner of Georgia well up into Tennessee. Just how far North it has traveled is still a problem for the census geographers to work out on race classification figures announced yesterday by the Census Bureau. They showed a 13.6 per cent increase in the Negro population for the decade ended 1930, as compared with but 6.5 in 1920.

On that 6.5 per cent 1920 population increase, the Negro population center took a jog 19.4 miles North, 9.4 miles East.

In New York, Negro population increased from 152,467, in 1920, to 327,706, in 1930; from 2.7 to 4.7 per cent of the population. In Chicago, the jump was from 109,458 to 233,903, from 4.1 to 6.9 per cent of the population. In Detroit the increase was from 40,838 to 120,066 or from 4.1 to 7.7 per cent of the population. Philadelphia's increase was from 134,229 to 219,599, or from 7.4 to 11.3 per cent of population.

Atlanta, where the percentage of Negro population decreased from 33.5 in 1910 to 31.3 in 1920, rose from 62,796 Negroes to 90,075 in 1930—or back to a 33.3 per cent basis. In the first decade, Memphis gained from 37.7 per cent Negroes to 38.1; New Orleans from 26.1 to 28.3; Washington from 25.1 to 27.1.

Bank Run Declared Broken in Mexico

About $1,500,000 Is Paid Out to Depositors in Day and Half.

Meico City, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Officials of the Banco Nacional de Mexico said this afternoon that they believed the run on the bank which began yesterday was definitely broken today.

The crowd of depositors waiting to withdraw their money this afternoon was much smaller than this morning. It was said the bank paid out over 3,000,000 pesos (about $1,500,000) in a day and a half.

The peso also returned today to more nearly its normal relation to the dollar when it was quoted at 3 to 1 for the first time since the Calles monetary reform went into effect a week ago. The Bank of Mexico was paying 2.75 pesos for a dollar at noon and some other banks were selling dollars for 2.80.

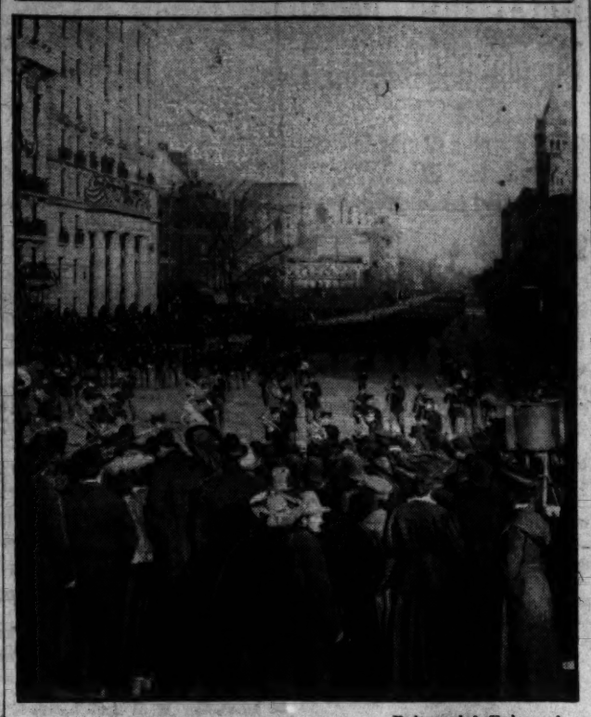
When Washington Was Younger—No. 4



Underwood & Underwood.

ELINOR GUNN, The Post fashion expert, will hardly write about the styles to be seen in this photo and yet it is only 26 years old. This scene was snapped during the inauguration of President Roosevelt in 1905.

Plenty of derbies were the rule in those days while milady's hats were quite the rage although the modern flapper probably would turn up her nose if asked to wear one.

The uniforms of the band are hardly as bespangled as those of present day theater ushers, but they drew plenty of admiring glances At the extreme right is an old style panoramic camera taking shots down the avenue.

LABOR FEDERATION SEES GAIN IN TRADE

'Tangible Signs of Progress' Noted in Report of Organization.

(Associated Press.)

United States business is seen by the American Federation of Labor as "beginning to show tangible signs of progress."

In its monthly survey made public yesterday the federation said "a number of consumer industries have definitely turned upward."

"Production of automobile tires, shoes, wool goods and cotton goods," it continued, "has been moving up since the low point in November or December. A slight downturn with the June dull season does not mar the definite upward trend."

Tracing other depressions, the federation said "basic industries usually start up later."

No general upturn has yet appeared, the survey concluded, "and a collapse in Germany might create panic and send trade downward in spite of these improvements."

Parade to Open Annual Legion Session Tonight

Floats more colorful than any seen before are promised tonight in the parade of the District department of the American Legion, which will open the thirteenth annual legion convention at Buchanan School. The convention will continue through Friday.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing post, winner of the last three parades, announced last night it will enter a float representing a $1 bill printing press, together with a printer and girl assistants dressed in the style characteristic at the time the press was in use. The machine will be in operation during the parade and will be electrically lighted, it was announced.

U.S. AGENCIES SHOW AID TO UNEMPLOYED

Three Reports Detail Steps Under Way and Planned to Provide Jobs.

(United Press.)

Three official reports yesterday combined to show some of the work being done by the Federal Government to alleviate unemployment, and in announcing one of them President Hoover said that by fall $300,000,000 of public building would be under way.

Two of the reports were announced by the President at a press conference.

1. A Treasury report showing the status of the Federal building program as of July 15. It showed a total of 758 projects authorized, to cost $453,000,000. This figure included $25,326,876 completed since May 15, 1929.

2. A Department of Labor report stating that Federal and cooperating non-Federal employment agencies had placed 638,689 persons in jobs between April 1 and July 31.

A third report by the President's emergency committee for employment gave data supplied by cooperating agencies in 34 localities over the country. They showed no general trend, but dealt mostly with conditions in the locality concerned.

Green Urges Conference.

While these reports were being issued President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech at New Bedford, Mass., estimated the present number of unemployed at 6,000,000. He proposed an immediate conference of financial, labor and economic leaders to discuss unemployment and said they ought to pledge themselves to retain employes now at work. At the White House it was said no word has been received from Mr. Green making such a proposal.

There have been reports in the last few days of the work of Federal agencies designed to coordinate relief in preparation for next winter. The reports today dealt with the situation just now.

The labor report was submitted to the President by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, and dealt with the work of the reorganized Employment Service of his department. On July 31, he reported, there were 332 Federal and cooperating non-Federal agencies working to find jobs. Between April 1 and July 31, he reported, these agencies provided a total of 638,569 jobs, of which Federal agencies supplied 281,769.

He spoke enthusiastically of the work and said:

"Despite the prevalent unfavorable economic conditions we feel that our efforts will have an appreciable effect upon the employment situation during the approaching winter."

The Treasury report on building detailed the progress made with the building program to July 15. President Hoover, in an accompanying statement, said that a total of 758 projects had been specifically authorized at a cost of $453,000,000, and summarized the progress in the last two months as follows:

1. Six buildings were completed at a cost of $2,010,000, the two-year total on completed buildings was brought to $25,326,876.

2. Contracts were let for 42 additional buildings, and these are ready for workmen. The present number of buildings under contract, but not completed is 192, with a total eventual cost of $135,637,366.

3. Forty-seven buildings were brought to the stage where contracts were in process, sites having been acquired and plans completed. There now are 61 buildings in this category, estimated to cost $44,249,800.

Plans for 192 Under Way.

4. Plans were under way, after acquisition of sites, for 49 additional works. There are altogether 192 in this stage, estimated to cost $181,353,023.

5. Sites were acquired, or are being negotiated for on 34 additional projects. There are 100 altogether at this stage, to cost $32,301,841.

6. There are 156 projects altogether in which bids have been opened for sites. These are estimated to cost $34,871,800.

The emergency employment committee's report gave no picture of the general situation, but contained reports giving the situation in individual towns and districts. There was notable improvement in Arkansas, particularly in rural districts where there is a bumper crop this year.

There was no great change in the situation as reported from key cities, but there was one note of color from Denver, where the city offered jobs to men, women and children picking dandelions in city parks at 5 cents a pound.

RECEIVER IS SOUGHT FOR $83,000 AWARD

C. I. T. Corporation Wants $7,000 Settlement From J. McReynolds.

The District Supreme Court was asked yesterday to appoint a receiver to take charge of the $83,000 which Justice Oscar R. Luhring last week held to be due Joseph McReynolds and his wife, Ellen T. McReynolds, of 5611 Connecticut avenue northwest.

The request was made by the C. I. T. Corporation, 1200 Fifteenth street northwest, which holds a judgment of $7,000 against Mr. McReynolds. The court is informed that immediately after the filing of the memorandum opinion in which Justice Luhring indicated Mr. McReynolds and his wife had a large amount due them from the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., which was merged with the Federal-American Bank, Mr. McReynolds placed on record an assignment giving his share of the judgment, when officially rendered, to his wife. The C. I. T. Corporation claims this assignment was "in fraud of the creditors of McReynolds."

The corporation asked that the bank be enjoined from paying over the money to Mr. McReynolds or his wife until the $7,000 claim is settled. Attorneys Albert E. Steinem and Lawrence J. Heller appeared for the corporation.

'Hoppers, on Wing, Menace Wide Area

Flying Insects Are Able to Move 40 Miles in Single Day.

(Associated Press.)

Reports that grasshoppers infesting South Dakota and Nebraska have developed into the flying stage, menacing a wider area in their ravages, were received yesterday at the Agriculture Department. Since entomologists state they can fly 40 miles daily, there appears to be little hope of full control of the pest this season.

George L. Hoffman, director of the seed loan office, which is acting on President Hoover's assurance that Federal assistance will be given these sections, conferred with the Chief Executive yesterday, but did not reveal the nature of the conference.

Preliminary reports of damage in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana and North Dakota, by insects and moisture shortage, now are being received. Dr. Larrimer said his information was that the poisoning campaign in the grasshopper-ridden States was being actively conducted.

Nicaraguan Rebels Riddle U. S. Plane

Crew Reports 16 Shots Fired Into It Before Crash Came.

(Associated Press.)

Word received at Marine headquarters here from Sergt. Gordon W. Heritage and Corpl. Orville B. Simmons, now officially reported safe in Managua, revealed that their plane was riddled with insurgents' bullets before it crashed in a northeastern Nicaragua swamp on July 22.

Another Marine plane, which was with them when a party of insurgents suddenly opened fire, escaped with two bullet holes in its wings.

After Heritage and Simmons crashed they counted 16 bullet holes in their plane. They burned the craft when they found it impossible to get it into the air again. After 40 miles through the jungle they reached Puerto Cabezas. A friendly Indian with a canoe, helped them elude the insurgents.

New Harbor Lines Set On Washington Channel

New harbor lines have been established on the entire Washington Channel of the Potomac River from the Army War College to Fourteenth street. These lines, it was announced yesterday, are in conformity with the recent report made to Congress on the general improvement of the Washington Channel waterfront.

A public hearing was held on this change last May, when they were approved. Copies of the approval maps of the new change may be obtained from the War Department.

Mires to Quit Post In Revenue Office

Assistant Commissioner to Be Succeeded, August 8, by Ralph Smith.

The resignation of Harris F. Mires, as assistant to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, effective August 8, was announced today by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills. Mr. Mires, who will return to the practice of public accountancy, submitted his resignation to President Hoover early in June, with the request that it be made effective as of June 30. Due, however, to the illness of Commissioner Burnet, Mr. Mires consented to remain at his post until his superior's return.

Before his departure for Europe Secretary Mellon wrote Mr. Mires a letter expressing the regret of the department on his resignation and commending him for his loyal and effective service.

Mr. Mires was appointed assistant to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue by President Coolidge on May 16, 1928, having served in the bureau since January 1920.

Announcement was also made of the appointment of Ralph E. Smith as the new assistant to the commissioner succeeding Mr. Mires. Mr. Smith was formerly head of the civil division in the office of the general counsel.

The GIRL About Town

IT was so hot Monday night that Cynthia and I motored at a 50-mile clip out to Olney Inn for our dinner. We got cooled off and had a good dinner, fried chicken galore, and found a host of Washingtonians there. Mrs. James Carroll Frazer came over to express her gratification that the last payment had been met on the Belleau Wood memorial. That historic wheat field in France will ever remain a tribute to the brave "Devil Dogs." Mrs. Frazer was honored by a couple of decorations and received the gratitude of the Marines for her share in the preservation.

SHOPPING in the Boston Store after luncheon, I ran into Mrs. George Barnett, widow of the World War commandant of the Marines. Mrs. Barnett is very attractive in her widow's weeds, and she confided to me that she is editing Gen. Barnett's memoirs. I understand the memoirs speak right out in meeting about Josephus Daniels and his conduct of the Navy in the World War. Josephus has two bright anchors over the doorway of his Raleigh home, to show that once he was "Secretary of the Navee."

Yesterday was quite an Army and Navy day with me because, in my mail was a little note from that prince of cavaliers, Brig. Gen. William E. Horton. I do not believe he is grieving, as they say, over the marriage of the former Gertrude Klemm to Charles Mason Remey. He was best man at the marriage and quite the life of the party, so I am told. "Billy" Horton knows there are as fine fish in the matrimonial sea as have ever been caught.

NOW that the King of Siam and his queen are on the way home after a glorious holiday in the U. S. A., the State Department officials may tell the truth about that epistle which came from the king, declaring that his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Prince and Princess something or other—I am rusty in my Siamese—had been wrongly placed at a Washington dinner party, below a certain "Mr. and Mrs." The State Department answered with due ceremony that the placing of guests at this particular dinner party had been arranged by his majesty's representative in Washington, the Siamese Minister.

In the matter of Siam, I hear it whispered about that Alice Nibley Smoot, charming former daughter-in-law of Senator Reed Smoot, is to marry David Kaufman, American Minister to Siam. Alice acted as his hostess at a Fourth of July party he gave at his Pennsylvania home when Mabel Walker Willebrandt and the Clarence Grosners were among those present. Alice is a wonderful girl and I guess she could get along with the Siamese very well, even if she did not quite make the grade with the Mormons.

I SEE by the latest news flashes that Miss Mary P. Gibson will be presented to society this fall by her parents, Col. and Mrs. Morris Ernest Locke. All Washington will be interested in this bud, for the "P" in her name stands for "Preston." She is Preston Gibson's daughter by the first marriage of Mrs. Locke, who was Grace McMillan Jarvis, granddaughter of the late Senator McMillan, of Michigan. While this particular Gibson romance was in its heyday and Mary was in her cradle, Preston was writing plays—or swiping them from Shakespeare, some said—and writing them out carefully in his handsome office with its gold desk mountings given him by Grace. That was long, long ago, and Preston is still at his task of equalling Henry the Eighth in the matter of wives. But he disposes of his by divorce rather than by the hatchet.

Full Reciprocity In Car Tags Urged

Action of Other States Is Sought in Plea of Motorists' Body.

(United Press.)

A campaign for full reciprocity among all States in the matter of automobile licenses has been begun by the American Motorists Association.

The preliminary survey shows, according to a recent statement, that only 16 States now grant full reciprocity, while 23 States have reciprocal agreements in regard to licensing of automobiles.

In the general summary made by the association it was found that Mississippi and Texas permit foreign motorists only 25 days of operation, while two more States, Georgia and Tennessee, give the visiting driver 30 days without the necessity of securing a new license. Arkansas, Indiana, Nebraska and Oklahoma have 60-day limitations and there are 13 States which set a 90-day limit on car owners from other States. In addition to these Arizona has a four months law and six months is allowed in Illinois, Iowa, New Mexico and Virginia.

The remaining States and the District of Columbia all have reciprocal agreements.

60-Year-Old Man Reported Missing.

The name of Joseph Hasler, 60, was added yesterday to the police list of missing persons. According to John Smith, who made the report, Mr. Hasler left the place at 235 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, where both men live, Sunday night and has not been seen since.

Apartment House Sale Is Reported

The Bachelor Is Involved in Deal; Large Residence Bought.

Two important real estate transactions were reported yesterday. Guy S. Whiteford, of Whiteford & Jawish, Inc., announced the sale of The Bachelor, five-story brick and stone apartment at 1737 H street northwest, to Clarence B. Hight, for Albert Hislop.

While the consideration was not divulged, the building has an assessed valuation of approximately $135,000. The deal was negotiated some time ago, when Mr. Whiteford was associated with the offices of McKeever & Goss, Inc., title to the property passing yesterday.

McKeever & Goss, Inc., reported the sale of a handsome residential structure at 2622 Connecticut avenue for R. B. Fothergill, St. Petersburg, Fla., to a local investor. While the purchase price was not made public, the property has been held at $75,000. The property is situated at the intersection of Connecticut avenue and Twenty-fourth street northwest, contains 2,300 square feet and is in a first commercial zone. Plans for erection of a large store building on the site are now in progress.

Bellevue Receiver To Be Appeal Plea

Group of Stockholders to Ask New Decision; Funds Sought.

Complainant stockholders in the Bellevue Hotel at 15 E street northwest, have instructed counsel to appeal the decision of Judge Josiah C. Walcott, of the Chancery Court of Delaware, dismissing petition for appointment of a receiver for the property, it was learned last night.

The appeal will be made through Attorneys Jesse C. Duke and Thomas M. Keith, it was said. In refusing the petition, Judge Walcott acknowledged insolvency had been proved, but contended appointment of receivers would only add to the difficulties of the Bellevue Hotel Corporation.

Meanwhile attempts were reported in progress to secure from present stockholders additional capital for use of the corporation. The hotel was financed in large measure by women employes of the Government. A suit is now pending in the District Supreme Court to recover "secret profits" promoters are alleged to have obtained through rebates from contractors and others connected with construction of the property.

Policeman Is Injured As Car Goes Into Ditch

Policeman Frank L. Nussbaum suffered injuries to the chest and slight lacerations of the face early yesterday when he is said to have fallen asleep while driving near Laurel, Md., allowing the machine to run into a ditch. After being taken to his home and treated by Dr. W. W. Sager, police surgeon, he was transferred to Emergency Hospital.

With him in the auto were Miss Mary A. Stewart and William A. Berkeley, according to police. The policeman and Miss Stewart live at 4887 Conduit road. The third member of the party lives at 1858 Ingleside terrace.

Porto Rican Holds Dry Law Is Failure

Island People Opposed to Act in View of Commissioner.

(Associated Press.)

Commissioner Davila, of Porto Rico, predicted yesterday that a vote on prohibition in the island would be overwhelmingly against that law, and said he was going to seek authority from Congress next winter for such a ballot.

Davila said prohibition had failed in Porto Rico. Director Woodcock of the Prohibition Bureau recently criticized the enforcement there and announced plans for providing ten more dry officers.

Davila said it was practically "impossible" to make the dry law effective in the island. "There is no place proportionate to its size where more liquor is sold. The bootleggers thrive, while the island is deprived of $4,000,000 it would get in revenue if prohibition were not in effect," he said.

Parole Advocates Will Get Publicity

Attorney General Orders End to Secrecy Rule Covering Names.

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell issued an order yesterday providing for publication hereafter of the names and addresses of all those who indorse or urge paroles for Federal prisoners.

"It has long been the practice of the department to treat such communications as confidential, but there seems to be no good reason for that practice," the announcement of the order said.

Mr. Mitchell said there was no particular reason for the order. Requests have been made, he explained, for names in such cases, and he sees no reason why they should not be public property. The practice is in line with President Hoover's order at the outset of his administration requiring publication of indorsers of candidates for appointments.

GERMAN DEBT FIGHT IS CHARGED TO HATE

Prof. Herbert Von Beckerath Deplores Unfairness in Recent Discussions.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A blind hatred has been injected into discussions of the German reparations problem, rather than a spirit of fair cooperation in rebuilding an almost ruined world, Prof. Herbert von Beckerath, of the University of Bonn, told the Institute of Politics here tonight.

In the first of three lectures on the German economic situation, Prof. von Beckerath said the reparations scheme has proved a complete failure from an economic viewpoint.

"Perhaps not so much by reason of exchange difficulties," he said, "but because Germany in her actual state could not do without the capital which year by year was withdrawn for her reparation service."

Discussions of the pact of Paris started at the morning general conferences, with a presentation of official viewpoint by James Oliver Murdock, assistant solicitor of the State Department. Mr. Murdock urged entry into the Permanent Court of International Justice, reminding that protocols providing for membership in the court have been submitted by the President to the Senate with unqualified indorsement.

Representative Morton D. Hull, of Illinois, member of the House foreign affairs committee, spoke in behalf of a resolution by Congress, which would give the President power to declare an embargo, on with the consent of Congress, on export of materials of any kind States held to be aggressors under the pact of Paris. Admiral Rogers, U. S. N. retired, also spoke in favor of the pact.

Stanley Hornbeck, chief of the division for Far Eastern affairs of the State Department, took members of the institute to task for destructive criticism on the subject of disarmament.

"You talk about destroying hundreds of millions of dollars worth of naval equipment," he said, "and you talk about cutting your budget, saving, economizing, &c. I haven't heard one question here about improving other agencies of the Government which are beginning to take up the new burden.

"Why not discuss improving the means of pacific adjustment and get things up to a position where you can satisfy the mind of even the people who are in doubt that the country is secure without a large navy?"

NAVY POLICY BARED IN ADAMS' POSTER

war, called for the determination of emergency material needs, plans for their procurement and the coordination of these plans with those of the War Department.

The Hoover economy program was seen in provisions for assembling the active fleet each year for two months instead of three.

The policy on aircraft called for completion of the rigid airships now under construction or appropriated for and for an extension of heavier-than-air activities.

It provided for developing the types of airplanes best suited for increasing the effectiveness of naval vessels and for scouting and patrol work.

Greater emphasis than heretofore was given to the function of supporting American foreign commerce and aiding in development of the American Merchant Marine.

Provision was made for keeping up to date detailed plans for rapid acquisition and conversion of merchant vessels to naval use in time of war.

Increased activity in radio communication was indicated by a new policy "to provide and operate a network of long range radio stations for communication with the fleet and merchant marine in all parts of the world and direct with overseas possessions."

Man at Trial Tells Of Plant Bombing

Package Holding 25 Sticks of Dynamite Thrown, Witness Says.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Burge Gilpin, indicted with R. A. Bridges on charges of murder in the bombing of the Pure Milk Co. plant here three weeks ago, related from the witness stand at the latter's trial here today how the plant was bombed.

Two persons were killed by the explosion and three other persons, including two women, have been indicted on murder charges in connection with their deaths.

Gilpin testified that rBidges tied a package containing 25 sticks of dynamite and a brick in a newspaper after holes had been bored in two of the sticks and dynamite caps and fuse inserted at the home of Mrs. Mabel Cline, near Huffman, Ala. Mrs. Cline, Mrs. Mildred Chambers, and Eldridge McCord are the others under indictment.

He said that he drove Bridges to the plant site and that Bridges seized the wheel of the automobile and swung toward the curb. Gilpin said Bridges then lighted the fuse and leaping from the automobile, hurled the package through the window.

Judge Holds Decision In Tracing Church Fund

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Dore reserved decision today upon the application of Flora Roch, trustee of the Fifth Church of Christ, Scientist, for an order requiring the church officials to permit her to try to trace in the church records what she alleges was a $400,000 "secret" profit made by certain officials in financing the building at Forty-third street and Madison avenue.

Mrs. Koch was in court today and heard her counsel, Frederick Hemley, declare that she was ousted as a trustee for attempting to investigate rumors of the alleged profits.

Rescue Squad Is Fighting To Save Girl Crash Victim

Miss Mary Ann Tracy, for whose life physicians and firemen have been battling for nearly 24 hours by administering oxygen, and William Armstrong, who was injured in the same accident near Warrenton Oxygen Given in Warrenton to Motorist Struck by Hit-Run Auto.

Members of the Washington Rescue Squad were being depended on entirely this morning to save the life of Mary Ann Tracey, 22 years old, of Silver Spring, Md., at the Fauquier County Hospital, at Warrenton, Va., who received a dangerous cerebral injury in an automobile accident Monday night.

Medicine completed its last stroke on behalf of the girl early yesterday morning when Dr. Harry H. Kerr, Washington, brain specialist, removed a clot from her brain. From that time on her chances of surviving have been entirely dependent on the oxygen being pumped into her lungs at intervals by members of the Rescue Squad.

While a fierce electrical storm raged outside the hospital, the firemen operated the respirator at the direction of a physician. Silent, quick-moving figures were around the bed, nurses and other doctors. Charles C. Tracey, of Silver Spring, father of the girl, prayed silently in a corner. At intervals he would dart to the bedside. Unconscious, the girl breathed desperately.

The rescue squad workers were operating in relays. Three firemen hurried to Warrenton yesterday afternoon with fresh oxygen to relieve those who had been at the respirator since early yesterday morning. The first call for oxygen was received late Monday night soon after the accident. The local rescue squad will continue to supply oxygen until the girl is deemed out of danger.

Condition of two others injured in the accident was reported unchanged. They are Mrs. Louis Coffman, driver of the car when it collided with another machine 9 miles from Warrenton and turned over, and William Armstrong, 24 years old, of Kensington, Md., a student at George Washington University. Mrs. Coffman has brain concussion. Armstrong has a broken pelvis and arm and possible internal injuries. Both are at the Fauquier County Hospital.

Four children, also in the car, escaped with cuts and bruises. They are Dick Coffman, 6 years old, and Marvin, Fred and Dorothy Mae Wampler, children of A. E. Wampler, of Harrisonburg, Va.

The car, which darted out of a side road into the path of Mrs. Coffman's machine and sped away after the accident, has not been traced.

BRUENING URGES GERMANS TO GIVE AID DURING CRISIS

fidence in a nation which in a crisis dissipates its recuperative power in criticism.

Therefore it is most important, he said, that Germans demonstrate their ability to forget political differences and pull together for the common good, not only for the conquest of immediate difficulties at home but also for the restoration of confidence abroad.

In this connection he referred to the forthcoming Steel Helmet referendum for the dissolution of the Prussian Diet.

After a bank "holiday," extending over three weeks and one day, enforced by a decree by President Paul von Hindenburg, German banking institutions prepared today to reopen their doors for regular public business tomorrow.

Restrictions, especially on checking accounts, have been severe during these three weeks. The only withdrawals permitted were those for officially approved purposes such as pay rolls and tax bills.

The result has been that the German public, which hitherto has been generally averse to paying by check and has preferred to settle bills in cash, has had good grounding in the principles of the check system.

Since yesterday when check transfer between banks became general, the situation, in the opinion of banking experts, has greatly improved, and it was believed the banking machinery could be put in motion again without fear of causing runs.

Calm Is Expected.

Tomorrow will show whether that confidence is justified for there has been a great accumulation of deferred payments which the banks will be called upon to meet just as soon as their doors open. Financial weather men contend the portents are fair and there is nothing to indicate that the atmosphere of calm will be disturbed.

Payments into banks have largely exceeded the small authorized withdrawals and they were aided by trade activity resulting from the nation-wide clearance sale of all classes of commodities which started briskly August 1.

It is fully expected that money withdrawn from banks will circulate quickly in trade and speedily find its way back to the banks again; as, because of the high bank rate, everybody will be anxious to settle outstanding liabilities without delay.

Not until next Monday will the present restrictions, under which only 50 marks can be withdrawn from any account, be released.

Talk Heard in United States.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Radio channels, unaffected by static or fading, brought a talk on the German financial situation by Chancellor Bruening of Germany to the United States this afternoon.

It was rebroadcast by both the WEAF-N. B. C. and the WADC networks. The chancellor spoke in German, and his talk was followed by a translation in English.

The committee of bankers which has been considering the plan of Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, for maintaining the outstanding volume of foreign credit in Germany, today completed a list of recommendations for carrying out the Luther suggestions.

The recommendations have been sent to the various New York banks for their consideration, and are being sent to other cities and to London.

While bankers declined to disclose the substance of the recommendations, it is understood that they embody some modifications of the Luther plan. These modifications, it was explained, do not alter the effectiveness of the Luther plan in its principal objectives. They are designed to make German credits more acceptable to the American market, without imposing additional burdens upon Germany.

While the Reichsbank is regulating foreign transfer of funds, without declaring an actual moratorium on private obligations of German corporations and individuals, the putting into effect of a workable plan of maintaining the volume of credits to Germany is expected to take some time.

In the meantime, it was explained in important banking circles, German corporations of high credit standing will have no difficulty in obtaining sufficient new commercial credits in New York to finance their ordinary business with this country.

New York Gang War Reacts on Police

Legislative Body to Probe Efforts Against Crime in Manhattan.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—In the wake of a wave of gang killings, the State legislative committee investigating the city government today turned its spotlight on the police department.

The inquiry into what steps police have been taking to rid the city of racketeers and gangsters began with the questioning of Felix A. Muldoon, deputy police commissioner, who has charge of the issuance of firearms permits.

Samuel Seabury, chief counsel for the committee, refused to disclose what the official had been asked, but he did reveal some of the questions the committee hopes to answer as a result of the inquiry.

Principally, he said, they wish to learn if underworld characters, fully armed, congregate in various pubic places rather than in secret hideouts because they feel they are protected by powerful political influences.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO T. ARTHUR SMITH

Head of Music and Booking Bureau Dies Suddenly in Baltimore.

One of the best known figures in Washington and Baltimore musical circles, T. Arthur Smith, died suddenly from a heart attack while visiting in Baltimore Monday afternoon.

He was 61 years old. He was the founder and president of T. Arthur Smith, Inc., theatrical booking office, which had sponsored the appearances here of many hits in the musical and stage field, as well as opera and concert artists.

Mr. Smith had gone to Baltimore from his country home, Carrolton, near Westminster, Md., to attend to business in connection with his bureau there. He was visiting at the home of friends there when he fell dead. He appeared to be in excellent health at the beginning of his visit, and the sudden collapse was very unexpected.

Brought Many Artists Here.

Throughout Mr. Smith's business career in Washington he had constantly endeavored to bring a high class of entertainment to the Capital, and it was through his efforts that the Philadelphia and New York Philharmonic and Symphony Orchestras have been heard here frequently. Among the artists whose appearances he has sponsored here are Schumann-Heink, Sembrich, Culp, Gadski, Homer, Hempel, Tetrazzini, and Samaroff, to mention only a few, and the orchestras have appeared here for the past ten years under his auspices.

During the administration of Presidents Coolidge and Roosevelt he was in charge of several musicales presented at the White House. Broadening the scope of his bureau several years ago he secured the efforts of Guy A. Ourand, with whom he was still associated at the time of his death.

Member of Several Clubs.

He was a director of the Civitan Club and of the Federation of Music Clubs. He was also a member of the Rubinstein Club and the Washington Lodge of Masons.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, Arthur L. and Renoux Jamieson Smith, and two sisters.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the home at Carrolton, where burial will also take place. The body was brought to Washington yesterday and will remain at the Gawler funeral home, 1757 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, until tonight, when it will be taken to the Maryland home.

Trial of Lea Bares Bank-Failure Steps

Efforts Made to Connect Tennessee Publisher With $1,300,000 Fraud.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Attempting to establish a labyrinth of financial transactions by which it alleges Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, and three others defrauded the Central Bank and Trust Co. here of approximately $1,300,000, the State launched into a mass of figures today as the trial passed its eighth day.

William McCants, auditor of the bank before its failure; C. J. Hawkins, vice-president, who is himself under indictment for embezzling approximately $10,000 from the bank, and L. M. Battle, former teller and "relief" man at the bank, occupied the witness stand throughout the day.

Hawkins and Battle told of trips to Tennessee to deliver certificates of deposit, cashiers' checks and collateral to Lea. McCants testified that he, under instructions from J. Charles Bradford, cashier of the bank, charged to the bank's "bonds and stocks" account a $55,000 item which Caldwell and Co., Tennessee firm with which Lea was connected, had failed to remit from the proceeds of a $305,000 City of Asheville note issue. This was done, McCants said, the last night before the bank posted its closing notice.

Judge Scores Defense Of Client Known Guilty

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins of Kansas, temporarily sitting in this district, told the lawyers in United States District Court today, that, in his opinion, no attorney should represent at a trial in Federal Court any client who had admitted that he was guilty or who was in fact guilty in the attorney's knowledge.

Judge Hopkins had before him for sentence Julius Miller, convicted of attempting to pass a $20 counterfeit bill. He sentenced Miller to five years in the Federal Penitentiary at Chillicothe, Ohio. Judge Hopkins said he had listened in advance of the trial to an admission that Miller was guilty.

COTTON SALE PLAN STIRS NEW PROTEST

Purchase by Germany of Stock in Reserve Held Blow to New Crop.

(Associated Press.)

Renewing opposition to the sale of Stabilization Corporation cotton to Germany, Senator Harris yesterday requested Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board to change his position.

"In talking with the President about this matter," the Georgia Democrat wrote, "he informed me that your statement was based on the condition that it would help the consumption of cotton.

"I sincerely hope that you may give a statement to the press today."

Copies of the telegrams opposing the Farm Board chairman's proposal were sent to Mr. Stone and to President Hoover. They said the sale of stabilization cotton would be a blow to cotton farmers and dealers.

Offers Substitute Plan.

Senator Harris, who said he spoke also on behalf of Senator Smith, of South Carolina, urged a substitute plan to President Hoover Monday under which Germany would buy a portion of the present crop on long-term credit. He said stabilization cotton approximating 1,300,000 bales, should be kept off the market both here and abroad.

Three of the four telegrams sent by Senator Harris to the President and Farm Board chairman were from the Georgia-Alabama Cotton Co. at Albany, Ga.

One said Bremen merchants were opposed to the Farm Board proposals, adding "they can pay for what Germany buys." The plan was characterized as ruinous to the Southern farmer if carried into effect and prediction was made that unless the proposition was withdrawn "the market will go several cents a pound lower."

The cotton company said it already had German orders canceled because of the proposal.

Texans Join Protest.

Texarkana, Tex., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Senator Norris Sheppard, in a message today to President Hoover, asked for reconsideration of the suggestion that Farm Board cotton holdings be sold to Germany on a long-term credit basis.

Sheppard's action was in response to a request from Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina, who called on the President yesterday to protest against "usurpation of the market which rightfully belongs to the current crop held by farmers."

Representative Wright Patman, commenting on the situation today, said he was in accord with Senator Smith's views.

Editor's Widow Accuses Two of Stock Swindle

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Philip J. Barnes, of Glen Ridge, N. J., and Ernest Sufern, of Montclair, N. J., were arrested today at the order of Attorney General John J. Bennett, jr., on a charge of having defrauded Mrs. Ella de Bevoise Patterson, of Red Bank, N. J., of $588,987.50 in a series of stock transactions.

Mrs. Patterson is the widow of William Patterson, formerly associate editor of the Curtis Publications, who left her an estate valued at $1,000,000, mainly in stock of the Curtis Publications.

Sentence Is Two Life Terms.

Nowata, Okla., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—W. R. Bates, 66-year-old farmer, who killed three farmers near Lenapah, Okla., last Saturday, was sentenced today to serve two life terms for the slaying of two of the victims, T. C. Huffman and W. H. Owings. Another sentence for the slaying of Bill Bay was deferred.

WHEAT TOTAL GAINS 100,000,000 BUSHELS

Grain Surplus Climbs to New Peak, for Crop Year Ended on June 30.

(Associated Press.)

The world wheat surplus swelled more than 100,000,000 bushels during the crop year ended June 30.

Government economists have unofficially estimated that the world carry-over at the beginning of the new crop year was 670,000,000 bushels, as compared with the unrevised total of 563,000,000 bushels a year ago.

On the Chicago market today September wheat touched 47¾, a new all-time low for that future, while December wheat sagged to 53½, also a new low.

Washington now is awaiting results of a suggestion by this Government that Germany purchase wheat and cotton stocks controlled by the Farm Board on liberal credit terms as a means of extending further relief to that country and also aiding American agriculture.

The July 1 estimate of more than 670,000,000 bushels for the world carry-over includes a tentative estimate of 300,000,000 for the United States, a large part of which is in the hands of the Grain Stabilization Corporation.

While the world surpluses have increased yearly since 1926, the Agriculture Department has forecast a 1931 world crop of between 250,000,000 and 300,000,000 bushels less than last year. Drought in the United States spring wheat territory and in Canada may reduce that crop by more than 100,000,000 bushels.

The world carry-over figures do not take into account Russian surpluses, of which no accurate estimate is available. Russia is considered a formidable factor in world wheat-trading operations.

Exports of grain from the United States in the week ending August 1 totaled 5,591,000 bushels, as compared with 2,784,000 in the preceding week and 4,116,000 in the corresponding week of 1930.

Wheat exports reported to the Department of Commerce were 4,790,000 bushels during the week of August 1, against 2,553,000 in the preceding week; barley, 353,000, against 205,000; corn, 440,000, against 22,000; oats, 8,000, against 4,000. No exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains in transit cleared from United States Atlantic ports totaled 550,000 bushels, against 563,000, while exports of North American wheat flour totaled 145,000 barrels, against 244,000.

FEW UPSETS RESULT IN VIRGINIA PRIMARY

Holt, President Pro Tem of Senate, Easily Defeats Stanley Garner.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—With a light vote prevailing generally but with a heavy vote in a few districts where local fights were waged in spirited contests, few upsets were recorded in today's Democratic primary for the Senate and House.

Senator Saxon W. Holt, of Newport News, president protem of the Senate, easily defeated Stanley Garner, also of the Tidewater city, in the Thirty-fourth Senatorial District. Senator R. J. Noell, of Radford, defeated Kyle Weeks in the Twenty-second District in a closely fought contest.

In the Thirty-third District William A. Wright, of Tappahannock, member of the House in 1930, had piled up a long lead over Senator R. H. Stubbs, of Saluda, who was barred from the Senate Democratic caucus at the last session for his anti-Smith activities. Wright issued a statement claiming the victory and thanking the voters.

A close contest was in progress in the Thirtieth District, with Charles T. Jesse leading John W. Rust by a margin of only 150 votes with 42 of the 60 precincts reported.

Dry Law Father Wins.

Senator George W. Layman, of Newcastle, father of the Virginia prohibition law, defeated Tate Sterrett, of Hot Springs, in the Twentieth District. With two-thirds of the vote counted in the Twelfth District, Senator R. H. Langhorne, of Evington, and Frank Varney, of Lynchburg, were running neck and neck.

William M. Tuck, former delegate, was leading State Senator J. S. Easley, 1,377 to 735, with 15 of the 28 precincts in the Tenth District reported.

With 30 of the 41 precincts in the Ninth District tabulated, H. H. Watson, of Crewe, had 2,669 votes to 2,661 for Senator E. L. Kendig.

O. L. Evans, of Amherst, was leading Senator J. Belmont Woodson, 637 to 317 in the Fourth District, with 28 of the 40 precincts reported.

In the Third District, composed of Norfolk County, Portsmouth and South Norfolk, Maj. M. Hillard had a lead of 800 votes over Quintus Cassius Davis, with Jerome Carr trailing far behind. The length of the ticket in Norfolk County slowed up the tabulations of the vote which had been completed in Portsmouth and South Norfolk.

M. M. Moseley was nominated over Perry Oslin in the Seventh District, composed of Mecklenburg and Brunswick Counties.

Richmond City Results.

Richmond City nominated Senators E. R. Fuller and Hill Montague to succeed themselves and nominated John J. Wicker, jr., for the city's third Senatorial position. Charles M. Wallace was the fourth candidate.

Blair Fishburn and Walter H. Scott were nominated for the House of Delegates in Roanoke City. James A. Bear, incumbent, was nosed out in one of the upsets of the primary.

John S. Battle and L. L. Watts were nominated to succeed themselves in Albemarle, Greene and the City of Charlottesville. R. H. T. Adams, jr., of Lynchburg, defeated Joseph C. Smith, incumbent, in Lynchburg City.

Berkeley D. Adams, of Red Oak, former chairman of the State corporation, was nominated over D. Q. Eggleston, incumbent, in Charlotte County.

Richmond City elected W. H. Adams, Charles W. Crowder, Edgar B. English, E. C. Fowlkes, J. Vaughan Gary and Charles W. Moss. All were incumbent except English, who succeeds James P. Jones, who was not a candidate.

Scarborough Winner.

Paul Scarborough defeated J. S. Musgrave in Southampton and George Herring won over A. S. Boatwright in the Stafford-Prince William District. T. A. Fowler defeated T. J. Crandol in Newport News and Warwick. Earl A. Cadmus and R. F. McMurran were renominated in Portsmouth.

Joseph S. Denny easily defeated Boyd Richards in Clarke, Frederick and Winchester City. T. E. Warriner was renominated in Brunswick County. George P. Lyon defeated W. J. Taliaferro, incumbent, in Caroline and King George. In Sussex and Greenville Counties, R. F. Bain, incumbent, was renominated.

A. C. Adams, incumbent, was renominated in Surry, Prince George and Hopewell City.

Incumbents were leading in most of the other districts where a comprehensive vote had not been tabulated.

Mrs. Emma Lee White, only woman, was renominated by a large majority for the House seat from Gloucester and Mathews Counties.

JOHN W. RUST NOMINATED FOR SENATOR IN VIRGINIA

District, E. W. Buckley, 229 votes and Champ Hutchison, 133 votes; Dranesville District, W. H. Elmore, 373, and Mark Turner, 367; Falls Church, C. H. Towell, 181; J. W. Kerns, 162, and V. M. Lynch, 90; Mount Vernon, F. P. Reed, 257, and Herbert Blunt, 218; Providence District, Harry Leigh, encumbent, 314; Wallace Carper, 232, and J. A. Dyer, 202. Kyle Davis was unopposed in the Lee District.

Arlington County.

Col. Jesse carried his county for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate over his opponent by a vote of 1,582 to 818. Jesse, in his home precinct, Carne, was given a record vote over his opponent, 270 against 48. The vote by precincts follows:

Arlington—Jesse, 187; Rust, 105.
Ballston—Jesse, 195; Rust, 105.
Carne—Jesse, 270; Rust, 48.
Cherrydale—Jesse, 155; Rust, 75.
Clarendon, No. 1—Jesse, 146; Rust, 90.
Clarendon, No. 2—Jesse, 178; Rust, 107.
East Falls Church—Jesse, 60; Rust, 49.
Glencarlyn—Jesse, 35; Rust, 14.
Lyon Park—Jesse, 62; Rust, 107.
Rosslyn—Jesse, 145; Rust, 80.
Virginia Highlands—Jesse, 149; Rust, 38.

City of Alexandria.

Col. Jesse won over John W. Rust in Alaxendria in the Democratic primary yesterday by a vote of more than two to one, the total figures being: Jesse, 993; Rust, 413. J. Fred Birrell, unopposed candidate for the House of Delegates, received 1,275 votes.

The vote by wards follows:

First—Jesse, 172; Rust, 62; Birrell, 215.
Second—Jesse, 167; Rust, 64; Birrell, 208.
Third—Jesse, 150; Rust, 93; Birrell, 211.
Fourth—Jesse, 169; Rust, 80; Birrell, 220.
Fifth—Jesse, 192; Rust, 60; Birrell, 238.
Sixth—Jesse, 143; Rust, 54; Birrell, 183.

The total number of votes cast, 1,406, was rather disappointing to the city Democratic committee, as it was less than one-fourth of the qualified vote. The fact that the only Alexandria candidate, Mr. Birrell, was unopposed, accounts for the unusually light vote. The heavy vote for Col. Jesse as opposed to Mr. Rust, came as somewhat of a surprise, since the two candidates had been considered as on practically equal terms in Alexandria.

Charles Sabin, Jr., Mrs. Ransdell Wed

Ceremony Is Performed at the Summer Home of Bride's Parents.

News reached Washington last night of the marriage of Mrs. Dorothy Layman Ransdell, Capital society woman and social registerite, to Charles H. Sabin, jr., of New York. Mr. Sabin's father is a New York banker, while his mother is a leader in the antiprohibition movement.

The ceremony was performed July 27, according to the Boston Herald, at Eastern Point, Gloucester, Mass., summer home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Layman. In the Capital, during the winter, they make their home with their daughter at 2128 Bancroft place northwest.

The new Mrs. Sabin and Dr. Robert C. Ransdell, of 1793 Lanier place northwest, were divorced last October. They have three young children.

In a Junior League booklet published yesterday Mrs. Ransdell, a member of that organization, was listed simply as Mrs. Layman Ransdell, with the name Dorothy omitted.

Foreign War Veterans To Hold Moonlight Trip

Veterans of Foreign Wars from Washington and vicinity and their families will hold their annual moonlight trip down the Potomac on the City of Washington steamship on August 11.

Among the prominent veterans who have signified their intentions of being present on the trip will be Gen. H. T. Reilly, Admiral Billard, Judge Mattingly and Col. H. Miller.

New Yorkers Inspect Glen Echo Pool.

Leonard B. Schloss, managing director of Glen Echo Park, received a visit yesterday from Sam Gumpertz, president of the Coney Island Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Fox, president of the Realty Associations of Brooklyn, N. Y., who came to Washington to view the new crystal pool at the Washington amusement park. They are contemplating building a similar pool at Coney Island. They left last night after seeing the pool illuminated.

Man Injured in Fall.

Patrick F. Quinn, 29, was treated yesterday at Emergency Hospital for a possible skull fracture after he complained of feeling sick following a fall in his home at 284 Rhode Island avenue northwest on the previous night. He said that he was descending the basement steps when he slipped, striking his head.

Police Boat Engine Ordered.

The District Commissioners yesterday awarded a contract to the J. H. Curtis Boat Engine Co. to furnish a four-cylinder marine engine for use in the Police Department. The accepted bid was $892.68.

Sodality to Start Retreat August 14

Rev. H. C. Greenwell to Be Master at Washington House Session.

The Sodality Union of Washington will give another three-day retreat, beginning Friday evening, August 14, and ending Monday morning, August 17, at the Washinton Retreat House for the convenience of those that could not make the retreat over the Fourth of July.

The Rev. H. C. Greenwell, S. J., minister of Woodstock College, will be the retreat master. The motto of the retreat will be "Mary Queen of Heaven, Our Life and Our Hope." Those who can not make the entire three days are welcome to attend one day or more.

Reservations should be made at once by applying to the Washington Retreat House, 4000 Harewood road. Telephone number is Columbia 2440.

Running From Fight, Boy Struck by Auto

Taking to flight after he was struck in a dispute with companions, 12-year-old Robert McLaughlin, 1021 Monroe street northwest, was run down by an automobile as he crossed the intersection of Eleventh and Monroe streets northwest last night. He suffered a compound fracture of the right ankle.

Police arrested William A. Daniel, of Dickerson, Md., driver of the automobile, a light truck. Taken to the Tenth Precinct, he was released under collateral on a bad-brake charge. The boy was removed to Garfield Hospital in a passing car, and treated for his injuries.

HUNDREDS IN IDAHO FLEE BEFORE FIRES

Forest Blazes Race Through Kaniksu Area; Three States Fight Flames.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Hundreds of families packed goods on wagons today and fled before a wall of fire that raced through the Kaniksu National Forest, in the Priest River Valley of north Idaho. Columns of smoke rose 8,000 feet, obscuring the sun.

Two hundred new fires, breaking out last night and today, blazed in forests of Montana, north Idaho and eastern Washington.

At Deer Creek, in the Kootenai Forest of Idaho, flames were swept over fire lines by a 20-mile wind, spreading the perimeter of this fire, regarded yesterday as controlled, to almost 90 miles, foresters estimated.

In the Kaniksu Forest, north of Newport, at Biggs Creek, a line of fire 20 miles long rushed toward the Federal forest experiment station at Priest River. Men were warned there to "fight hard or run," as their judgment dictated.

With discovery of incendiary and carelessly set fires, five campers, arrested in the St. Joe Forest, of Idaho, and at Wallace, were forced to pay the cost of extinguishing the blazes they caused. Three other men were arrested and fined in Montana.

Women Democrats Planning Woodland Beach Clubhouse

Long Cherished Dream Realized by President of Council.

That Woodland Beach is an ideal site for a club colony as well as a residential resort was further attested to yesterday with announcement that the District of Columbia Women's Democratic Educational Council is planning a council clubhouse and community in The Washington Post development.

Plans for the completion of a long-nourished dream of Mrs. Clara Wright Smith, president of the council, will include a clubhouse surrounded by a community of homes owned by members and friends of the council, where a sort of "Institute of Democracy" will be formed.

While it had long been a cherished hope of Mrs. Smith that she would be able to found a development of this kind, she was at a loss as to where to find a spot fitting the requirement. Her statement is self-explanatory:

"I had been looking for years for a place where such a development could be carried forward," she said. "When I first saw Woodland Beach I knew that my search was ended. I have considered every resort within a hundred miles of Washington, and nothing I have seen is so lovely, attractive and more accessible, and to be desired above all others."

MRS. CLARA WRIGHT SMITH.

Already Mrs. Smith has purchased five lots near one of the beautiful coves that abound at the beach, and if the council will agree to carry to completion the idea of the little community the lots will be given to them as her part of the movement.

Mrs. Smith, a member of the Women's City Club, where she heads the law and legislation committee; the District Voteless League of Women Voters, the Citizens Alliance, citizens joint committee, and the Cleveland-Cathedral Heights Citizens Association, is one of the best known club women in Washington, and has long been active in civic affairs. The mere fact that she has made this decision in regard to Woodland Beach is an indorsement in itself of the project.

Today she will be host to about 20 members of the executive board of the council at the clubhouse on the beach, when an al fresco lunch will be served, and officials of Woodlawn Beach will further explain the plan of the development to visiting members.

An invitation is being extended the public daily to visit the beach. It may be reached over excellent roads, and as it is only 32 miles from Washington it is only a few minutes drive.

STABILIZING GERMANY.

Fears of a financial crisis in Germany have given way to quiet assurance that stabilization is at hand. Ever since the London conference decided that Germany's problem was one which could be properly solved by international banking interests that country has been gradually settling back into its routine. Drastic measures have been taken to set internal affairs in order. Assurance is now given that short-term credits on which German industry is largely operating will not be withdrawn.

Arrangements have been made at Basle to renew the $100,000,000 rediscount credit to the Reichsbank which expires this week. Germany has been given a breathing spell in which to strengthen its financial position and restore confidence to its people. The necessity for making reparations payments has been removed for one year, thanks to President Hoover. All indications point to the economic recuperation of that country, which means a notable improvement in the whole European situation.

The diagnosis of Germany's difficulties made by President Hoover has proved to be correct. In the midst of a demand that age-old political controversies be revived in an effort to force a rapprochement between France and Germany, the President saw that the need of the hour was a business arrangement that would stop the withdrawal of capital from the Reich. Without disturbing existing relationships, he made a move to enable Germany to help itself. Subsequent events have served to illustrate his good judgment.

What is of more far-reaching importance than the maintenance of short-term credits is the appointment by the Bank for International Settlements of a committee to study Germany's future credit needs. This committee represents the central banks which have extended heavy credits to Germany. Within the next few weeks it will make a detailed study of the German situation for the benefit of the World Bank, the governments which have taken steps to avert a German crisis and the public. In view of what has already taken place, it may be assumed that this committee's findings will form a basis of further stabilization efforts if such should become necessary.

One other duty has been imposed upon this body—to study the possibility of converting a portion of Germany's short-term credits into long-term credits. German industry has been subsisting on short-term credits because that has been the only kind available. In view of the present market price of the last German loan the flotation of new long-term bonds is considered impractical. It is obvious that the first objective must be stabilization under the present short-term financing, and that a more permanent credit arrangement must await the restoration of confidence.

The German people were quick to lose faith in their currency because of the losses they suffered following the war. It is now apparent, however, that the financial and political powers are not going to allow Germany to collapse. Confidence is being gradually restored. Germany is especially gratified to see French and American banks extend a rediscount credit of $250,000,000 to the Bank of England. Indirectly this is considered as additional help for Germany because it means that Britain will use this credit to maintain its short-term credits in Germany.

A sudden drop in the sterling exchange made the world realize that Great Britain as well as Germany was in a tight place. Britain could not afford to let Germany collapse because of the weakening in its own financial structure. Cooperative action became necessary to save all Europe from a money crisis. Financial interests have manifested a fine spirit of mutual helpfulness, which was unquestionably inspired by President Hoover's moratorium and the action of the London conference.

LATIN-AMERICAN VIEWS.

The plight of Latin-American republics that are suffering from economic depression in common with the rest of the world and their pressing necessity of seeking at least temporary relief from the burdens of debt are set forth by their time-honored champion, John Barrett. The former director general of the Pan-Amersican Union has for several years been the head of the International Pan-American committee, directing "an unofficial, altruistic, quiet movement without propaganda features, to help bring about a new era of permanent Pan-American good will in its broadest sense."

Since the inauguration of efforts to ease the European situation, Mr. Barrett has utilized the fast air mail service to Latin America to investigate the general economic and political situation in the Southern republics. Leaving aside the usual complaints that Americans do not appreciate their cultural attainments and sensitive natures and that the Monroe Doctrine is interpreted by American politicians in a manner offensive to Latin Americans, the replies, summarized by Mr. Barrett, contain two points that are of interest.

The first is an explanation of the extraordinary progress and power of the so-called "youth movement" that is exerting far-reaching influence. In some countries this younger element is said to be responsible not only for the success of revolutions but for the control of public opinion. The so-called revolutions are, in fact, only political and popular evolutions. So there is demand for a "revision of attitude throughout the United States which now misjudges the spirit and actions of Latin-American governments and peoples."

There is not as much misunderstanding of Latin America in this country as Southern neighbors are prone to believe, certainly no more than the corresponding failure of Latin Americans to comprehend American motives. Racial, temperamental and idealistic differences may be recognized and respected without any necessity for invidious comparisons or attempted conversions. Business and social relations may be maintained with mutual respect for racial customs and traditions.

The second point of particular interest is an expression of the feeling of Latin America that, belonging to the same American family as the United States, the sister republics are even more entitled to extension of credit and even, if necessary, to a moratorium, than is the government of Germany. The numerous bond issues granted to Latin-American governments and enterprises by United States institutions, it is held, are just as much due to the ardent competition and constant readiness by these American companies to grant such issues as the desire of Latin-American governments and interests to secure them. Holders of present depreciated Latin-American bonds are warned that they must bear this in mind.

Americans undoubtedly do, at times, fail to take with sufficient seriousness the domination of Latin-American politics by college students, and likewise are occasionally impatient with the complacency with which some Latin-American republics look upon defaults and even repudiation of debts.

But the charge that American houses were too eager in forcing loans upon federal, state and even municipal governments in Latin America has merit. That in the flush times preceding the fall of 1929 higher rates of interest to attract purchasers and greater discounts for the underwriters did cause overlending in South America can not be denied. Easement of this situation, however, is not a matter for action by Washington as in intergovernment loans and payments. If American bankers have been overzealous in financing Latin America to the present danger of their American clients, they doubtless will find that, ethically and from sound business practice, they must assist in protecting clients in both North and South America.

AN EDUCATIONAL CENTER.

The advantages offered by Washington's educational institutions are being better appreciated every year. It is not merely in the education of the young that the Capital is preeminent, but scholars, research workers and technical experts from nearly every country in the world find here both the equipment and helpful inspiration for their work. Washington has become a national center for research in various lines and some 200 general and special libraries offer reference facilities that are unrivaled.

That the extent and variety of the Capital's educational resources may be better known, the Washington Chamber of Commerce has dedicated a special number of its official publication, Greater Washington, to a complete presentation of the city's educational institutions. The list of universities, professional schools and schools for both boys and girls is a long and varied one. Special schools provide ample facilities for the study of art, music, religion, business, languages, dancing and riding.

The Chamber of Commerce is to be felicitated upon the complete and interesting manner in which this side of Washington's many attractions is presented. It should enlighten many potential additions to the population of the Capital regarding the matchless opportunities offered for study here by old and young. This special number of Greater Washington contains interesting articles appropriate to the edition by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior; Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, and Dr. H. Barrett Learned, president of the Board of Education of the District of Columbia.

WICKERSHAM IN REVERSE.

It is surprising to learn that the Law Enforcement Commission did not complete its study of court procedure More than a year ago the commission brought forth an elaborate plan prescribing radical changes in the handling of prohibition cases in the Federal courts. Now it appears that the commission was driven by political pressure to work out a formula for expediting liquor cases before it had thoroughly studied conditions in the courts. Its present findings in a preliminary survey indicate that there is no necessity whatever for facilitating prohibition cases.

Congress refused to accept the recommendations of the commission because, in the opinion of many competent authorities, they ran counter to constitutional rights of accused persons. The commission proposed that individuals accused of petty offenses under the prohibition law be tried before United States commissioners without jury. If found guilty they would have had an opportunity to protest to the court and demand a jury trial. But the prosecuting attorney would also have had the privilege of lodging more serious charges against them. This special procedure was to have been applied only to liquor cases, in an effort to eliminate congestion in the Federal courts.

The latest report from the commission indicates that there is no congestion in the criminal dockets of the Federal courts. Study of a sample Federal court district in Connecticut reveals that 92.6 per cent of all defendants charged with violating the prohibition act plead guilty. The jury system, the report says, has lapsed into "almost desuetude." Prosecuting attorneys have been selecting their cases so well that defendants consider trials of no value to them.

While the study is incomplete, the commission nevertheless makes general conclusions that "there is a complete absence of procedural delays and difficulties which commonly are thought to be inherent in and peculiar to the system;" that "contested cases and jury trials are negligible;" and that "the role of the court in general is the imposition of small sentences for minor offenses." On the basis of these findings, how does the commission justify its previous recommendations that an elaborate system set up to railroad prohibition cases through the Federal courts without jury trials?

If the study of court procedure remained incomplete when the commission passed out of existence, it seems probable that the jury-less trial formula was worked out when the commission was entirely uninformed as to conditions in the courts. In response to a vociferous demand from partisan sources the commission set out to cure an evil that was nonexistent, and threatened to impair one of the traditional rights of American citizens in doing so.

The recommendation of juryless trials for petty prohibition violators is by all odds the greatest blunder the commission made. Perhaps it should not be too severely censured because it acted in response to clamor from both wet and dry politicians. No doubt such recommendations would never have been made if the commission had been allowed time to investigate conditions. It is to be hoped that funds may be found from some source to complete the study of court procedure so that it may be used as a weapon against fanatical tinkering with the judicial system in the future.

William Gibbs McAdoo goes under the knife. That ought to be easy for any one who has tried to hurdle the two-thirds majority rule in a Democratic convention.

King Carol says his divorce from Queen Helen is final. What the public would like to hear is that gossip about the affair is at an end.

RAISING SUNKEN SHIPS

Scapa Flow Correspondence of the London Times.

During the past week I have been on board Messrs. Cox and Dank's floating dock watching the final preparations for the raising of the 25,390-ton former German battleship Prinz Regent Luitpold, which, with the other interned vessels of the German fleet, was scuttled by her own crew on June 21, 1919. The ship lay upside down in about 18 fathoms between the islands of Cava and Hoy in the spot where she had been anchored since November, 1918. There were between 33 and 48 feet of water over her bottom. Her salvage was begun early this year.

Excluding 25 destroyers, on which work was begun in 1924, the Prinz Regent Luitpold is the seventh ship that the firm have raised, the others being the battle cruisers Moltke, Seydlitz, Hindenburg and Von der Tann; the battleship Kaiser and the mine-laying cruiser Bremse. The method of raising the majority of these vessels is as interesting as, I believe, it is novel on so large a scale. Most of them lay bottom up, and the first step was to admit men to the hull through the bottom to seal up and make airtight the various compartments.

There is an eerie feeling in being in the bottom of a capsized ship, lit by electricity, fathoms beneath the surface. Rather alarming stories are told of the peculiar effects caused by working under considerable air pressure, such as bleeding noses, pressure on ear drums and a general feeling of swollen-headedness. But these men do not seem to mind these things and think nothing of their work. It is the isolation of the various compartments and the making certain of their airtightness that take most of the time in these salvage operations.

E. F. Cox, the managing director, gave me some particulars of the origin of his salvage work. In 1922 he bought the British battleships Erin and Orion for breaking up, and these were demolished at Queenborough, near Sheerness, in 1923. A Danish friend interested in shipbreaking suggested that he should salve certain of the German warships sunk at Scapa. After inspecting them he first bought four destroyers from the admiralty and started work in May, 1924. Then he bought 21 more, and the whole lot were successfully raised. Their sale did not quite pay for the necessary salvage plant.

Mr. Cox's fifth big ship, the Hindenburg, which lay right side up with her gun turrets, upperworks, masts and funnels above water, presented the greatest difficulty. All the work had to be done below the armored deck, and time and time again when floated by air pressure she was in imminent danger of capsizing and had to be resunk. Finally, two huge concrete blocks had to be constructed under her stern to form a sort of cradle, and after months of work the ship was finally salved and taken to Rosyth for breaking up.

Mr. Cox had lost £30,000 on the Hindenburg and found himself practically ruined. He managed to collect enough capital to start on the Von der Tann, which was successfully raised and now lies, bottom up, awaiting a purchaser. The firm has more or less paid its expenses now, and the sale of the Prinz Regent Luitpold should represent profit. The trouble is that shipbreakers' yards in England are overstocked with obsolete British warships, which means a small demand for scrap metal.

Much of the nonferrous metal and armor plate from these German vessels finds its way back to the country of their origin, while some armor goes to America, where it is made into all kinds of cutlery goods. To give an idea of the cost of the operations the tale is told of a diver who, while one ship was being raised, found himself sucked into an 8-inch inlet by the flow of water. Firmly attached to the hull by the seat of his diving dress, he signaled to the surface and the ship had to be sunk at an estimated cost of £400 to release him.

ENOUGH.

What matter all the plates of gold and parsley round the meat?
Three happy meals of wholesome food are all a man can eat.
What matter slate or shingle if the roof be strong and stout?
That man is snug whose roof above keeps wind and water out.

What matter costly counterpane and couches pillowed deep?
The best that any bed can give is eight sweet hours of sleep,
And he who rested wakes at dawn,
although the room be plain,
Has had a happier night than those who looked for sleep in vain.

What matter costly cloth and braid or garments old or new?
The coat that keeps its owner warm does all a coat can do,
And he who walks the world in health earth's beauty can behold
As fully as some richer man whose purse is lined with gold.

What if the book be leather bound or given a paper shell?
Who reads the common copy gets the tale it has to tell.
So slt me down to wholesome food and let my roof be stout
And golden plate and silken robes
I'll gladly do without.

The Length of Quarantine Is Fixed by the Disease, Not by the Calendar

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF you would judge the success of an institution, first discover what it is trying to do.

Do you know why men are kept in prison?

Is it done to make an example of them, so that other men tempted to do evil will be restrained by fear of prison?

If that is the purpose, prisons are a failure.

Surely the persistent increase of crime, despite the threat of imprisonment, is evidence enough to convince any person of sound sense that the fear of prison doesn't prevent crime.

Is the purpose of imprisonment to reform men?

If that is true, prisons fail.

Prisoners without strength of mind or character, serving their first sentence, are persuaded by older and more vicious criminals to hate all law and all authority.

They entered prison as repentant culprits unschooled in crime; they emerge as bitter, well-tutored enemies of society.

Kept free of debasing influences, they might be reformed; but if reform is the purpose, and reform is possible, is a term of ten or twenty years necessary for the purpose?

Perhaps you think the purpose of prisons is merely to protect society.

Then again imprisonment fails.

Men who are a menace to society merely bide their time and renew their warfare the moment they are released. In fact, every experienced officer knows that a vicious man who has served time in prison is doubly dangerous when he resumes the practice of crime.

And if you cling to the ancient belief that the purpose of prisons is solely to punish offenders, by this standard also imprisonment fails to justify itself.

The punishment is real enough, and terrible enough, but it falls on the innocent as well as the guilty.

Well-behaved citizens are taxed to provide food, clothing, houses, guards and entertainments for the prisoner, and the prisoner's dependents in many instances suffer privation for want of his earnings.

It is a strange justice that takes food from a woman and children and tax money from honest citizens to punish a man who breaks laws.

The whole system is illogical, unfair, ineffectual and vicious.

It is obvious that evil men, by preference and practice enemies of society, must be caged.

But it is foolish to cage them for a season and turn them loose.

A definite sentence is foolish when there can be no definite end to the evil man's power and intent to do evil.

And if the prisoner is at heart no more evil than other men, how can a definite sentence be justified when no definite time is required to make him a dependable citizen?

A vicious dog must be muzzled until it becomes gentle or loses its teeth—not seven days or nine weeks or five months.

No School Bureaucracy.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The recent warning by Dr. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, against a Federal educational bureaucracy is of special significance at a time when advocates of the further extension of central governmental activities in this field were never more active. At its recent convention the National Education Association renewed its demand for a Federal Department of Education "with a place in the President's Cabinet." Dr. Cooper wisely opposes not only this radical proposal but even any considerable enlargement of the staff under his direction for fear it would be a step toward direct Federal and, therefore, political control of the public school system.

At the present time he is conducting a survey of the finances of the school systems in various cities. This involves no degree of Federal interference with local authorities, nor does this employment of a few experts for a limited time invite a rush of politicians to get jobs for their friends and supporters. But a Federal Department of Education would be a great political patronage machine. And this is not the only objection to this proposal, which should be hit every time it rears its head.

"Back to Coolidge."

New York Times.

Midsummer madness does not let politics escape. So it may be only the heat which has caused renewal of the report that Mr. Coolidge may be a candidate for the Presidency next year. His former personal physician is responsible for starting that particular March hare in August. True, he does not assert that the former President is anxious to run again. Nothing but an imperative call by the people could induce Mr. Coolidge to leave the still air of delightful studies at Northampton. Yet the doctor states that if permitting the use of his name in the Republican primaries should appear to be an overwhelming duty, Mr. Coolidge would be willing to make the sacrifice.

Mr. Coolidge is something of a politician himself, and will not do anything to expose himself to a rebuff or even, if he were to be elected again, to a dismal failure. His shrewdness was shown in stepping out before 1928. He was then the prudent man who foreseeth the evil and hideth himself, while the simple pass on and are punished. So it is certain that if he were to be invited to salvage a wrecked party, he would ask for absolute guarantees and a thumping indemnity bond. Hot weather or cool, Calvin Coolidge will not be inclined to accept for himself a highly questionable Republican legacy—a veritable damnosa hereditas.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Correspondent Raises Question As to Whether Washington Was Personally Present at Yorktown Surrender.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every child knows that the English army surrendered at Yorktown. Every child should know that Washington did not receive the sword of Cornwallis, and there is even a doubt in my mind as to the whereabouts of Washington at the time of the surrender. Was Washington at the time of surrender in Yorktown? This is a more important question to raise than the surrender. Was he with his stepson, who suffered from camp fever and died at that time? History is not very clear on the subject and the truth may never be known unless some of the old letters are found.

America at that time was not organized as it is now. We did not have the telegraph nor the daily press. History was more or less based on hearsay or monographs or memoirs. We are even at loss to trace the origin of famous pictures, as, for instance, the picture of the mother of Washington, the one at Mount Vernon painted in England. It would be much wiser for all concerned to study history instead of squabbling over such a trifle as the surrender scene.

Controversies of such nature will not profit any one and perhaps the sesquicentennial is right after all in avoiding the historical question, Was George Washington present at the time of the surrender? After all, George Washington was a family-loving gentleman, and in no way very anxious to fight unless forced, and then he fought with a real British tenacity. Once the winner, he did not care to see the vanquished, and in this showed real statesmanship. F. X. H.

Teaching of Communism and International Propaganda in American Schools Is Vigorously Denounced.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a timely illustration of a growing menace to our republic let me quote from a denunciation of "modern nationalism," delivered by Dr. Goodwin Watson, of Columbia University, at the world conference of Young Men's Christian Associations in Toronto recently.

"In my own country and perhaps in yours citizenship is not available to any one who wishes to place his conscience of his duty to God above the demands of a government for participation in organized killing," he said.

It would be interesting to know how many educators like Dr. Watson are spreading the propaganda of communism—of internationalism—in our public and private schools. Certainly American youth are not being as carefully taught to admire and venerate the militant heroes of our country as they were a few generations ago.

They are told that old-time patriotism is barbaric and foolish; the deeds of such heroes as Paul Revere, John Stark and Ethan Allen are belittled, and, in fact, the minds of the children of the United States are being prepared to welcome the world despotism of the proletariat a generation or so in the future.

Is it not time, sir, for our political leaders, the newspaper press of the country and every one who has faith in representative government as established by the fathers to take a definite stand against this satanic propaganda of internationalism in the seats of learning? Will it not be a shameful reversal of national policy if, having helped to save the world for democracy in the World War, we finally join hands with those who seek to reshape the world for communism? A PATRIOT.

Bicentennial Commission Is Praised for Its Work; Programs Dealing With Washington's Life Are Available to Clubs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Washington bicentennial commission is to be congratulated on its splendid work so far. It is endeavoring to have the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth celebrated throughout the land. Members of the commission have prepared programs dealing with every phase of Washington's life. These programs are available to clubs. A more fitting subject could not be chosen for a year's work of a study club. There is ample material to keep up the interest of even women's clubs for more than their usual season.

Research work on Washington has brought to light many interesting phases of his life that have not been known before. The paper which the commission is putting out is full of interesting material, and can be had for the asking. Schools would do well to take advantage of this opportunity to give their students thorough knowledge of Washington's life and achievements.

The cherry tree episode is an interesting piece of fiction. However, the real facts of Washington's life prove just as inspiring and probably far more interesting to the sophisticated youth of America. If the commission does nothing more than to turn the thoughts of America's millions to the father of this country, it will have done its work well. D. R. F.

BOXING PLAN SCORED BY COUNTY OFFICERS

Opinion Voiced After Permit Is Applied For in Prince Georges.

Opposition to granting permits for boxing in the county was voiced in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Prince Georges County Commissioners at their meeting in Upper Marlboro.

The resolution was adopted following receipt of a request for such a permit from Justice of the Peace Benson P. McDaniel of Oxon Hill district, who asked permission to hold bouts in the Woodmen's Hall at Oxon Hill, which he owned. Judge McDaniel informed the commissioner that a well-known Washington fight promoter had approached him with an offer to rent the hall.

The commissioners took no definite action on the McDaniel application. They declared that the only place boxing is permitted in the county is at Fort Washington, which is a Federal military post and outside the jurisdiction of the county commissioners. The military post conducts its matches in a very orderly manner, the commissioners stated.

Plan Finger Printing.

The commissioners approved appropriation of $100 for establishment of a fingerprint identification bureau in connection with the sheriff's office. The request was made by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Garrison, who said that its establishment would aid law enforcement branches.

Following the receipt of a protest against the proposed removal of six local trains from the Baltimore-Washington service of the Pennsylvania Railroad from John R. Riggles, chairman of the public utilities committee of the county federation of citizens associations, the county commissioners appointed a committee to attend the hearing before the Public Service Commission in Baltimore.

Commissioner Ormond Phair, George N. Bowen and Frank Small, jr., were named.

Substitution Suggested.

The letter from Mr. Riggles suggests that gas-electric trains replace the steam trains, claiming that the removal of the trains would be ruinous to the section around Seabrook, Glendale and Bowie.

The commissioners received a request from A. K. Stockbrand, of Mount Ranier, Md., asking that they appoint a committee to inquire into the widening of the grade crossing at Hall's Corner. Mr. Stockbrand states that numerous minor accidents and tire blowouts have resulted from the narrowness of the crossing. The crossing adjoins the store of Sheriff Curtis Hopkins and is on the road lengthened to the Crain Highway last year. The commissioners referred the complaint to the State Roads Commission.

Private Detective Held as Bigamist

Extradition Is Necessary to Force Return to Montgomery.

John H. Weber, New York private detective, has been arrested by New York police and is being held for Montgomery County authorities on a charge of bigamy. He has refused to return to Montgomery County without extradition proceedings. State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, who is on a vacation trip to Atlantic City, has been recalled to make out necessary papers.

According to police, Weber married Mrs. Beatrice Phillips, of Baltimore, on September 1, 1930. He is alleged to have a wife living, Mrs. Mabel Weber, who is a patient at the House of Rest, Strain Ridge, Yonkers, N. Y., suffering from a chronic pulmonary disease. Three children, aged 16, 18 and 19 years, live with the father.

Mrs. Phillips later received a phone call from Weber, it is claimed, asking her to get a divorce. She turned the matter over to Detective Sergt. Bernard P. Kelly, of the Baltimore Central Office, who cooperated with Corporal Harry Merson, of the Montgomery County police headquarters at Rockville in the case.

Rockville Boy Named To Coast Guard School

Leonard L. Nicholson 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nicholson 2d, of Rockville pike, near Rockville, has been appointed a cadet at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. He has been ordered to report August 12 to begin the four-year course.

The young man was among the first 30 passed in the recent examination which was taken by 567 applicants. He is 20 years old and is a member of the Rockville Company of the Twentieth Marine Reserve Regiment. He attended Friends School and was graduated from Devitt Preparatory School last June.

Court Fines Secretary Of Mrs. Van Winkle

Miss Helen Findlay, secretary to Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, lieutenant in charge of the Women's Bureau, last night was fined $5 and costs on a charge of assault by Judge A. L. Wilson in Takoma Park Police Court. Miss Findlay reserved the right to appeal to the county circuit court.

Miss Findlay is charged with having pushed the son of J. E. Bateman, who lives across the street from her home in Takoma Park, from her lawn. She told the judge she had been having trouble in keeping the children of the neighborhood from her flower beds, that she told the child to leave the lawn and that he refused.

Officials Approve Purchase Of Tracts for New Street

Extension of Piney Branch Road From District Line, at Underpass, to Be Known as Saratoga Avenue; Montgomery County Receives Reports.

Agreements covering purchase of several tracts necessary for the extension of Piney Branch road from the District line, at the Fern street underpass, were approved yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners. These negotiations were completed with four property owners.

The property owners are Abraham J. Minkin, J. L. Fletcher, Porte G. Mygatt and Alfred A. Ray. Through the agreements the county acquires a strip of land 1,400 feet long and 80 feet wide at a cost of approximately $22,000. The strip is to be known as Saratoga avenue.

Negotiations for the land were conducted by C. Y. Latimer, deputy clerk to the county commissioners.

The report of Judge A. L. Wilson, police justice of Takoma Park, was received. It showed collection of fines and costs totaling $89.50 in the month of July. The sum of $15 was for motor vehicle fines and will be forwarded to the commissioner of motor vehicles in Baltimore, the balance going to the county treasury.

The receipt of J. Forest Walker, county treasurer, for the $1,041,812.50 realized on the sale of county bond issues was presented to the commissioners by Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners. The money has been deposited in the county banks and credited to the general construction bond fund of 1931.

LAND BEING BOUGHT AS BRIDGE APPROACH

Rapid Progress Reported on Rights-of-Way Sought in Arlington.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

Rapid progress is being made in obtaining the needed rights of way for the Washington street approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge, according to an announcement made yesterday by Robert E. Plymale, president of the Northern Arlington County Memorial Bridge Association.

President Plymale pointed out that all rights of way are now provided, excepting a short strip of land which he hopes to have cleared up with the owner so that the right of way may be available within the next few days.

This approach to the bridge is most vital to Arlington County, declared Plymale, as it does not now appear that there will be an approach to the bridge by way of the Lee Boulevard by the time the bridge is open to traffic next year.

As soon as the question of rights of way is completed Mr. Plymale stated that the matter will again be brought to the attention of the county board of supervisors in order that work of grading at least can be started before winter sets in.

In July 306 deeds were recorded in the county clerk's office, according to the monthly report yesterday. The tax to the State amounted to $884.30.

Other items included in the report are:

Wills, 5; State tax, $200.80; chancery suits, 11; State tax, $16.50; actions at law, 10; State tax, $11; fines collected during the month for violation of the prohibition laws, $125, with costs totaling $123; fines in cases other than prohibition, $61.50, with costs amounting to $107.75.

Delinquent real estate taxes going to the State treasurer, $80.12. The amount collected which goes into the county treasury amounted to $698.04.

George Vollin, jr., of East Arlington, colored, filed his intentions with the county clerk yesterday of becoming a candidate for the office of constable for Jefferson District at the county election in November.

MRS. PINKERTON DIES.

Wife of Evangelist Succumbs at Home of Daughter.

Mrs. W. H. Pinkerton, wife of the Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, former pastor of Kings Highway Christian Church in St. Louis and nationally known evangelist, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. V. Pugh, of 6901 Glenbrook road, Edgemore, Md.

Mrs. Pinkerton had been ill for the past two years. She was a native of Kentucky, but had lived in St. Louis for several years previous to her coming here two years ago. Her husband and daughter are the only immediate survivors.

Funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment will be made in Ghent, Ky., tomorrow.

Girl Runs Into Knife; Eye Narrowly Escapes

Twelve-year-old Lonnie Cooper, a visitor in Washington from Atlantic City, narrowly escaped losing the sight of her right eye yesterday when, while in the delicatessen of her uncle, Albert A. Footer, at 3333 Connecticut avenue, she accidentally ran into a butcher knife being used by a kitchen employe.

The girl was taken to Emergency Hospital, where it was said that there was little danger of her losing the use of the eye.

Pistol Is Found in Car When Alexandria Policeman Makes Arrest.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Three men were arrested early yesterday morning by Sergt. Every and Policeman Suthard on suspicion of having a stolen automobile in their possession. The police also found a pistol in the car. The men gave the names of James King, 20, and Oland Spencer, 20, of Eastport, Md., and Fred Gohn, of Long Island, N. Y. The authorities at Annapolis, Md., were notified of their apprehension, and the men are being held at Alexandria police headquarters awaiting word from that place.

Three men arrested Monday evening by Special Officer Kennedy, of the railroad force, who were suspected of tampering with a freight train at a point near Triangle, Va., were taken to Manassas, Va., yesterday. The men, who were caught in the woods near Occoquan, gave the names of Holden Clark, Petersburg Pike, Richmond; Jesse Crum and Walter Crum, of Sheardorn, Ky. According to the story told by the railroad officer, the men boarded a freight train and stopped it by tampering with the brakes, and subsequently left the train.

An automobile driven by R. L. Roache, 104 South Columbus street, with three passengers, Miss Mabel Florence, 117 South Fairfax street; Miss Bessie Brooks, 314 Franklin street, and Miss Isabelle Marcian, 500 South Pitt street, collided with a car driven by H. W. Rose, of 308 Warren avenue, Aurora Hills, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The young women all were en route to summer school classes. The car driven by Roache was upset, but none of the occupants was injured.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., has established an office on the second floor of the City Hall Building, over police headquarters.

The local playgrounds will observe Harvest Day and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the National Recreation Association on August 14, with special events, beginning with a swimming meet in the morning. A pageant will close the day's activities at 4:30 p. m. Mrs. Virginia Wade Ryder is chairman of the committee in charge.

Judge William P. Woolls, in corporation court, granted a temporary injunction in the suit of John Loughran and R. L. Armstrong, trustees, against James M. Kincheloe and R. E. Duvall, trustees, and Jacon Gori, restraining the defendants from selling a tract of land consisting of 11 acres at Four Mile Run. The property in question was advertised for sale at public auction at noon yesterday. It was formerly in Arlington County but is now within the city limits. The injunction was granted on the application of Attorneys Harry F. Kennedy and Frank R. Long, for the plaintiffs.

Fairfax to Study Traffic Plan.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors will meet this morning in the board room of the courthouse, Fairfax, Va. Final plans for the proposed traffic survey in cooperation with the National Park and Planning Commission and other counties of Virginia and Maryland will be considered.

Rotarians Meet Tomorrow.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Washington Golf and Country Club at 12:30 o'clock.

POLICE CAR DRIVER IS FATALLY SHOT

Patrolman C. O. Poole Is Victim of Pistol Near Soldiers Home.

of the home, expressed the opinion that when the truth was known it would be found that the police were on the wrong track. He said that Davis, a psychopathic case, was not given to violent tendencies and there was no reason to believe that he would suffer from an attack of any sort which would cause him to commit the crime. Davis is a veteran of the World War and is about 45 years old. He has been at Soldiers Home a little less than a year.

In the Twelfth Precinct are three other inmates of the home, who are said to have participated in the drinking party. They were rounded up by Precinct Detective Charles A. Berry.

Davis Named As Killer.

They are: Neal H. Gillis, 55 years old; Leroy Pyler, 60 years old; and Percy Irving, 56 years old, all inmates of the home. They are held for investigation. Pyler identified Davis as the man who fired upon Poole.

Neither Pyler nor Irving were able to give any description of the shooting. The only lucid account was given by Gillis.

He told Capt. Edward J. Kelly and Detective Sergts. John A. Flaherty and Thomas Sweeney that Poole, Pyler, a man named "Cummings," Irving and he were sitting in the woods. Gillis said he was 10 feet away from the others, who were clustered under a tree.

Presently Davis came along and joined the group, Gillis said. He remained there for a few minutes when he suddenly leaped to his feet and drew a pistol. He fired three shots in rapid succession, one of which struck Poole in the back of the neck.

Spine Severed by Bullet.

The bullet severed the spine and the spinal cord, then coursed upward into the brain. Death was instantaneous, according to Deputy Coroner Joseph Rogers.

All of Poole's companions fled. Detective Berry found the pistol in a clump of bushes, 70 feet from the murder spot, where it had been thrown by Davis while in flight. The gun was brought to the Twelfth Precinct.

Cummings, the missing member of the party, was being sought by police last night. The detectives know his haunts, they said, and expect to take him into custody today.

Davis Appears Surprised.

Assistant Superintendant of Police Shelby asked Davis what he knew about the shooting. "This is all news to me?" Davis replied. "I'm all at sea. I thought I was going to have chicken for supper. I shot at one and missed it."

That Poole had been with the group about an hour was established when Patrick F. O'Connor, bondsmen, told a Post reporter that he had seen Poole walking along the wall near the Soldier's Home Grounds about 4:30. He was walking rapidly, O'Connor said, and did not answer O'Connor's salutation. Poole was then walking toward the spot where he was killed. O'Connor was in the vicinity on business.

Gillis told detectives that there was no apparent provocation for the shooting.

Traded Watch for Gun.

"Where did you get the gun?" Davis was asked by a Post reporter.

"I traded a watch for it," he replied.

"To whom?"

"A colored man."

"What did you want the gun for?"

"To kill chickens. I saw them running all around the woods."

Poole was not on duty. He began his annual leave on August 2. He was dressed in khaki trousers, a shirt and shoes, when killed. For the past few days, police learned, he had been seen loitering in the woods where he was killed.

Near Poole's body, was several bottles which evidently contained liquor, and several ginger ale bottles. Whether they had been used by the group had not been determined.

Poole is survived by his widow, Mrs. Teresa Poole and two daughters, Dorothy Mildred Poole, 17, and Thelma Virginia Poole, 13. They live in a modest second floor apartment at 3817 Georgia avenue northwest.

Besides his immediate family he is survived by an older brother, William Poole, of 52 Milmarson street northwest, and a younger brother, Le Roy Poole, of Eighth and Rittenhouse streets northwest, as well as two sisters, Miss Mary Poole, of 3817 Georgia avenue and Mrs. Alice Beahn, who lives on Emerson street.

A Washingtonian by birth, Poole was raised and attended the Phelps and Brightwood schools here. Like his brothers, he was a carpenter by trade, but went on the police force in 1918. He was married in 1913.

Vice President Will Visit Near Gloucester

Mr. Curtis and Ganns to Be Entertained by Mrs. Loose.

The Vice President, Mr. Curtis, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann have set Saturday for their arrival at Searocks, near Gloucester, Mass., the summer home of Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, of Washington and Kansas City, who will be their hostess for several days at the delightful retreat on the North Shore.

In honor of her guests Mrs. Loose has planned a program of entertainment "although," she says, "it is just a party of home folks from the Middle West."

A reception is on the program for Monday afternoon when the Vice President will head the line of distinguished guests expected from the North Shore colony. About 200 widely-known figures in the fashionable shore groups have been bidden to the reception.

On the following night there will be a formal dinner to which invitations have been sent out along the shore, which is dotted with the summer homes of society members well known in the Capital.

The Rev. Dr. Earle Wilfley has gone to Bethany Beach, Del., to join Mrs. Wilfley. They have with them their daughter, Mrs. Ralph F. Henn, of Geneva, Ohio, and her three children, Wilfley, Katharine Louise and Margaret Jane Henn.

Moseleys Congratulated On Birth of Son.

Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Mosely, U. S. A., deputy chief of staff, and Mrs. Mosely are receiving cangratulations on the birth of a son yesterday in New York City. Mrs. Mosely is a daughter of Mrs. James C. Barber, of New York and Englewood.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol and Col. and Mrs. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt were the guests of honor at a luncheon given Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Horace P. White in Thousand Islands at the Thousand Islands Country Club.

Representative and Mrs. John Q. Tilson and their children, John, jr., Katherine and Margaret, of New Haven, have returned to their home in New Haven, Conn., after a tour of six weeks in Canada and the West.

Maj. George S. Patton, jr., was a guest at the luncheon given Monday in Hot Springs, Va., by Mr. and Mrs. James B. Weir.

Mrs. Walter Schoellkopf is stopping at the Sherry-Netherland, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Ainsa have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Ainsa, to Maj. John Breitling Coulter. The ceremony took place last Thursday at Fort Bliss, Tex. The bride and her twin sister, Miss Patricia Ainsa, are nieces of Vice Admiral and Mrs. Luke McNamee and spent a season in the Capital several years ago when they were presented to society by Admiral and Mrs. McNamee.

The McNamees left Washington over a year ago for the West Coast, where Admiral McNamee is in command of the battle fleet. Commander Howard Flanigan, who has been stationed in Washington for the last two years, has just been assigned to duty in Long Beach, Calif., where he will be attached to the U. S. S. New Mexico as a member of Admiral McNamee's staff.

Miss Bancroft Is Married to Mr. Holland

Attorney General's Niece Wed in St. Paul, Minn.; Will Live Here.

In the presence of a large company, which included Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General, the marriage of her niece, Miss Gertrude Bancroft, and Mr. Hubert Brian Holland took place last evening in St. John's Episcopal Church, St. Paul, Minn., with the Rev. Frederick D. Butler officiating. A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Churchill Bancroft. Owing to official business, the Attorney General was unable to be present at the marriage of his niece.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white satin, made on long, simple lines. Her veil of tulle was held by a cap of rose-point lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The church was effectively decorated with white flowers, palms and ferns.

Mrs. Richard H. Bancroft was the matron of honor and Miss D. Anne Slocum maid of honor. The bride's other attendants included Miss Ennice Holland, of Philadelphia; Miss Ellen B. Senkler and Mrs. J. M. Scanlan, of St. Paul, and Mrs. W. D. Cuddelbach, of Youngstown, Ohio. They all wore white crepe frocks and their bouquets of garden flowers of varied hues gave the only touch of color to the white and green color scheme of the wedding. Little Richard Hunter Bancroft, jr., was the ring bearer.

Mr. Bradley B. Gilman, of this city, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Richard H. Bancroft, Mr. William Mitchell, Mr. Merrill Shepard, of St. Paul; Mr. Malcolm Minot, of Janesville, Wis.; Mr. Erwin Griswold, of Washington, and Mr. Harlan Collins, of Cleveland.

At the reception, Mrs. Bancroft and Mrs. Mitchell, assisted the young couple in greeting the guests. The former wore a gown of beige chiffon and lace. Mr. Holland and his bride left for a wedding trip to northern Minnesota and Canada, the latter wearing a frock of beige crepe with a brown tailored coat and a brown hat.

On their return, they will come to Washington to live. Mrs. Holland is well known here, having come to Washington last fall to visit the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell.

The Rev. Godfrey Chobot, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, will leave Washington shortly for a vacation in Spring Lake, N. J. His daughter, Miss Pauline W. Chobot, has gone to Fort Worden, Washington, where she is the guest of Col. and Mrs. Frederick W. Phisterer.

Mrs. Robert Lansing has arrived at Saranac Inn, Saranac, N. Y., where she is accompanied by Mrs. Brandreth Symonds, of Goshen, N. Y.; Mrs. C. W. Barswell, of Washington, and Miss Kate Lansing, of Watertown, N. Y., sister of the former Secretary of State.

Miss Emily Stuart Maddox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Amory Maddox, is the guest of Miss Valeire Prochnik, daughter of the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, at Rehobeth Beach, Del.

Capt. Ralph P. Craft, U. S. N., and Mrs. Craft will leave tomorrow on a motor tour through the Adirondacks and will probably drive on into Canada before their return in three weeks. Their daughter, Miss Beatrice Craft, will not accompany them but will be the guest at several house parties in Philadelphia and Annapolis during their absence.

Yesterday Miss Craft left for Annapolis, where she will be the guest of Col. and Mrs. James Boots, who are giving a house party this week, and this afternoon will be hosts at a tea dance in honor of Miss Craft.

Miss O'Brian To Be Married To Dr. Butsch

Engagement Announced to Physician of New Haven.

From their home in Buffalo, N. Y., the Assistant to the Attorney General and Mrs. John Lord O'Brian announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet White O'Brian, to Dr. Winfield Louis Butsch, of New Haven, Conn. The announcement was made to a group of friends of both families at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. O'Brian on Monday night. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss O'Brian is a granddaughter of the late Justice Freeman C. White, who was for 22 years a justice of the Supreme Court of Western New York. She attended the Buffalo Seminary, the Warrenton Country School and after studying in Paris, was graduated from the Boston School of Physical Education in 1930. Her sister, Miss Alison O'Brian, was graduated this year from Smith College.

Dr. Butsch is a son of the late Dr. John Louis Butsch and Mrs. Butsch, of Rochester, Minn., where he was associated for a number of years with Dr. Charles Mayo and Dr. William Mayo. He was graduated in 1926 from Princeton University and took his degree as doctor of medicine at the University of Buffalo in 1930. Dr. Butsch lives in New Haven, Conn.

Princess Wed To Paul Frank Of New York

Marchioness Huntley's Son Is Best Man at Cannes Rites.

Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, a son of Marchioness Huntley, formerly Mrs. James MacDonald, of Washington, was best man at the civil wedding of Princess Laura Murat, daughter of the Prince and Princess Michel Murat, to Mr. Paul Frank, of St. Germain and New York, which took place Monday in Cannes, France. The religious ceremony will be celebrated today in the Church of Notre Dame des Pins, when Mr. Campbell will again attend the bridegroom.

The marriage is the culmination of a romance which began a year ago when Princess Laura met Mr. Frank on a transatlantic liner. Princess Michel Murat was formerly Miss Helen Stallo, of Cincinnati. Her sister, Miss Laura Stallo, is the wife of Principe Francesco Rospigliosi. The latter and Prince Napolean Murat were witnesses yesterday for the bride.

The Marquis and Marchioness Huntley spend much time in Scotland, where they maintain a seat in the hunting country and entertain large parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Nesbit and their daughter, Miss Barbara Nesbit, are spending a short time in Saranac, N. Y.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT.

STORIED BOXWOOD.

BOXWOOD is always associated with the storied gardens of the past. It is interesting to hark back through the ages and note the changes that have taken place in the modes and methods of gardening.

Boxwood is surely a plant of the ages, having come to us from the days of long ago when it was so popular in the gardens of the Old World.

One old book of legends tells us that, as it resembles myrtle or bay, the ancients regarded it with apprehension, for they feared that if it were used by mistake for that other tree in the rites of Venus, the goddess would avenge herself by destroying their virility.

Until about twelve years ago we had to depend on England for our supply of these lovely bushes. These importations ceased when our Government placed an embargo on them, hence the scarcity of boxwood and the consequent higher prices.

The boxwood family is a rather large one, but all varieties have virtually the same habit of growth. Probably the most commonly used variety is sempervivens. All boxwood will stand considerable pruning. They also stand tubbing or potting better than almost any other species of evergreens. All boxwood bushes, whether old or young, should be constantly watched for leaf miner, which in the last few years in the United States has been giving considerable trouble. As soon as you see the leaves beginning to turn yellow or brown, begin to spray for leaf miner.

The leaf miner is a small fly, the larva of which feeds within the leaf of the boxwood. The larva produces a yellowish oval blotch on the upper side of the leaf and a yellowish swollen underside. The miners discolor and kill the leaves and result in disfigurement and ruin of the bush. The larva spends its entire life within the leaf, the adult emerging and flying, mating and laying eggs during May and June. Where bushes are badly affected, the injured branches should be cut away and burned.

When you detect the presence of leaf miner, begin to spray at once with the following spray:

1 cupful of molasses
1 teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate
1 gallon of water.

Please tell me the name of the tree from which the inclosed leaf and blossom were taken. MRS. G. W. W.

The leaf and blossom resemble those of a Japanese cherry.

How do you remove the dead blooms from a rhododendron bush.

A READER.

Break off the flowering heads from your rhododendron without removing any of the branches.

Will clipping the tops of sweet alyssums cause the plants to continue to flower? MRS. LILY R.

Yes.

Jane Corbin Interprets the Mode

Bolero frock of white crepe marocian, edged with appliqued circles, and with a white chiffon blouse beaded with black and white dots. (Courtesy of Jenny, Paris.)

New York, Aug. 4.

YOU probably don't remember, unless you're lots older than you look, the good old days when jewelry was just jewelry—a combination occasionally lovely, but generally not of gold and "a" precious stone. There wasn't any particular desire to express beauty in this jewelry—it was an accepted way to show that the owner or donor possessed lots of money. If you had a good diamond, you were rich, and if it was set perfectly plainly, it didn't matter—it was a good diamond just the same.

But later on, and within our memory, the fad of costume jewelry rose in our fashion heavens. What if the glittering bits in our necklace were glass—they were effective, weren't they? The lucky ones who owned precious stones gave much thought to the beauty of their settings, but the rest of us were just as happy in our imitation stones.

The first artificial jewelry to be sanctioned by smart women was the artificial pearl necklace. After that it wasn't thought such poor taste to wear gay wooden jewelry, carved with artistry, distinction and charm and painted in brilliant colors.

Then we evoluted—or whatever you call it—to certain historic jewelry trends. Do you remember the waves of "faience" and turquoise that flooded the fashionable places of the world after the Egyptian excavations a few years ago? And the smart jewelry that the French colonial exposition brought forth this spring And now, ancient Turkish jewels have been displayed to the public—'n' unless I miss my guess we'll be sparkling in Eastern gorgeousness before so very long in a pleasing and fashionable Turkish manner.

* * * *

I 'spose you'd call it a "sports" frock, this exquisite Jenny bolero frock of white crepe marocain. But to me it's much lovelier than the term "sports" implies—the while I admit it's perfectly practical for any mild sport. I just had to sketch it for you today, to show you the smart way the little removable bolero ties over and forms tabs 'n' the way the skirt is split up the sides. The entire edge of the bolero, the tabs and the cuffs of the three-quarter sleeves are edged with little circles cut from the crepe marocain and appliqued—and the hem and slits of the skirt are outlined with these little appliqued circles, too.

* * * *

And the blouse—wel-l-l-l you can see from the illustration why it deserved a whole drawing to itself. It's of white chiffon, sleeveless and dotted with black and white. But the dots aren't just dots, if you see what I mean—they are solidly beaded in black and white beads.

* * * *

If you'll keep very quiet, I'll just gently hint that you copy this for yourself. For all its beauty and chic, it isn't very difficult to make.

* * * *

'N' after the whitest night that ever afflicted a taut-nerved Lovely Lady who would eat caviar just before bedtime, she can get up and be perfectly fresh and charming for breakfast without bothering to dress at all. And we all know what a nightie looks like after we've turned and twisted eight milyun times in one night. The secret is all explained in this week's leaflet, which is yours for the asking and for a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post. You see it's all about the lace bodice and the georgette skirt and the lace trousers that form the loveliest night-and-morning combination that ever was.

* * * *

And then there's Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Post.

Au revoir.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

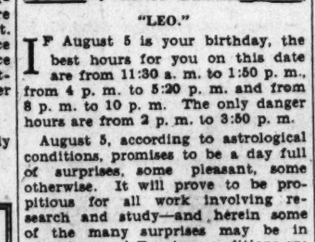
"GOOD-BY SLAM AND FAREWELL GAME."

EVEN Contract furnishes its comic relief. The misplay of our partners and the bulls of our opponents are the ever-recurring topics of conversation wherever Contract is played. Of course, we ourselves do not make any of these mistakes. It is interesting, however, when a leading authority, one who has written many volumes on how to play, proves to the world that he can make the same errors as less famous humankind. Today's hand was played in a Duplicate Contract game at the Knickerbocker Whist Club in New York. The holders of the hands, designated North and South, are both famous players and it is only because I wish them to retain that fame that I don't give the names. It was in the early days of Contract and the partners were wedded to the convention which provided for showing the control of a suit by bidding it either when void of it or holding the Ace. The hand was:



The Bidding.

(Numbers after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	East	North	West
2♥	Pass	3♣(1)	Pass
3NT	Pass	4♣(2)	Pass
Pass(3)	Pass

1—North had adequate support for a heart bid, but felt that he should first show his six-card suit in response to South's Forcing Opening bid.

2—Here the trolleys are crossed. Even using the Ace showing convention, a void suit should not be bid until a trump has been agreed upon. North and South had not reached an agreement on the trumps.

3—The player in the South was visibly puzzled. His words were audible to his opponents: "Can't understand what you are doing, partner. You are not showing the Ace because I have it myself." A pause, then, "Pass."

The hand, of course, is a laydown for six clubs or six hearts and the seven in clubs can be made by finessing twice in the heart suit.

The correct bidding of the hand would have been:

South	East	North	West
2♥	Pass	3♣(1)	Pass
6♣(2)	Pass	Pass(3)	Pass

1—Using the Approach Forcing System, North should bid three clubs in response to the Opening Forcing bid of two hearts. His hand contains a biddable suit and 1 honor-trick. It has distinct Slam possibilities in view of the void spade suit and the adequate support in North's Opening bid of Hearts.

2—Holding the three top honors in clubs, the Ace and King of hearts and the Ace and Queen of spades, South knows that North, in order to have made a bid of three clubs must hold the Ace of diamonds. In no event on the bidding should the hand produce more than one loser and the bid for a Slam therefore justified.

3—North has a close decision, but the fact that his hand contains only one entry outside of the trump suit and that the club suit is only Knave high, decides him not to bid for a Grand Slam, which could be made, as above pointed out, only through taking a finesse twice in the heart suit. With hearts as trump, the North hand could not get in the lead often enough to make the necessary lead through the Queen and ten of hearts, although with clubs the entries could be established by trumping spades after drawing the adverse trumps.

In play, so rich were North and South in Aces and Kings that they made six tricks, although holding only three trumps, the rather even division of East and West hands having averted a greater catastrophe, but as North and South were vulnerable and all other players holding their cards bid either a Small or Grand Slam and made it, the set of four tricks undoubtedly was probably a sufficient penalty for inaccurate bidding.

TODAY'S POINTER.

A correspondent has asked, "What is the proper bid on the hand below?"

DEALER.

♥ A K 4
♦ A 4 3

Answer—The proper bid on this hand is one spade, and this bid, of course, the partner must pass, as he holds neither honor-tricks nor distributional values to assist the spade bid. It is true the hand contains five honor-tricks, but it comes within the 5-3-3-2 distribution, which requires 5½ honor-tricks to make an Opening bid of two in a suit. In other words, this hand is of a type that would require a voluntary response (about 1½ honor-tricks) to give any assurance of game. The hand itself contains 7 playing-tricks; 4 in spades, 2 in hearts, 1 in diamonds, and the contract of 1 spade, if undisturbed, will probably be made. If the Dealer opened with two spades on this hand, the partner would respond with two notrump. Dealer would then bid three spades to show a five-card length and a fairly strong trump suit. Under the principle of once Forcing, always Forcing, the partner would be compelled to then bid three notrump, and this contract will be defeated 2 tricks, if not more, if his hand is trickless. There is no bid as much abused as the Opening bid of two in a suit. It is a powerful weapon in the arsenal of any Contract player if he understands the mechanism. It is a dangerous one and likely to 'kill friend rather than foe if he does not.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"LEO."

IF August 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:50 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:20 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The only danger hours are from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

August 5, according to astrological conditions, promises to be a day full of surprises, some pleasant, some otherwise. It will prove to be propitious for all work involving research and study—and herein some of the many surprises may be in store for you. Evening conditions are benign and favor engagements.

Children born on this August 5 will be self-reliant and capable of great concentrative effort. They will be apt to enter into obligations carelessly, and this may land them in difficulties. Affectionate, pure-minded, energetic and kindly, they will never lack friends. Their horoscope denotes happiness and material success.

If born on August 5, originality is one of your strong points, and this is revealed in thought and action. You are always conceiving new ideas and carrying out fresh plans. Sometimes you carry this to excess and discard a plan which promises success for a new scheme which ends in failure. You are not subject to the whims and fancies of others, and are rarely influenced by unsought advice. You are willing to stand by your guns and take the consequences—whatever they may be.

You are oversensitive and often sense in general conversation slights and injuries, when, as a matter of fact, no personal thought of you was in the mind of the speakers. You can not take impersonal remarks in any but a personal way. You have good ability in a commercial way, and possess a vivid imagination. This, like your originality, leads you astray at times. On the whole, however, your horescope bespeaks a fair measure of success.

You are generous and despise anything underhanded or mean. You have a good sense of humor—of the wholesome variety. You do not lay claim to any saintly qualities, yet you are a clean liver and "play the game." Your home will always be the magnet that draws you away from unhealthy influences.

Successful people born August 5:
Jacob Ruppert, brewer.
Bruce Barton, author.
Henry B. Irving, English actor.

VANDERBILT'S WIFE WINS RENO DIVORCE

Writer Repeatedly Fails in Last-Minute Effort at Reconciliation.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Rumored last-minute attempts by her husband at a reconciliation failing, Mary Weir Vanderbilt went into divorce court here today and had her marriage to Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., dissolved. The decree she obtained from Judge Benjamin F. Curler was absolute.

Secrecy surrounded the proceedings, which took place behind closed doors. There were only two witnesses—Paul Walters, who established proof of Mrs. Vanderbilt's residence here, and Mrs. Vanderbilt herself. Vanderbilt did not personally appear, being represented only by his attorney.

Terms of a property settlement were not divulged. Neither were those of an alimony agreement, which is understood, however, to have provided for payment by Vanderbilt "in excess of $500" each month.

Although their attorneys said "a reconciliation was impossible" there were reports today that Vanderbilt had attempted to patch up his family troubles, but that Mrs. Vanderbilt had refused to consider the matter. Today she would not deny that they had conversed last night, simply stating she had "no statement to make."

The divorce was the second for both. Vanderbilt was divorced here in 1927 by Rachel Littleton, of New York, and some months later Mrs. Vanderbilt got a decree against Walter Hancock Logan, Chicago and Los Angeles broker.

Vanderbilt and Mrs. Logan married in July of 1928 and until June of this year apparently lived happily together. On June 15, however, they separated, assertedly over attentions Peter Arno, New York caricaturist, allegedly was paying Mrs. Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt filed for divorce four days later, charging cruelty, and shortly thereafter his wife filed a cross complaint denying his allegations and bringing the same charge against him.

It was on this cross complaint that Mrs. Vanderbilt obtained her divorce today.

Wayburn, Dance Tutor, Undergoes Operation

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Ned Wayburn, well-known dance instructor, is ill in the Claremont Hospital, Claremont, N. H., where he is undergoing a two-stage operation.

Advices received here today said the theatrical man became ill several weeks ago. He was rushed to Bayside, Long Island, last Wednesday for a consultation with his family doctor when his condition became acute. He was returned to Claremont, and the first operation was performed yesterday. The second will be in about ten days.

Uncle of Bank Robber Held.

Pryor, Okla., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Mayes County officers were notified today that Ed Kimes, uncle of Matt Kimes, notorious Oklahoma bank robber, is held at San Antonio, Tex., for return here on a jail-breaking charge. He escaped two months ago, following his arrest on a corn-stealing charge.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

AFTER completing the talking picture version of the Donald Ogden Stewart play, "Rebound," Ina Claire has definitely determined to wave a reluctant adieu to the theater of flesh and blood and devote her entire time and consummate artistry to the cinema's shadow drama.

It has required the reassuring experience of three "talkies," each an improvement over the one preceding, to convince Miss Claire that the articulate screen is a medium as minutely attuned to her manifold talents as the stage. "The Awful Truth" left her decidedly in doubt as to her adaptability to the methods and requirements of the silver sheet and the microphones. "The Royal Family of Broadway" swayed her decidedly to the side of the cinema and "Rebound" is said to have brought the conviction that the camera is her best friend.

Having achieved some renown as a mimic in vaudeville and with the late Clifton Crawford in "The Quaker Girl," the former Miss Fagan, of Washington, attracted the attention of the late David Belasco by the subtle skill of her suggestion of Frances Starr—now also proselyted to motion pictures—in "Marie-Odile," a song of questionable delicacy, written by Channing Pollock and the late Rennold Wolf, as a feature of one of Mr. Ziegfeld's "Follies," in which she was frivolously featured.

Belasco was so impressed by Miss Claire's latent powers that he engaged her to play the leading role in "Polly With a Past." From that time forth, through a list of vehicles that included "The Gold Diggers," "Grounds for Divorce," "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," "The Awful Truth," and "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," her name was never identified with a failure.

No wonder she took her time in arriving at a final decision to renounce the stage in favor of the celluloids!

A busy week-end is in prospect for the management of the Fox Theater. On Friday evening of this week, August 7, at 8 o'clock, in the new studio of the dance on the ninth floor of the American Building, 1317 F street, in what was formerly the hearing room of the Interstate Commerce Commission—when it occupied the upper floors of the American National Bank Building—Managing Director Harry W. Crull and his associates will begin the final selection of the cast for the All-Washington Revue, to be presented at the Fox the week of August 21.

A long list of applicants awaits the decision of Mr. Crull and his staff, the difficulty confronting them being whom to eliminate rather than which of the many to choose.

It will be an elaborate bill at the Fox, come August 21, if present plans carry—Sally Eilers and James Dunn in Vina Delmar's "Bad Girl," on the screen; the All-Washington Revue and Fanchon & Marco's "Pep" Idea—two separate and distinct units—on the stage; Al Mitchell and the Fox Music Masters in the orchestra pit, and Bob Hamilton at the console of the organ.

They'll need at least as many rings as the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey tabloid show!

Not all the movement of traffic in show business is from East to West, as one is sometimes given reason to believe. Dulcy Cooper and Kathryn Givney, two former stage luminaries, will trek back from the studios of Hollywood to Broadway and the legitimate stage the latter part of this month to begin rehearsals in "Peter Flies High," the new Myron C. Fagan comedy which Leonard Bergman is producing with Glenn Hunter as star. Mary Loane, as has been previously chronicled on this very line, has been engaged for the feminine lead opposite Mr. Hunter. Harry Gresham, last seen here as Tippy Shronk in George Kelly's "Philip Goes Forth," also will be in the cast.

Since the Misses Givney and Loane have both appeared under less formal and slightly more permanent auspices in Mr. Rapley's celebrated playhouse, it is wholly appropriate that "Peter Flies High" should have its premiere performance in the National Theater in this city the week of September 14.

More than once this column has borne down on the fact that no sane reviewer can ever hope to pick entertainment for the entire theatergoing populace of his community with any appreciable degree of success. It is emphasized again by Tuesday's mail.

It happens that two articulate and discerning correspondents—and the two qualities do not by any means always go together—saw fit to address me on the single topic of the current bill at the Palace.

One says:

"Doubtless you are right that the male half of the team of Chilton and Thomas does the cleverest and most difficult dancing, but I'll have to admit that it's the girl's dance which intrigues me most. She is so graceful and such a whirlwind of motion—her dance always leaves me breathless.

"And the Palace would have to book that act with 'Night Angel.' What a picture!"

And says the other:

"Of course, I am unable to analyze a picture and tear its mechanism to pieces—I only know whether a picture pleases me, and 'Night Angel' did. There might be a chance that it was because of Fredric March. Isn't it strange what a lot that man can say to you just by moving a little muscle in his jaw?"

Which ought to make it clear to you why we so-called dramatic editors are all just a little bit demented. Yes, I said "little bit," but you may be right!

Mr. Hardie Meakin, manager of the RKO-Keith Theater has displayed rare acumen and a high brand of showmanship by booking Universal's series of "Strange As It Seems" short-reels as a regular feature at the Fifteenth street house. This, as being an informed person, of course, you know, is a picturization of the John Hix feature appearing daily in The Post. As screen entertainment it possesses the priceless elements of both originality and novelty, just as it does in cartoon form in the paper.

Watch for it in both places!

And one of the boys in the back room was sure the heat, or that panther sweat, or something, had gotten him until convinced that that really was a camel belonging to the "Moroccan" Idea, playing the Fox, tethered out in the alley.

But he'd already run a mile to get away from it!

COTTON CROP CUTS BY LAW ARE URGED

Delegates to Conference in Texas Told to Increase Uses of Staple.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Most of the delegates to the South-wide Cotton Conference here today asked cotton States to curtail their production by law. They coupled with this a request that the South leave no stone unturned in increasing the use of its chief crop.

The conference was called by Gov Ross S. Sterling of Texas, in which State a bill has been introduced in the Legislature, meeting in special session, to prevent the planting of land in cotton two years in succession. Conferees asked that Texas, the largest cotton-producing State, take the lead by enacting this law, and asserted they believed other States would follow.

Should Increase Uses.

T. Arthur, Edwards, of Lake Charles, the Louisiana Governor's representative, suggested a campaign advertising the possible uses of cotton. He said the farmer could afford to advertise a product as valuable as cotton if manufacturers found it profitable to advertise commodities worth 5 or 10 cents.

Mr. Edwards told of a railroad substituting cotton table cloths for linen cloths in its diners as an example of what might be accomplished by concerted advertising and salesmanship.

Following the same line of reasoning, Dr. H. L. Kent, president of New Mexico Agricultural College, said cement manufacturers were using paper bags in their shipments whereas they could just as easily use cotton bags and at no additional expense to the consumer.

Must Depend on U. S.

Dr. Kent stated that the South must look more and more to the American market for disposal of its crop.

C. O. Moser, of New Orleans, vice president of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, asserted that "everywhere agriculture has touched industry, agriculture has been the sufferer." He stated that was because industry was organized and agriculture was not.

The Texas chief executive opened his remarks with the statement that the whole Nation was "somewhat out of order." Some of this disorder was brought about by the "infernal Republican party," the governor asserted amid applause.

"But we want to leave politics out. The President is a member of that party. We may want to pass resolutions calling on him for aid," he said.

PASTOR AT DANVILLE HELD ON 11 CHARGES

Rev. J. Arthur Winn Faces Accusations of Women; Church Investigates.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 4.—The Rev. J. Arthur Winn now nearing his fourth year as pastor of Cabell Street Methodist Church, was arrested at 10:30 o'clock this morning by Police Lieut. O. S. Mayberry on eleven warrants, each charging a misdemeanor.

In one warrant he is charged with immorality with Bertha Mabes, 18 years old, and in the other ten with simple assaults on as many different women. Mr. Winn was arrested at the office of his attorney, M. K. Harris and he later appeared before Magistrate W. E. Griggs and gave $100 bond for appearance in the police court on August 11.

The Rev John W. Winn, his brother, also of Danville, went his security. Besides Mr. Harris, the minister will be defended by his brother-in-law, former State Senator G. Walter Mapp and Brook Mapp. After the formalities, Mr. Harris declared that eight of the warrants are barred by the statute of limitations. "My client welcomes the fullest sort of inquiry, and is satisfied he will be exonerated."

Bertha Mabes, the records show, has a juvenile court record. She has been convicted of petty larceny and confined in Bonair reformatory as an incorrigible. Names of women who appear on the simple assault warrants as victims are Miss Florence Weary, Mrs. Robert Frank, Willie Clay Irby, a Negress; Mrs. J. W. Erpa, Mrs. Claude Hudgins, Mrs. Clyde Cook, Mrs. Catherine Powell, Mrs. Albert Lane, Mrs. Ben Hailey and Mrs. E. Hailey.

Last night the official board of Moseley Memorial Church met, but took no action on the ministerial situation. Commonwealth's attorney John W. Carter appeared, however, and made a statement exonerating Lieut. Mayberry of criticism.

It is disclosed that on July 24, Lieut. Mayberry gave to Mr. Carter information that had come to his knowledge. This resulted in the Commonwealth attorney taking statements recorded stenographically from nearly 50 women.

Mr. Winn has served churches in Emporia and Norfolk. Four Methodist ministers of the Danville district sitting as a committee of investigation behind closed doors continued their session today. The Rev. E. L. Bain, presiding elder and one of the four, declined to specify the nature of the investigation.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Graceful, dainty and lovely is today's model.

The softly draped bodice is youthfully becoming. The hips are smoothly fitted. A peplum frill is inserted at the edge of the hip yoke. It's exceedingly modish. However, it may be omitted as seen in minature view.

It's very dainty in a chiffon print.

In white embroidered organdie it enjoys much popularity with the younger set.

Yellow eyelet batiste is smart.

White or pale blue crepe satin is stunning.

Style No. 380 is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 5¾ yards of 39-inch material.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

Mexican Silver Peso Rises to 2.80 for $1

Mexico City, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The silver peso came back to something like its normal relation to the dollar today when for the first time since the Calles monetary reform went into effect a week ago it was quoted at less than 3 to $1.00. The bank of Mexico was buying dollars at 2.75 this noon and some other banks were selling at 2.80.

The improvement is believed due largely to the rush of depositors to withdraw silver accounts from the Banco Nacional, thus creating an unusual demand for silver and taking a large amount out of circulation.

That's the theme song these days of every coat buyer at LANSBURGH'S. Being a woman, we asked "Why?" That's all the encouragement they need to tell you:

—"Wool prices toppled to an extreme low. Woolen mills are using more yarn in each yard. Cloths run from 2 to 3 ounces heavier than they did last year."

—"Fine furs are less expensive. Three eagerly sought furs—fox, mink and Persian lamb—are way down in price!"

—"Silks for linings are so low the silk worm refuses to make another cocoon!"

—"And LANSBURGH'S sale coats come in every size range—misses, women, little women and stouts!"

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DUSTING POWDERS.

WHAT is written here applies to hot weather practice. It is almost in the nature of things for the feet to swell somewhat in hot weather, though in many the increase is not great enough to attract attention. When the swelling is noticeable and no organic disease is present to serve as an explanation, and tight garters and bands can not be used as an alibi, we say that local acidosis is the cause. If that be true there is no reason for thinking that a foot powder serves to remove the cause, but there is an abundance of experience proving that it relieves the symptoms.

A generation ago a certain firm built up an enormous business for a foot powder. The use of this powder did promote foot comfort, though none of its constituents was absorbed and the effects were practically altogether mechanical. Possibly any other powder would have done as well.

Dusting the inside of the shoes and dusting the feet before putting on the socks will go a long way toward preventing burning of the feet, painful feet where the pain is in the skin, and those thickenings of the skin that we call calluses and corns. It will benefit soreness and burning of the skin element of a bunion. I have a suspicion that plenty of powder thus used is of value in the prevention and cure of those blisters on the feet that develop in hot weather, and that are commonly known as pompholyx. There is no reason for thinking it will help in ringworm of the feet.

Perhaps the formula of the powder is not a matter of much consequence. A very smooth powder is better than the rougher kind, and one that is mildly bactericidal has advantages.

The use of dusting powders on the skin is helpful in preventing and curing prickly heat. Much the most important element in the causation of this annoying skin trouble is soaking the skin with sweat. The best single measure for preventing it is to keep the air below the temperature at which perspiration rolls out. The next most important measure for control is prompt removal of sweat soaked garments. Covering the skin with a smooth, bland powder is of service. Some use powdered soda for the purpose. This is not good practice. The sweat converts the powder into a strong alkaline solution that is harmful to the skin cells. A simple dusting powder is better.

PROBABLY RINGWORM.

Mrs. C. E. C. writes: I have a very large and thick toenail on one of my big toes. It has been that way now for nearly five years. When it first started looking funny it went sort of yellow and instead of the nail coming off, as I supposed it was going to do, it just kept getting thicker and thicker until now at times I have to file the top of the nail in order to wear my shoes. I never remember hurting it. What would cause it to get that way? Is it dangerous? Would you recommend having it taken off. If so, is it much of a operation?

REPLY.

You have some disease of the nail, probably ringworm. The trouble scarcely warrants removal. Treatment for ringworm of the nail should improve this condition at least.

NOT WELL BALANCED.

M. M. writes: Is a diet consisting of milk and cereal for breakfast and soup and vegetables for dinner correct two months after recovery from a bad case of gastritis?

REPLY.

You give only two meals and supply no details as to those. As well as one can guess, your diet is pretty badly out of balance. You can continue it for a while without harm, but there are limits.

PERMANENT WAVES.

Mrs. F. writes: Does permanent waving turn the hair gray?

REPLY.

It does not.

PARESIS.

E. S. writes:

1. Is paresis a form of insanity?
2. How does the affected person act?

REPLY.

1. It is one form.
2. His judgment becomes poor; he is likely to risk and lose his money; to become unexplainably unmoral. He has delusions. These are often delusions of grandeur.

STOCK TREND DROPS IN DULLER TRADING

Recent Slight Gains Lost at Close; Rail Issues Decline in Selling.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The dullness of dog days hung over the financial markets today. Trends were lower in most departments, especially the stock section, although prices there rallied enough in the last hour to pull final quotations above the lows for industrial and utility issues. Rails, whose downward drag influenced earlier dealings in other groups, remained heavy.

Expectations of a larger than seasonal decline in car loadings may have had something to do with the tone, but probably the deeper reason was the expectation of dividend cuts as well as wage problems which may lie ahead.

Roughly speaking, the market lost what it gained yesterday. The late rally so reduced the losses that American Can, Case and Allied Chemical fully recovered 2-point declines, and U. S. Steel got back half of a similar drop. American Telephone, active and heavy, retained nearly two-thirds of a 3-point reaction. General Electric, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and North American closed about steady. Consolidated Gas and General Motors were among the few firm spots in the list of leaders.

Rail Issues Weaken.

Union Pacific and Atchison weakened to the extent of 5 and 4 points, respectively. Pere Marquette preferred issues slumped sharply. New Haven, New York Central and Pennsylvania came within fractions of their year's lows.

Heaviness of wheat, which made new minimums, reflected the German government's reduction of the import allowance, a step that puts a damper on the proposal to sell to that country from our own surplus. The financial community now expects the Reich will be interested only in our cotton and copper, although producers of the latter commodity are not anxious to sell at current prices. The copper export quotation was reduced to the domestic level this morning.

Banking difficulties cropped out in Mexico, reflecting possibly the recent currency changes there. Meanwhile, local bankers held further conferences on the subject of existing short-term acceptance credits in Germany. Reports of disagreements at previous discussions had been heard, but it was said that any differences had concerned only details of the problem rather than its basic elements.

Pipe Demands Slacken.

The demand for pipe line material, which boosted steel-making operations in the Youngstown district late last week, has slackened and without this support production is back around the low rate of the year. Maintenance of present levels during the next two or three weeks would probably be regarded as satisfactory; if the seasonal tendency is experienced August should be somewhat better than July. American Metal Market said output was down "a point or so" from last week.

Heavy flow of oil in the vexatious east Texas field accounted for a moderate increase in crude production during the last week. Producers apparently are trying hard for higher prices and have had some success; how badly they need happier times is being strikingly reflected by the earnings statements of the petroleum companies for the first half year.

Net losses in wheat ranged from one-half to three-quarters of a cent. Corn closed off ¾ to up ¼, reflecting forecasts of beneficial rains and increased contract stocks. Cotton came back to finish unchanged to 4 points higher; during the early break October sold at the lowest since February, 1915.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly, with sterling cables slipping off ¼ cent, to $4.85 13-16. Spanish pesetas were heavy.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—New smashing of all-time low price official records for regulation contract grades of wheat carried the Chicago market down today to 47¾ cents a bushel. The latest previous official minimum here was 48 cents on July 31 last.

Today's bottom record was reached on a sale of No. 2 red winter wheat to be delivered at once, and the immediate depressing factor was announcement that wheat from countries along the Danube River was offered in Liverpool at equal to 50 cents a bushel, including costs, insurance and freight. Severe pressure of such cheap offerings of wheat on the British market was ascribed to difficulties of the financial situation abroad.

Wheat in Chicago closed nervous, future deliveries ½ to ¾ cents lower than yesterday's finish, corn ⅝ off to ¼ up, oats ¼ to ⅜ down, and provisions showing 2 cents to 20 cents drop.

Inasmuch as the ordinary difference between the Chicago and the Liverpool wheat markets is 20 cents a bushel, such a price as 50 cents at Liverpool would mean 30 cents in Chicago. There were unofficial reports that in 1852 a spot cash delivery of wheat here was made at 28 cents, but no such prices were confirmed until today's 48 cents was rock bottom. Under such circumstances as reported from Liverpool, the Chicago market today lurched downward at the outset, and at no time showed much power to rally.

The Farmers' National Grain Co., a Government financed agency, led the general selling of wheat in the early dealings, and this was followed by execution of stop loss orders from other sources. Hedging against rural purchases of grain was the generally accepted reason of the selling on the part of the Farmers' National. Meanwhile, contributing to the weakness of the market was word that Germany had hoisted her restrictions on wheat imports, and that commencing on August 10 she would allow the use of only 3 per cent of imported wheat as against 97 per cent of German wheat.

Asserting that some prospect existed of Germany disposing of about 16,000,000 bushels of inferior quality German wheat and that she would purchase an equal amount of United States wheat on long term credit, were virtually ignored in Chicago. Traders gave but little attention either to estimates that domestic stocks of old wheat held by interior mills and elevators on July 1 were only about half as large as a year ago. A decrease of 5,264,000 bushels in the amount of wheat afloat for Europe was also lost sight of.

Corn and oats receded with wheat. All deliveries of oats outdid the season's bottom price record, with September oats the lowest since 1900.

Provisions reflected downturns of cereals.

UTILITY BONDS GAIN; FOREIGN ISSUES SAG

Prices in Rails Are Lower Despite Market Activity; Turnover Increases.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—The bond market was irregular again today, but trading was more active. Sales totaled $7,816,000, at par values, compared with the two-year low record total of $5,906,000 yesterday.

Fluctuations were generally narrow. A declining tendency was noticeable in industrial and railroad issues, but public utility obligations were inclined to rise. The combined average of ten bonds of each of these groups was unchanged at 94.6.

Foreign loans provided many of the large changes, the majority of which were declines. Germany 5½s and 7s were two of the most active issues of the group. The former were consistently firm but the latter weakened especially on the late sales. City of Berlin 6½s of 1950 advanced sharply but trends in other issues of that nation were irregular. Argentine loans made a group advance.

United States Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52 and the new Treasury 3½s of 1946-49 were the two most active issues of the Federal Government, and they closed unchanged. Most other loans of this group were dull with a declining tendency.

Fluctuations in domestic corporate bonds were narrow in most instances. The trend in the rails was plainly downward, however, especially among second grade issues, some of which reached new low prices. Great Northern series D 4½s and the series E 4¼s and Illinois Central refunding 5s hit new minimum levels.

Sporadic activity appeared here and there over the list. Detroit Edison series D 4½s, New York Central general 3½s, Union Pacific refunding 4s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s and 5½s and American Telephone debenture 5s of 1965 all reflected a steady demand and closed higher. This action can not be regarded as reflecting any new trend, as these bonds are all of good or better investment rating and the demands for such securities has been strong for some time past.

The Eastern New Jersey Power Co. has called the 6 per cent series of 1949 and the 5½ per cent series of 1949 and the 5 per cent series of 1949 and of 1959 of bonds aggregating $10,300,000. The bonds will be redeemed at 105 and accrued interest as of January 1, 1932.

Growers Getting More For Cigarette Tobacco

Florence, S. C., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The South Carolina bright tobacco belt opened today with the smallest offerings in years. Farmers appeared hesitant to risk their harvest of the golden weed in the first break, but those who were bolder found prices as high and in some instances higher than last year.

Unofficial quotations of prices in the markets indicated that good, clean grainings of ripe cigarette tobacco were bringing from 4 to 7 cents a pound more than last year.

CAPITAL PUBLIC LINKS GOLFERS FACE ELIMINATION

Par 72 Score Of Japanese Leads Play

Connelly and Billings, With 80, Retain Qualifying Hopes.

Burrows Has 84, Will 87 and Burton 88 at St. Paul.

Special to The Washington Post.

KELLER COUNTRY CLUB, St. Paul, Aug. 4.—As a result of today's first-round play in the national public parks championship tournament, John Connelly and Wesley Billings, of Washington, are on the ragged edge of qualifying for match play, while Bradley Burrows, Harland G. Will and Robert Burton, the other entrants from the Capital City, apparently are out of the picture unless they do some phenomenal shooting in the second eighteen-hole round tomorrow.

Connelly and Billings each turned in a card of 80 today, while Burroughs needed 84 strokes for his round, with Will taking 87 and Burton 88. Luck of the draw sent all of the Washington players off the first tee in the afternoon when a high wind played havoc with their game.

Cards of 160 May Qualify Today.

As 160 generally is regarded as the qualifying limit, both Connelly and Billings tomorrow will have to at least equal their score of today, while Burrows, an experienced player, is expected to better his 84 and has a chance of remaining in the tournament. This trio and Will made up the Washington Warren G. Harding Memorial Cup team and their combined scores totaled 339, which was far behind the leaders.

Connelly deserved a better total. He got off to a bad start, taking a 6 on the second, and a 7 on the third. He then steadied down, but the wind took many of his shots astray. He had a 37 coming in, with birdies on the twelfth and eighteenth, although he was in trouble on the short fifteenth, when he took a five after driving short and then overplaying the green.

Seven on Third Mars Billings' Card.

A 7 on the third and 6's on the seventh and twelfth marred Billings' card, but good work with his irons brought him home in 39 after he had used 41 on the outward journey.

Cards of the Washington players:

Diminutive Japanese Is One-Man Show.

Keller Club, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Arthur Sato, a Japanese fish salesman from San Francisco, was the one-man show of the first eighteen-hole fight for medalist honors in the national public links golf championship today.

Defying a heavy southwester, which sent scores sailing almost out of sight, the 115-pound son of Nippon blazed his way over the championship Keller course with the only par 72 performance of the day, to take the lead in the struggle by two shots.

Sato's work also lifted the San Francisco team into first place by four strokes with a four-man total of 313 at the halfway mark in the battle for the Warren G. Harding trophy, emblematic of public links team supremacy in the United States.

Sato, a native of Japan, learned his golf only six years ago from Jimmy Duncan.

Two Birdies Offset Two Mistakes.

He made only two mistakes on his round, and made up for them by spearing two birdies—one on the 404-yard second green, where he slapped his approach 2 feet from the pin for a three, and on the 410-yard seventeenth, where he sank a 30-foot putt down a treacherous incline.

His mistakes came on the 337-yard eighth, where he muffed a 2-foot putt, and on the fifteenth, where the wind carried his ball far out of line. He clipped off the other fourteen holes in easy par, missing putts for birdies frequently by inches.

Trailing the diminutive pacesetter by two strokes at the halfway juncture of the 36-hole tussle for medalist honors, came a trio of sharp shooting public links men, Charles Albertus of Philadelphia, Art Nutting of Louisville, Ky., and David Mitchell of Indianapolis. Albertus scored a par 36 going out but fell afoul of the wind on his way back and took a 38 for his 74. Mitchell burned up the course with a par-shattering 34 out, but fell apart on his return with a 40, while Nutting tallied a par of 37s, one over par on each nine.

Defending Champion In Strong Finish.

Other low scorers in the big parade of America's bourgeois of the links, golfers who can not afford the time or money to belong to private clubs, were Ed Greenway of Seattle, who carded 37—38—75, and Barney Lucas, Los Angeles, 37—38—75; Charles Delsanter, Cleveland, 37—39—76; Bob Gourlay, Seattle, 40—36—76; Mike Surmiak, of Philadelphia, who scored 37—39—76, and Charles Ferrara, member of San Francisco's team, who scored 41—35—76.

Bob Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla., defending champion, was forced to step on the gas with a sensational finish to creep away from the danger line of qualification for the title grind, which starts with the 32 low scorers for the 36-hole qualifying round Thursday. Standing on the eighteenth tee, Wingate was nine strokes over par.

Taking a chance with the treacherous wind he cracked a long tee shot and then spanked an iron second that landed in the cup for a startling deuce on the 468-yard, par five hole.

Johnson Now Silent on Nats' Flag Chances; "Power" Hitting Has Turned Tide for A's Retains Confidence of Beating Yanks for 2d Place.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MANAGER WALTER JOHNSON has reached the stage now where he does not care to be quoted as to what he thinks the Nationals' chances of beating out the Mackmen. In view of the fact that from the time the team reported at the Biloxi training camp until only recently he was insisting that his team had a fine chance to win out, his silence now might be taken to be signs of a complete revision of his ideas, especially as the Nat leader is perfectly willing to give reasons why he believes that the third-place New York Yankees can not overtake the Washington Club.

Along with his successes, Johnson has had many disappointments, and there is no question but what the failure of the 1931 edition of Nationals is one of them. And another, closely linked with the first, is the fact that the Mackmen proved even better than they were last season.

There is no question but what the Washington Club is a good one, despite the inconsistency of its pitchers at times, and the scribes of other cities who see the National League games are almost unanimous in expressing the opinion that the Nats could easily win out in that circuit. But they are not in that circuit, and so, as the writer views things, will have to be satisfied with another second-place cut of the world's series melon—and they will have a battle on their hands to get this.

Macks Proved Case In Twin Victory.

The double-header in Philadelphia Monday, in which the Nationals lost two games by one run, showed just why the Mackmen are a better team than the Nationals. In spite of the fact that they have three of the best pitchers in baseball in Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and George Walberg, their superiority over Johnson's charges lies in "power" hitting.

Although outhit in both contests, as regards the number of safe blows inserted, a triple and two doubles figured in their big inning in the opener, while homers by Simmons, Foxx and Todt, the latter's breaking a deadlock in the eighth, enabled them to cop in the nightcap.

Washington has no slugger on whom it can count for a long-distance blow in the pinches, whereas, Simmons, Foxx and Cochrane invariably come through for the A.'s. In averages the Nationals and Mackmen are about even, but out there on the diamond the Quakers seem to have the happy faculty of getting extra bases—frequently homers—while the Nats are pecking away for singles, with an occasional double tossed in.

A's Pitching Strength Proved Surprise.

The Washington Club's theory has been that a tight defense, including pitching, would give it the edge over the A.'s in the long run. It was conceded that the Mackmen's "Big Three" were better than any three on the Nat pay roll, but that Mack could not get by this year, as he did last, with Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg carrying the load.

But Mack has gottten by, and the Nats' staff did not show up as well in action as it did on paper, making it a question of hitting—and the A.'s have overpowered the Nats and their other opponents in that respect; all of which means that the Washington Club must pick up an Al Simmons, a Jimmy Foxx or a Mickey Cochrane before it can hope to compete with Connie Mack's charges in a serious way.

Marberry to Oppose Red Sox in Opener.

Manager Johnson has called for a practice session at the Griffith apple orchard this morning to put on the finishing touches for the series with the Red Sox, which starts tomorrow. Fred Marberry is ready to pitch for the Nats in this game and promises to start them off with a victory. Friday will be an off day, with the series being concluded with single games Saturday and Sunday, after which the Eastern teams make their third invasion of the West.

Marberry pitched one of his best games against the Mackmen last Saturday, winning a duel from George Walberg. He showed a flash of his old-time speed and was strong from start to finish. Horace Lisenbee, former Nat, likely will oppose him.

Nats Fail to Match Even Pitching of Athletics.

A's Pitching Strength Proved Surprise.

The Washington Club's theory has been that a tight defense, including pitching, would give it the edge over the A.'s in the long run. It was conceded that the Mackmen's "Big Three" were better than any three on the Nat pay roll, but that Mack could not get by this year, as he did last, with Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg carrying the load.

But Mack has gottten by, and the Nats' staff did not show up as well in action as it did on paper, making it a question of hitting—and the A.'s have overpowered the Nats and their other opponents in that respect; all of which means that the Washington Club must pick up an Al Simmons, a Jimmy Foxx or a Mickey Cochrane before it can hope to compete with Connie Mack's charges in a serious way.

Doeg Forced To 3 Sets by Yeomans

Capital Youth Bows to U. S. Champion by 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Gladhill Victor Over Allison in Lone Upset at Southampton.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Two rounds of play today reduced the field in the annual Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament to eight, but left John Hope Doeg, the national champion, from Newark, N. J.; Ellsworth Vines, jr., Pasadena, Calif., youngster, and all the other outstanding favorites except Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., still in the running.

Surviving the second and third rounds along with Doeg and Vines were Wilbur F. Coen, of Kansas City; Berkley Bell, of New York; Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark; Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Calif.; George Lott, of Philadelphia, and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans.

Yeomans Carries Doeg To Three Sets.

The rocky road Johnny Doeg has been traversing in this season's tournaments was never more noticeable today when he met and was nearly conquered by Eddie Yeomans, Washington, D. C., youth who played with North Carolina's unbeaten team. Doeg eked out a victory, at 3—6, 6—4, 6—4, over Yeomans, after being completely outplayed in the first set and being pressed to the limit in the next two.

Yeomans' steady-stroking, unhurried style of play all but turned in the greatest upset of the day. His long, flat drives winged their way down the lines with great accuracy all during the match. Doeg was frequently passed in his attempts to storm the net.

Doeg, evidently put on guard by his near-defeat, later in the day swept over Bruce Barnes, aggressive Texan, in straight sets, 6—3, 6—3, displaying some of his best tennis of the year.

Vines, conqueror of Doeg in both the Longwood Bowl and Seabright invitation tournaments, first eliminated the sensational Los Angeles youngster, Jack Tidball, 6—4, 6—3, and then had a fight on his hands to whip Eugene McAuliff, of Yonkers, N. Y., 6—4, 10—8.

Gledhill, who scored the only real upset of the day in eliminating Allison in the second round, 6—4, 9—7, went on to eliminate Percy Melville, of Southampton, 6—3 6—2. Melville, it was, who had to travel 80 games, one of the longest matches in tennis history, to beat a fellow Southampton player, John W. Strafford, in the first round. Today in the second round he traveled 38 games to beat Armand Bruneau, of New York, 9—7, 4—6, 7—5.

Coen and Mangin Advance Easily.

Coen and Mangin had the easiest time reaching the fourth round, each winning two matches in straight sets. Coen first put out Les Stoeffen, of Los Angeles, 8—6, 6—1 and then walloped John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, 6—4, 6—3. Mangin's victims were Dave Jones, of New York, 10—8, 6—2 Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., before he could win, 5—7, 6—2, 7—5.

Bell defeated Gustave Boehmer, R., of St. Louis, 9—7, 6—4 and Jake Hess, of Fort Worth, Tex., 6—3, 1—6, 6—3. Hess had reached the third round through the default of the defending

GIANTS DRUB BROOKLYN TWICE

Pound Clark Out in 6-3 Win; Beat Vance in Duel.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The Giants, fighting to strengthen their hold on second place in the National League, drubbed the Brooklyn Robins in both games of a double-header today. The scores were 6-3 and 3-2, and ran New York's winning streak to five games.

In the first clash, Fred Fitzsimmons kept ten Brooklyn hits well scattered while the Giants drove Watson Clark from the mound in the eighth, scoring four runs to take the game.

Bill Walker pitched superbly in the second game, getting the better of Dazzy Vance in a mound duel in which each pitcher allowed six hits. Walker struck out eight.

Travis Jackson hit a homer in the second to tie the score and started the two-run rally that won the game in the fifth by cracking out a double.

Official Scorer Reduces Webb's Doubles to 50

Chicago, Aug 4 (A.P.).—The American League headquarters today gave Earl Webb, Boston outfielder, an official total of 50 doubles instead of 51 with which he was unofficially credited.

Statisticians explained that the discrepancy occurred May 1, when unofficial scorekeepers gave Webb a double where the official Boston scorer in the game with Washington credited him with a single.

Roberti Stays With Primo 3 Rounds

Warned to Fight by Referee or Forfeit His Purse.

15,000 at Newark See Loser Go Down Without Being Hit.

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Some 15,000 spectators who packed Dreamland Park tonight to witness an "honest" fight between Primo Carnera and Roberto Roberti, rival Italian heavyweights, were added to the Carnera "sucker" list when Roberti, making no effort to fight, was declared loser on a technical knockout in the third round.

Carnera, who entered the ring looking as if he really intended to make an honest effort, had an easy time of it during his less than nine minutes of activity, and as he left the ring he muttered something in Italian which sounded strangely like "Goodby, sucker"—a phrase he no doubt picked up in his idle moments at Texas Guinan's night club.

Referee Gene Roman, one of the best officials in the country, tried hard to make the fighters give the spectators something for their money; but with Roberti making no effort to fight, he had no other course than to end the bout.

Seeks Way Out After First Round.

Roberti made a fair-enough showing in the first round, partly vindicating the New Jersey Athletic Commission, which had promised that the fight would be an honest contest. But after showing that he had the ability to stand off Carnera he gave up the effort and began looking for a spot to "dive."

Soon after the second round began it was apparent that Roberti felt that he had done enough work for the evening. He went down for a count of six early in the round, from what looked to be a light punch to the shoulder. Referee Roman, determined to see that the fans received a fair break, gave a count strangely reminiscent of Dave Barry's famous "14-count" and succeeded in getting Roberti back on his feet.

It was not for long, however, and the "tanker" went down again toward the close of the session. Referee Roman warned him that he must get up or forfeit his purse and Roberti came up after a count of seven fighting hard. During the balance of the round he chased the giant Carnera about the ring, but when the next round began he had forgotten his good intentions and again was ready to "dive."

Blow on Shoulder Puts Him Down.

Carnera roughed Roberti in the clinches as the third round started but he showed little or no real fighting ability and even though Roberti was ready to go down from any kind of a blow, he finally was forced to take his "dive" as the result of a punch to the shoulder. Roman again forced him to get up but Roberti took to the floor for a second time without getting hit.

When Roberti went down for a third time after a flurry of punches delivered in a clinch, Referee Roman stepped in and stopped the uneven contest.

The contest provided no opportunity to judge Carnera's real fighting abilities. If the Jersey commission really was serious in its pronouncement that both fighters would be suspended for life if there was any indication of dishonesty, the commissioners had good reason to give both men a life ban. Carnera outweighed his rival 274 pounds to 228.

Sun Beau Will Start Despite 131 Pounds

Chicago, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Sun Beau will attempt to carry 131 pounds to victory in the Hawthorne Handicap Saturday provided the track is not heavy.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of the record money winning horse, told Racing Secretary Joe McLennan in a long distance telephone conversation today that stretch-running son of Sun Briar—Beautiful Lady would go after the $25,000 added feature in spite of the huge impost. He added that a heavy track would be the only reason for withdrawing Sun Beau.

Harvard-Yale Netmen Again Lose in England

Eastbourne, England, Aug. 4 (A.P.). The Oxford-Cambridge Tennis Team defeated the combined forces of Harvard and Yale six matches to one to successfully defend the Prentice Cup and give it a margin of 16 matches to 5 in the three-day tourney.

Going into the final day of play needing only one match to make victory certain, Capt. R. J. Ritchie, of Cambridge, defeated M. T. Hill, of Harvard, in the first match played, 6—2, 6—1.

The American collegians' lone victory today was scored by A. C. Ingraham, of Harvard, who won from B. W. Finnegan, of Oxford, 6—4, 6—1.

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

JUST as surely as the sun makes its daily journey across the heavens, the sunset of each baseball season is accompanied by the reports of managerial changes due in the big leagues before the teams line up for the start of another campaign.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-one's contributions to the annual rumors of the guillotine being sharpened in front offices for the reception of managerial heads involve two gentlemen of the American League and one in the National. These victims who are consigned to the scrap heap by reports undignified by overt acts are Donie Bush, of the White Sox; our old playmate, Bucky Harris, of the Tigers, and Uncle Wilbert Robinson, of Brooklyn.

The rumor mongers need no better excuse for their beliefs than the present low estate of the clubs in question, which to them is conclusive evidence of the failure of the generalissimos of the dugouts.

Bush's Contract Ends

Bush's two-year contract at Chicago will be at an end this season. And the White Sox are wallowing in seventh place. The fiery Donie's tongue is unbridled when he wishes to speak and his recent inference that he has received no aid from the front office folk has not set so well with Owner Comiskey. Bush has emphatically denied that he will resign. It will be time enough to accept him as the club's 1932 manager when Comiskey denies that he will not be fired.

Woe is unto Harris at Detroit. The Tigers have had their share of second division clubs but so far they have escaped the cellar. That is where they repose now under Harris' regime with little indication that they will improve their position, which can stand a great deal of improvement.

In the five years that Ty Cobb was at the helm of the Tigers, he finished third, second, third, fourth and sixth, respectively. In Moriarty's two years he was fourth and sixth. Harris finished sixth in 1929, fifth last year and now threatens to wind up in the caboose. Bucky was never out of the first division in his five years with Washington. The change of venue has been no favor to his managerial reputation.

Uncle Robby on Spot

Uncle Robby must finish one-two to hold his job, is the word from Flatbush. The portly Robby must live up to the Robins' sensational performance of last season which instilled such high hopes in the breasts of the McKeever interests for the 1931 season.

There is also the report that the conciliation between the Ebbets heirs and the McKeevers, who have joint control of the Brooklyn franchise, was affected only by the stipulation that Robinson would retire at the end of two years.

Should the Robins rally and win the pennant, Robby doubtless would remain. The owners would hardly let out a pennant-winning manager. Even second place might save his job for Robby. But anything lower jeopardizes his position and Capt. Glenn Wright is already mentioned as his probable successor.

Unique as Manager

As long as this column is dealing with big league managers, the case of Jack McCallister comes to mind. McCallister, who succeeded Tris Speaker at Cleveland in 1927, was unique among managers.

The excuse is given for him that he inherited a thankless job, what with the club being overrun with old-timers who knew as much baseball, if not more, than McCallister himself, who had been the club's coach. McCallister never asserted himself and it was not long before he was manager in name only.

When some decisive procedure from the bench was required during the course of a close game, the story runs that McCallister used to gather about him his board of strategy, composed of himself, George Burns, the first baseman; Sherrod Smith, the pitcher, and George Uhle, the pitcher.

The four would gather about the water cooler to deliberate. If they were in agreement, well and good. When they disagreed as to the proper procedure, the four would vote. If the vote was a tie, Manager McCallister's ballot would be tossed out of consideration and a decision thus arrived at. So goes the story.

Vic Frasier Repeats Victory Over Tigers

Magnates Insist Baseball Is Same as Prewar Pellet And Only Slightly Different

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Although they have been very coy on the subject, the results to date confirm the old suspicion that the magnates of the major leagues can and do regulate the hitting and the pitching by regulating the ingredients in the officially accepted ball. For ten years the magnates and the manufacturers insisted that the ball which primitive, shut-eye hitters were hoisting out of the parks with one-hand home runs and handle-hit home runs was the same ball that Ty Cobb dealt with the season before the war, when he led the American League with nine homers.

Last winter, the home run having lost much of its old dramatic value, and, consequently, some of its commercial value, owing to overproduction, the magnates issued the paradoxical announcement that this year's ball would be slightly different, though essentially the same as the exceedingly nervous ball of the preceding decade. This one, in turn, had been represented as being in no way different from the old prewar ball.

Exactly how accurately the ratio between the hitters and the pitchers may be adjusted from the council room of a committee, sitting in the dead of winter in a New York hotel, is indicated by the most recent batch of statistics bearing on this highly statistical game. The National League, it may be remembered, adopted not only the raised stitch for the seams but a slightly thicker cover. The stitches were intended as handles, of a sort, to favor the pitchers in the performance of their art, and the increase in the hide to soften the blow to the sensitive nervous system of the ball.

The American League adopted the raised stitch, but the American League was more in debt to the home run, and particularly to Babe Ruth's home runs, for its prosperity.

So the heavier cover was not adopted there. If the hitters could get hold of the new ball in the course of the more abrupt hops attributable to the stitching, the ball would still travel as before.

So now the deadly statistical parallel shows that the athletes of the National League have fallen off 256 home runs to date, but that in the

Rosenbloom 6-5 Choice to Beat Slattery, Old Nemesis, Tonight

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Whatever the training faults of Maxie Rosenbloom, boxing's gift to the night clubs, it can not be said the clowning king of the light-heavyweights was picking his spots when he signed to meet Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo mixer, in tomorrow night's fifteen-round go at Ebbets Field.

In Slattery, the champion meets the one man of his own weight who has been able to beat him with fair consistency over a period of years. Before he won the title Rosenbloom dropped four decisions to the Buffalo fighter, and in a subsequent fifteen-rounder, with the title at stake, barely was able to gain a verdict. On that occasion the referee cast his vote for Slattery, the two judges for the champion.

Slattery evidently intends to make the supreme effort tomorrow night. Like Rosenbloom, he never has been known for the time he spent in

LADY DEAN, AFTER SIX DEFEATS, WINS HAWTHORNE FEATURE

Fisher's Filly Pays $17.56 To Backers

Mouthpiece Second, Four Lengths Behind Winner.

Schorr's Portden Is Victor in 2-Year-Old Feature.

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The 3-year-old filly, Lady Dean, unable to find the winner's circle in six previous starts this year, carried the Dixiana silks of Charles T. Fisher, of Detroit, to a four-length victory in the Shoreland Purse at Hawthorne today.

The Lemar Stock Farm's Mouthpiece was second, with J. W. Marchbank's De Swasey another length back for third. Lady Dean ran the mile and a furlong in 1:46 4-5. An outsider in the betting, Lady Dean returned $17.56 to win.

In the Ambassador Purse at 5½ furlongs, which was the 2-year-old feature, John Schorr's colt, Portden, took a long early lead which Jockey McCoy made last to give the youngster a three-length victory. The Oakland Farm's Prince Fox was second, a length in front of the Greentree Stable's Pending. Herbert M. Woolf's Unencumbered, the favorite, was away slowly and was never a factor.

Callahan Features At Empire.

Empire City Race Track, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A featureless card was offered at the Hilltop track this afternoon, with ordinary horses supplying the competition in all events. The diminutive apprentice Jockey Hubert Callahan stole the honors of the day by piloting two straight winners, in the second and third events. After his score astride the long shot, All Columbia, in the second number, Callahan brought J. C. Haggerty's colt Surpass, a 6-to-1 shot, home in front of nine other platers in the third contest, a test of a mile and 70 yards.

Surpass had run the previous day and was beaten off, but the son of Bud Lerner ran to his best form under Callahan today. He crossed the wire two lengths clear of At Random, while Skid annexed the show position, a similar distance back. Nelson had the early foot of the field, while Wonderful, Listening Ears and Skid raced close up. Callahan brought Surpass around the leaders coming to the stretch and then the colt swerved over to the inside as he took command. He easily maintained his advantage when At Random came with a rush at the end. The time was 1:47 4-5.

—Hawthorne Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 4.—Juveniles will hold the center of attraction on the well-balanced card at Hawthorne tomorrow. This event, an allowance affair at 6 furlongs, has attracted six leading 2-year-olds to contest the $1,300 purse. The remainder of the card has been devoted to the lesser lights but, with limit fields entered in these events, the fans should be treated to some interesting sport.

COLONIAL BELLE, fleet juvenile in the A. Pelleteri string, has been freshened up since her last winning effort and appears well suited by the conditions in the headliner. PORTER'S DREAM raced well at Arlington Park and must be accorded the place. SUN'S SON, carrying 112 pounds, may last to gain the minor award.

FIRST RACE—RUFFIAN has shown the most speed of these maiden juveniles and should win. PIETRO turned in some fast trials at Arlington and is the one to fear, with CHATTER ON, favored by the rail position, as the show possibility.

SECOND RACE — EVERGREEN QUEEN, a consistent mare in the H. Weis Stable, a winner of her last start, is fancied to lead this field to the wire. GREY KITTY has displayed ability to negotiate a route and figure to offer stern opposition. LILLIAN T. is erratic but the Sir John Johnson mare should share in the purse.

THIRD RACE—FRENCH LASS is selected to take down the honors. This clever mare is at the top of her form. CHEERS, a fast breaker, will favor the short route. LADY CAPULET is rounding to form and may get into the money.

FIFTH RACE—VERMICULITE has little to beat here. The Light Brigade filly scored over the same class last start and figures to repeat. CAMP PRINCE has raced with better company but may falter at the route. JIM ORMONT has shown consistent form and has only BLACK CLOUD to beat for the show award.

SIXTH RACE—LADY BIENVILLE appears well placed in this field and should outfoot her rivals. THUNWIN is lightly weighted with 110 pounds and may prove troublesome. MADCAP MARVIN should hold the others safe.

SEVENTH RACE—RUSHING, a steady plater in the E. Haughton Stable, finished third in his last start and figures to improve. SAM PASS is the one to fear, with GRAYDALE, a natural router, favored for the short end of the purse.

HAWTHORNE, ILL., CHART, AUGUST 4, 1931.

FIRST RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start poor. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:16. Off at 2:20. Winner, Audley Farm's ch. f. (2), by Epinard—Honey Pat. Trained by K. Spence. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:46 4-5, 0:59 4-5, 1:07.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRENCH HONEY, $13.20, $5.26, $4.62; SHARP THOUGHTS, $4.86, $4.28; CATHERINE FOX, $6.28.

FRENCH HONEY was close to MISTY in the early running and, taking a good lead when the latter began to tire, showed the way to the finish. SHARP THOUGHTS came gamely through the stretch to best others but did no threaten winner. CATHERINE FOX, slightly outrun early, went gamely at the end. MISS TULSA had early speed. SABINA H. and MISTY tired badly. PLAYING was shut off approaching the far turn. ELKHART met with interference at the stretch turn. ANTHONY WAYNE and BEAUTY SECRET were off poorly.

SECOND RACE—One hundred and sixty feet more than six furlongs (Hawthorne course). Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:51. Winner, Kneblekamp and Morris' ch. g. (3), by Midway—Mammon. Trained by G. Land. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:12 3-5, 1:20 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DICK MORRIS, $5.72, $4.36, $3.30; DURVA, $8.42, $5.38; BARNEY SEXTON, $4.72.

DICK MORRIS had the most early speed and getting to the front soon after the start, was never headed, winning easily. DURVA was close up all the way and easily held the others. BARNEY SEXTON made up much ground and raced gamely on the outside through the stretch. BILL LOONEY was in close quarters turning for home. BERNICE VAN met with some interference when racing well up. ST. JIM raced wide and could not keep up.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:01. Off at 3:01. Winner, C. C. Vanmeter's blk. c. (3), by Wrack—Comet O'Day. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46 2-5, 1:12 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK COMET, $5.84, $3.62, $3.16; UNCLE HENRY, $5.02, $5.48; DON ALVARO, $9.10.

BLACK COMET always close to the pace, met with some interference at stretch turn but came fast in the stretch to wear down UNCLE HENRY and was slowly drawing away at the end. UNCLE HENRY, racing forwardly, took command when DON ALVARO began to weaken slightly, but could not resist winner. DON ALVARO had the most early speed but was tiring at end and barely lasted to save third place. ANNIE REE and REVERBERATE closed well. SUN MASK tired. MAID OF HONOR was blocked in the first quarter.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:51. Winner, J. F. Schorr's b. c. (2), by The Porter—Margaret Ogden. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:46 4-5, 0:59 4-5, 1:06 3-5.

TAPPANAUGH	111	2	6	6	6	6	6	Callahan	58.81

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTDEN, $8.90, $4.08, $3.04; PRINCE FOX, $8.44, $5.50; PENDING, $4.82.

PORTDEN, off well, raced as if best and leading throughout, was never in danger, winning easily. PRINCE FOX also went well and held the others. PENDING had early speed, but was tiring slightly at the finish. UNENCUMBERED was in close quarters next the rail soon after the start and, although making up some ground in the stretch, did not threaten seriously. BERT JOHN was going fairly well at the finish. TAPPANAUGH seemed outclassed.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,700; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:17. Off at 4:20. Winner, Dixiana Stable's b. f. (3), by Chilhowee—Dorothy Dean. Trained by C. Vandusen. Value to winner, $1,200; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13, 1:39 4-5, 1:46 4-5.

THE TILE	109½	6	6	6	6	6	6	Fronk	40.19

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY DEAN, $17.56, $5.56, $3.68; MOUTHPIECE, $3.12, $2.56; DE SWASEY, $6.08.

LADY DEAN took command at once and, setting the pace under slight restraint, drew away slightly in the last furlong and won easily. MOUTHPIECE swerved in rather sharply after the start and obtained a contending position rounding the first turn, but did not threaten winner. DE SWAZEY was shuffled back when MOUTHPIECE came over after the start, was blocked again rounding the first turn, but continued gamely and finished second. STONE MARTIN, Latter was in close quarters on the back stretch and was forced to take up rounding the far turn, then recovered and raced well to the last sixteenth, where he tired. QUATRE BRAS II met with early interference and weakened after reaching a contending position.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:49. Off at 4:50. Winner, Miss E. Glick's b. f. (4) by Polymelian—Garner. Trained by G. W. Glick. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:25, 0:48 4-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:52 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GARNISH, $17.92, $8.42, $4.26; SHOW DOWN, $3.86, $2.88; RIFF RAFF, $3.46.

GARNISH, outrun early, came fast in the stretch and, lucky to get through a narrow opening, got to the front in the last tweny yards to win going away. SHOW DOWN set the pace and withstood the stretch challenge of RIFF RAFF, but could not hold winner. RIFF RAFF was always close to the pace but his weight told in the final drive. MASTER ACE was outrun all the way. INHERITOR was in close quarters turning into the back stretch. CAIUS had early speed, but tired.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:19. Off at 5:19. Winner, Wild Rose Farm's ch. g. (7), by Polymelian—Pinker. Trained by V. Grand. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 2-5, 1:13, 1:39 3-5, 1:53.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MACEDON, $15.32, $10.24, $5.68; LION HEARTED, $9.10, $7.28; ELLEN N., $8.52.

MACEDON restrained early, began to move up after half the distance had been completed and, coming strongly on the outside after entering the stretch, got to the front an eighth out and scored an easy win. LION HEARTED made up much ground in the stretch and was going well at end. ELLEN N. was a forward factor from the start. BATTLING ON opened up a good lead in the early running and increased it approaching the stretch turn, but weakened unexpectedly in the run home. FORT DEARBORN was used up following the pacemaker and tired badly. GORMOND raced wide most of the way.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:48. Off at 5:51. Winner, H. Oots' ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STIMULATE, $8.22, $5.32, $4.20; AUSTERLITZ, $26.80 $13.10; BROWN HILLS, $5.26.

STIMULATE could not keep up with early leaders, but came fast on outside through the stretch to take command in the last sixteenth and win easily. AUSTERLITZ was always close up and staged a game finish. BROWN HILLS was also going well at end. OUR BILLY set the pace and had a good lead at midstretch, but tired badly nearing the finish. TRANSGRESSION also weakened in the run home. SAM GILMORE and OUR DOCTOR weakened.

2 D. C. CLUBS IN SECTION REGATTA

Washington, Potomac Canoeists in M. A. Event Sunday.

FIFTEEN strong, and strengthened in important positions, the expert canoemen of the Washington Canoe Club will leave for Philadelphia Friday night for participation Sunday in the annual Middle States Canoe Racing Association regatta to be held at Tacony, Pa. The meet has attracted the cream of canoe racing clubs in this section of the country, including the Pendleton Canoe Club team, recognized national champions.

H. H. Ruppart, Washington Canoe Club official, stated last night that while no radical substitutions will be made in the team of the Knight brothers, Rothrock and the other reliables who carried the local club's colors to a close second place in the national championship last month, the team, as a whole, had been strengthened by several new faces, particularly in the junior division.

D. C. Entries Given Time for Acclimation.

Ruppart pointed out that the local club probably will be in better shape than when it participated in the national championships in Philadelphia last month. The local team, at that time, journeyed by automobile, arriving just before the start of the first race. This time the trip will be made by train, with a sufficient advent for acclimation.

Besides the national champions, and the local crew, the meet has drawn entries from the Potomac Canoe Club, the Cacawa, Philadelphia, Tuscorora and Yonkers clubs.

Col. Winn Takes Post At New Florida Track

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association, which has jurisdiction over Chicago and Kentucky tracks, today accepted the post of executive director of the newly formed Miami Beach Jockey Club.

In making this announcement, Thomas V. O'Connor, chairman of the board of the Florida organization, said Col. Winn would begin his duties at once, although it is not planned to open the Miami Beach track until the winter of 1932-33.

Phils-Braves Divide Pair of Mound Duels

Philadelphia, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Phils and Braves split a double bill this afternoon, the home team winning the first 3-2, the visitors taking the second, 4-2.

Sherdel had the betteer of Clise Dudley in a pitchers' battle in the final contest. Chuck Klein hit his twenty-fourth home run of the season in the opening inning of the final engagement.

REPAIR SHOP BEATS COMMERCE, TIES FOR LEAGUE TITLE

3-2 Triumph Necessitates Play-Off

Last-Inning Run Gives Victors Title in Second Series.

1,000 Watch Lanahan Win Duel With Taylor, Riley.

THE left-handed shoots of Dick Lanahan prevailed over the combined efforts of Taylor and Riley, rival pitchers, and the big bat of Shortstop Ritnour yesterday combined to give the D. C. Repair Shop nine a 3-2 victory over Commerce, and with that victory the title for the second half of the Departmental Baseball League. More than 1,000 lined the sidelines to witness one of the best played games the Monument Lot has seen this year.

The victory brings the teams on a level, Commerce having garnered honors for the first half of the league. A three-game play-off for the league title now impends, the first tussle to be staged Friday and the second probably next Tuesday. The winner of two of these three games will represent the league in the city series. Last year the Repair Shop was nominated to carry the colors of the league in the series.

Lanahan Allows Only Five Hits.

Lanahan, "all-high" pitcher for Eastern, granted five hits yesterday to a team noted for its hitting strength, issued a couple of passes and fanned two others. His services during the afternoon were all but nullified by the inability of his teammates to capitalize on their dozen bingles off Taylor and Riley. No less than ten Repairmen were stranded on the base paths as colleagues fanned or hit into easy plays.

Commerce threatened most in the sixth inning, placing Gorman on third and Singman on second, with but one out, but Fitzgerald's fake peg to second lured Gorman off third, where he fell an easy prey to a peg to Long which was neither faked nor ineffectual.

Ritnour Produces Four Singles.

Ritnour rapped out four singles in four times at bat as his helping hand to Lanahan, who, while he was never brilliant, turned in a well-pitched piece of work.

Jack Berg Extended To Defeat McNamara

New York, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Jack (Kid) Berg, English lightweight, defeated Jimmy McNamara, of New York, in a ten-round bout here tonight.

McNamara, a second-rate fighter, gave Berg one of the hardest fights he has ever had. McNamara's ability to throw long overhand lefts to the head often had Berg in distress.

Berg weighed 137 and McNamara 138.

WASHINGTON BATTERY CO.

D. C. Muny Team May Lose Mitchell and Yeomans

Business, Conflicting Dates May Keep Net Stars From National Play, Making Substitutions Necessary.

NEITHER Dooly Mitchell, singles champion, nor Eddie Yeomans, doubles champion, with Bud Markey, may represent Washington in the ninth annual national public parks tennis championship, to be held in Detroit during the week of August 17, it was learned yesterday. Mitchell may be held at home because of business reasons, while Yeomans' active tournament campaign preceding his entrance into Harvard may keep him out of the parks joust.

Mitchell, who defeated Bud Markey to win the local public parks singles title, recently entered the insurance business and at present is unwilling to give the necesary time to the national tournament and to preliminary competitive play. Yeomans several months ago accepted an invitation to participate in the annual invitation tournament at Newport, whose date conflicts with the parks tournament.

Markey May Substitute For Mitchell.

In the event that neither Yeomans nor Mitchell compete, the Washington Public Parks Tennis Association is permitted to name substitutes in the shape of runners-up in the local tournament, or, if no runners-up are available, then semifinalists.

If Mitchell does not compete, Bud Markey, who placed second in the local parks singles tournament, will represent the city as its official singles player. The rules of the National Public Parks Association do not permit the local body to assign a player to team with Markey in place of Yeomans, but hold that the runner-up team, in this case Alan Staubly and Frederico Sendel, be nominated.

Mitchell, Yeomans and Markey played conspicuous parts in the last national public parks tournament, held here in August, 1930. Mitchell reached the final round of the singles and the team of Yeomans and Markey also gained the title round in the doubles.

Big "Tennis Party" Listed Friday Night.

While the local representation remains something of an enigma, definite strides are being made by the committee of the Washington Public Parks Tennis Association in charge of the "tennis party" to be held Friday night atop the Arlington roof, the proceeds of which will defray the traveling expenses of the local entournage, whoever they be, to the national tournament.

The Arlington roof management has generously offered to turn over the couvert charge revenue to the association and will provide special entertainment to augment the dancing. Tickets for this event, which promises to be one of the most successful of its kind ever staged here, may be obtained at the Tennis Shop, the newspapers, or the roof itself.

JAPANESE GOLFER TOPS MUNY FIELD

The break gave him a 78 for his shaky round.

Carl Kauffman, the Bobby Jones of the field, also had a bad day, coming in with a 79, seven strokes over par. So hard was the traveling against the wind, however, that less than forty broke 80, indicating that a 156 total for the 36 holes would be good enough to qualify for the match play struggle.

St. Paul trailed Sato & Co. by four shots in the Harding Cup battle which ends tomorrow with 18 more holes. Led by Ade Fordham, Minnesota public links champion, the home town club chalked up a 317 score.

Other Harding Cup scores were: Little Rock, 322; Philadelphia, 320; Buffalo, 336; Long Beach, 328; Minneapolis, 323; Pittsburgh, 324; Toledo, 331; Dayton, 345; Washington, 339; Brooklyn, 326; Cleveland, 332; Detroit, 321, Portland, Oreg., 321; Spokane, 336; New York, 332; Baltimore, 330; Indianapolis, 319; Chicago, 326; Akron, Ohio, 334; St. Louis, 340; Jacksonville, 327; Santa Monica, Calif., 318; Louisville, 318.

Second-Sacker Bought By Cubs From Colonels

Chicago, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Cubs tonight announced the purchase of Bill Herman, a young second baseman from the Louisville Club of the American Association.

The price was not revealed, but President William L. Veeck said it was "a large amount of cash and two players." Herman, who is 22 years old, will join the Cubs this season unless the Louisville Club moves up within striking distance of the lead. In that event Herman will report next spring. His batting average is around .360.

Boys on Field Halt Yankees' Exhibition

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—More than 7,000 fans saw the New York Yankees and Springfield of the Eastern League play an exhibition game here today. The game ended in the Yankee ninth after Babe Ruth had hit his second home run, because there were no more baseballs and because youngsters by the hundreds encroached on the playing field, making conditions impossible. The score at the time was 7 to 5 in favor of the Yankees.

BASEBALL IS SAME BUT BIT DIFFERENT

American League, where the thin peel is still being used, the decline has amounted to only 72. In the National League the team batting averages are down 27 points, but in the American League the decline has been only 7½ points. So there are really two separate types of major league baseball played this year.

Amateurs Have No Say Regarding Type of Ball.

The amateurs, being comparatively few in number and not very well organized, have virtually no authority in such matters. A few years ago, at one of the meetings of the officials of intercollegiate athletics, it was discovered that, owing to the fact that the rules were designed for a professional game, the manager of a college team had the right to fine a player as much as $50 for gross infractions of team discipline. Inasmuch as the college players were presumed to be amateurs and the majority of them were presumed to be constantly broke or almost broke, it was felt that the colleges themselves ought to adopt some special alternative rule to cover such cases.

Golf, on the other hand, is conducted almost exclusively for the pleasure of the amateurs, and the professionals are not given much consideration. When the golf association decided to change the weight, size and general disposition of the golf ball the decision was taken openly. The fact that the amateurs afterward discovered that they didn't like the new ball does not alter the fact that the change was made in a mistaken effort to serve their interests. Soon it will be changed back, also in their interest.

The size and shape of the regulation college football came into controversy when it was discovered that some of the coaches having forward passers with small hands were having footballs tailored along the general lines of a frankfurter, or, possibly, a cigar.

National Ball Considered More Appropriate.

The slim footballs were easy to throw and control, but as the exaggeration continued and the football came to resemble a spear in the hand of good passers, the regulation was adopted requiring a standard ratio between length and thickness. Nowadays, young mathematicians may be seen measuring the footballs with steel tape lines before big games.

The new National League baseball seems a more appropriate ball for the game than the American League ball, but I am considering the matter strictly from the artistic, not the commercial, point of view. The American League magnates are good business men and with their investments they may be allowed to decide for themselves how frisky they want their ball to be. But, theoretically, the most appropriate ball would be one which would give the pitcher a good chance to throw his hooks and would not leap out of the park at a mere threat. The home run roughly corresponds to the touchdown from kick-off in football, the knockout in prize fighting and the birdie, or, possibly, the hole-in-one in golf, and it speaks well for the imagination of the baseball customers that they were able to rouse themselves over the synthetic home run so long after they were convinced it was built into the ball at the factory.

I said that the amateurs in baseball have virtually no authority in deciding the character of the baseball they wish to play with. That is not exactly so. Ordinarily they like to fancy they are playing the same game that the major leaguers play and therefore use one or the other of the major league balls.

Only Regulation Governs Size And Weight.

But the only strict regulation regarding the ball is the one governing its size and weight, and there are a dozen manufacturers in the country who are willing at all times to quote prices on the manufacture of a ball of any composition that any league, amateur or professional, desires to use. If the ounces and inches conform to the rule, the ball may be wound entirely of rubber thread or stuffed with horsehair, old rags and hay.

It is a credit to the sportsmanship or sportswomanship of Vassar, Wellesley and Smith College that there has never been any disagreement over the standard bean used in the official intercollegiate beanbag. If beanbag ever becomes a major league professional sport, you may be sure that it will not be long until the magnates begin stimulating the official beanbag with Mexican jumping beans.

HUNTER WINS IN GOLF PLAY

Has Low Gross Score in Class A in Md. State Tourney.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 4.—Twelve country clubs were represented in the State handicap tournament of the Maryland State Golf Association today, the first State handicap tournament ever staged over the Fountain Head course.

Forty-six golfers in all, among some of the best amateurs in the State, were on hand to participate in the four classes, there being seven professionals participating besides the A, B and C classifications.

Hunter Low Gross Winner.

In the class A division, G. F. Scott, of the Public Park course, of Baltimore, won first honors with a net of 73, while J. Monroe Hunter, of Indian Spring, won the low gross with a 79.

In class B, Harry Dorsey, of the Fountain Head Country Club, with a fine 86 gross and 66 net, carried off the first prize for both low gross and net, with L. J. Davis, with an 89 gross and 70 net, runner-up.

In class C, E. W. Parks, of the Fountain Head Country Club, won first prize for both low gross and low net, with a 96 gross and a 70 net, while Grand W. Roberts, of the Rogers Forge Club, was runner-up, with 97 gross and 73 net.

In the professional class, Warner Mather, of the Woodholme Club, won first with a 72, and Alex Taylor, who was slightly off his game on his home course, was runner-up with a 76.

Class A—Harris Jones (R. R.), 82, 78; Thomas Sasscer (M. C. C.), 84, 80; Dr. Louis Rossman (R. F.), 89, 79; Dr. Edwin Blair (F. H. C.), 93, 83; M. E. Crane (F. H. C.), 84, 75; Roger Hall (M. C. Steele Throws Szabo In Feature at Boston

Boston, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Ray Steele, Glendale, Calif., threw Sandor Szabo, Hungarian heavyweight wrestler, in 34:37 with a body lift and slam tonight in the Boston Garden's feature match. Steele weighed 208 and Szabo 204.

Gino Garibaldi, 210, of Italy, outpointed Tiny Roebuck, 240-pound Kansas Indian, in the 45-minute semifinal, a bruising affair, and Carl Pojello, 194, Chicago, defeated Gred Caroni, 204, New York, with an airplane whirl in 8:20.

George Calza, Italy, downed Nick Zelesniak, Russia, with a hiplock in 27:43, Jack Young, Boston, threw Mario Gigli, Italy, with a flying tackle in 14:56 and George "Zeus" Wilczewski, Boston, drew with Son Jennings, North Dakota, in a 30-minute match.

Diamond Dust

WHILE several thousand sandlot players and fans are buzzing over next Sunday's Capital City League classic between the Dixie Pigs and Saks Clothiers, which will decide the undisputed District unlimited championship, Manager Mothershead, of the Clothiers, is looking for the best opposition obtainable for a game to be played sometime between this afternoon and Saturday.

Manager Mothershead realizes that he must keep his team at concert pitch if they are to score a victory in the much-discussed third game of the series with their highly touted rivals. Mothershead may be reached at District 3050.

The Dor-A Juniors will hold their regular Wednesday practice at 5 o'clock today on the Riverdale field. The team meets the Spengler Post nine Sunday at 3:30 o'clock on the home diamond.

The Oriole Peewees managed to nose out the Joe Cronins yesterday on the East Ellipse by the scant margin of 23-20. The winners scored nine runs in the eighth.

The Anacostia Eagles will take on the Lorton Reformatory nine Saturday at Lorton and are anxious to secure a foe for Sunday. Call the Eagles manager at Lincoln 4434-J.

The Jewish Community Center and Ciro's Italian Village will stage a ball game Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the J. C. C. field on Georgia avenue. The boys from Mussolini's precinct will be trying to stop the streak of the J. C. C. nine, which has not met defeat this season.

Manager Ford Young, of the Bethesda Fire Department team, radios the news that there will be a subscription dance at the Bethesda Women's Club tomorrow night for the benefit of the club. Admission is a moderate dollar and special entertainment, outside of the dancing, will be offered by Brown and Bobbier, a song and dance team.

The Sterling A. C. nine will practice tomorrow at 5 o'clock on No. 9 at the Monument in preparation for a brace of games over the week-end. On Saturday they play the Palisades on East Ellipse at 3 o'clock and on Sunday journey to Middleburg, there to do battle with the team which represents that village.

The Collegians, unlimited nine, want a Sunday game. Call Manager Carr, at Potomac 2321.

MRS. VAN RYN SAVES TITLE FOR U. S.

Beats Mrs. Shepherd-Barron in Finals at Southampton.

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A. P.).—Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn saved the singles title of the Maidstone Club's annual invitation tennis tournament for the United States today, but the doubles fell into the hands of the British Wightman Cup stars, Betty Nuthall and Phyllis Mudford.

Mrs. Van Ryn, playing in top form, defeated the British Wightman Cup team captain, Mrs. Dorothy C. Shepherd-Barron, 6—2, 6—4, in the singles final.

The doubles, an all-British struggle, saw Miss Nuthall and Miss Mudford conquer Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall and Dorothy Roiod in a sensational match, 5—7, 7—5, 6—2.

British Prepare for Wightman Play.

Within an hour after the conclusion of tournament play, the British players left for New York and then will go to Forest Hills, where they face the American team in the Wightman Cup matches Friday and Saturday.

The sensational form which Mrs. Van Ryn has displayed was climaxed in her victory over Mrs. Shepherd-Barron. It was on the same court two years ago that the Englishwoman, whose stroking is unorthodox but effective, defeated the then Marjorie Gladman in the final by scores of 6—2, 7—5.

After a tense first set, in which the point difference in Mrs. Van Ryn's favor was seven, the American started to win games with apparent ease. She granted her opponent only four points in as many games which were chalked up to the Philadelphian's credit. At this point the British Wightman Cup captain staged her final desperate effort to win, and though she fell short of her mark, she won four of the last six games.

Mrs. Van Ryn May Gain Team Berth.

Her victory today may result in Mrs. Van Ryn's selection to the American Wightman Cup Team to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal earlier today of Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Del.

If there were any doubt as to which English pair would play the No. 1 doubles against the United States it was dispelled, as the Nuthall-Mudford team vanquished Mrs. Whittingstall and Miss Round. Though the margin in scores was slight the victors always had the winning strokes ready to use. For the losers, Miss Round was especially brilliant.

Shamrock V Far Ahead In Race for King's Cup

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, unsuccessful challenger last year for the America's Cup, today won the King's Cup in the Royal Yacht Squadron's Regatta.

No other boat was in sight as the green and white Shamrock came charging across the finish line. It was five minutes before Herbert Andreas Candida was seen coming up in second place. The cup race, most important of the British yachting season, was open to boats of 60 feet or over and was a handicap event.

Both Shamrock and Candida had a time allowance of five minutes, 52 seconds over the scratch boat Westward, a big schooner. His majesty's Britannia originally was entered to compete for second prize only but was withdrawn when the second mate was swept overboard yesterday and drowned.

Mrs. Jessup Resigns Wightman Team Post

Easthampton, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., who came out of retirement this year to give Mrs. Helen Wills Moody the closest match the latter has had in months, today told Mrs. George W. Wightman, captain of the Wightman Cup Tennis Team, she could not accept the assignment to play against the English team at Forrest Hills Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Jessup gave an old illness and her belief some one else would fit in better as her reasons for declining a place on the American side.

No announcement was immediately forthcoming regarding Mrs. Jessup's successor. In view of Mrs. John Van Ryn's victory over Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Barron, captain of the English Wightman Cup Team in the Easthampton singles finals today it was believed she had a good chance to be selected.

A. A. U. Title 3-Mile Swim Listed on Potomac Aug. 22

Rudy Expected to Defend His Title in President's Cup Event Staged by Washington Canoe Club; Entry Blanks Ready.

THE seventh annual team swimming championship race for the President's Cup, which carries with it the National A. A. U. title, will be held over a 3-mile triangular course on the Potomac River Saturday, August 22, under the auspices of the Washington Canoe Club, and sanctioned by the local chapter of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Entry blanks for the event were distributed yesterday and should be returned to H. H. Ruppart, Washington Canoe Club, who specified that while the race has been listed as a team joust, no ban is placed on the participation of unaffiliated natators.

Ruddy Is Expected to Defend Title.

While the entry blank of Ray Ruddy, defending champion and national champion at 440 and 500 meters, has not yet been received, it is almost certain that the 19-year-old swimming sensation, who ran away with individual awards last year, will be among those in the splash.

The New York A. C., present holders of the President's Cup, mostly by virtue of the work of Ruddy, yesterday wired the local club and asked for particulars regarding the event. The crack N. Y. A. C. outfit last year finished, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. Runner-up place was taken by the Baltimore Central Y. M. C. A. Team and third place fell to the Washington Canoe Team.

Besides the President's Cup, numerous other prizes will be distributed. The individual first to cross the finish line will be awarded the special trophy of the Washington Canoe Club, while the Sprigman Trophy is up for the first District of Columbia swimmer to finish.

Buscher 1930 Winner of Springman Cup.

Last year this cup was taken by Lawrence Buscher, who placed seventh in the race. Gold, silver and bronze medals round out the prize list.

If Ruddy participates, it is probable that the mark of 1:15 he established last year will be broken. The stocky little speedster swam far off his course last year, although finishing far ahead of the field.

Admiral Beuret Wins Chevy Chase Golf Cup

Admiral J. D. Beuret, veteran Chevy Chase golfing star, has been named winner of the trophy presented by John C. Letts for the club's lowest net medal score among the seniors for July. Admiral Beuret's 75 took preference over the score of Gen. Charles B. Drake by a single stroke.

The Maj. H. A. Gillis putting trophy was won by E. M. Talcott, with a net 52 for 27 holes. Dr. R. W. Baker, with a net 53, was runner-up.

TENNIS TITLE TO SENDEL, MARTINEZ

Miss Walker, Garnett Lose in D. C. Mixed Doubles Final.

MRS. RUTH MARTINEZ and Frederico Sendel firmly clamped down on their claim to the best mixed doubles team in the city yesterday on the courts at Columbia Country Club when they vanquished the combination of Frances Walker and Muscoe Garnett in decisive fashion, 6—1, 6—2 to win the District mixed doubles title. Early in June yesterday's winners captured the City of Washington mixed championship.

Sendel was the bright star of yesterday's match, the former Mexican Davis Cup player being a flash of controlled stroking. He covered nearly the whole court, frequently bounding in front of his partner, the District women's singles champion, to intercept a drive off his opponents' racquets. Rarely behind his expert volleying game was his serving and his consistently hard return of service.

Mrs. Martinez Ably Backs Her Partner.

Mrs. Martinez ably backed her partner. She drove with her accustomed skill and served well throughout. Her cause and the cause of her partner was materially strengthened by the play of the losing team. Neither Miss Walker nor Garnett displayed their top form throughout a majority of the match. Garnett, particularly, was well in the first set, and only struck his true stride when the eventual winners had established a prohibitive lead of 5—1 in the second set.

At 5—1, the Walker-Garnett team made its one stand. Eight times, on Mrs. Martinez's service, her side held the match point, and each time Garnett swept back her delivery with thunderbolt drives.

The rally was short-lived. It netted the team of Walker and Garnett another game, but Sendel's agile coups and Mrs. Martinez's steadiness once more prevailed.

SHAKE-UP CUTS RANK OF TWO DETECTIVES; 4 GIVEN PROMOTIONS

Demotions Made on Charge of Inefficiency by Men in Clothing Squad.

PAIR PLACED AT FOOT OF PATROLMEN'S LIST

Two Privates Are Moved Up; More Changes Expected at Headquarters.

A shake-up in the Police Department, affecting the Detective Bureau principally, and involving the demotion of two headquarters detective sergeants because of "inefficiency," was announced yesterday afternoon. Six policemen were involved in the shift.

Detective Sergts. J. E. Kane and J. L. Billman, of the clothing squad, were dropped to foot the ranks of patrolmen, with a $600 cut in pay, while Precinct Detectives James E. Kenney, of No. 2 Precinct, and A. D. Mansfield, of No. 1 Precinct, were assigned to the vacancies created at headquarters.

Privates J. A. Mostyn and R. S. Bryant, both previously engaged in prohibition enforcement duty at the First and Second Precincts, respectively, were assigned to duty as precinct detectives at those stations, taking the places of Mansfield and Kenney.

Inefficiency Charged.

Inspector William S. Shelby, assistant to Henry G. Pratt, said Sergts. Kane and Billman were demoted because of "inefficiency" in handling a shoplifting case to which they had been assigned. He said that while waiting in a "plant" for two alleged Negro shoplifters the two detectives allowed their quarry to slip through their hands to freedom.

The "plant" was at a second-hand clothing store at 516 Four-and-a-half street southwest. Information had been received July 27, Shelby said, that shoplifters would attempt to dispose of several suits of clothes, stolen from a local merchant, at the store. Billman and Kane were in the shop when one of the suspected shoplifters put in an appearance, it was said, carrying a part of the stolen clothing.

Work of Four Lauded.

One of the detectives, Shelby went on, displayed his badge to the thief while the other officer turned his back and walked toward a rear door. The thief wheeled and escaped, Shelby said, and because of this "inefficient" handling of the case, action was taken yesterday.

The other four men involved in the shake-up—Kenney, Mansfield, Bryant and Mostyn—have done consistently good work in their respective precincts, Shelby said, and were the logical candidates for promotions.

It was also said yesterday that a further shift in the headquarters detective personnel previously forecast was still pending, but that its nature has not yet been decided upon definitely. Yesterday's changes were made at the direction of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, chief of police.

I. C. C. Official's Home Robbed.

Wilfred P. Borland, director of the Bureau of Safety in the Interstate Commerce Commission, reported to police yesterday that a burglar broke into his home at 1807 Irving street northwest and stole $40 contained in a purse. Entry was gained through a front porch window, according to Mr. Borland.

POLICE SHAKE-UP AFFECTS SIX MEMBERS OF FORCE

HANDS-OFF POLICY IN CAB WAR VOTED BY UTILITIES BODY

Commission Will Intercede if Companies Fail to Give Ten-Day Notice.

NEW RATE FIGHT LOOMS BEFORE LAST OF WEEK

Zone System to Remain as Some Members Believe Operators Can Thrive.

The Public Utilities Commission decided yesterday afternoon to follow a policy of watchful waiting regarding the taxicab rate war, but to stand ready to intercede if the rate slashing goes further or if the operators fail to give the required ten-day notice before reducing fares.

With the announcement of the Diamond Cab Co. that it would continue to operate on a 20-40-60 cent basis, it is expected that the rate war will continue. The commission may consequently be forced to call a hearing at a later date to establish uniform rates and to stabilize the taxicab industry.

"We have not sufficient data yet to determine whether taxicabs can operate on a 20-cent rate and still make money," Harleigh H. Hartman, acting chairman of the commission, said. "Consequently, we do not want to establish a rate that will be unfair either to the public or to the operators."

Meanwhile, if any of the larger taxicab companies cut their rates again, the commission will take a hand, Mr. Hartman said. If they make the reduction without giving ten days' notice, the commission will prosecute them under the public utilities act, he explained; whereas if they give the proper notice, the commission will approve or disapprove before the rates go into effect.

Unfair to Penalize Them.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech stated that he did not expect the operators who declared a truce recently under his chairmanship to maintain their new rates unless they wished to do so. It would be unfair, he declared, to penalize them for their good faith.

Consequently, the rate slashing may be resumed again before the week is ended. Some of the companies previously stated that they were willing to go as low as 1 cent fare.

The operators who believe they will be able to bring back meters by order of the commission through the rate fight are under a false impression, Mr. Hartman said, as the utilities body has no intention of ordering the installation of meters on all cabs.

Zone System to Stay.

Reports have reached the commission that some of the participants in the row believed they would be able to force the commission to abolish the zone system. The attitude of the members of the commission regarding zone cabs has changed, however, since the order was promulgated a year and a half ago that all taxis should be equipped with meters. They are now convinced that operators of zone cabs can make money.

Three large companies are now charging 20, 40 and 60 cents. They are the Diamond Cab Co., the Protex-U Cabs and the Silver Cab Co. The Bell, Stop-Me and City Cab companies now operate on a 25-50-75 cent basis, the minimum rate set at the conference, but it is expected that they will return to a 20 or 15-cent fare.

Triangle Area Needs For Parking Studied

Use of Malls, Structure Basements and Special Buildings All Under Consideration; Private Concern Expected to Make Report Soon.

A plan to provide adequate parking space for Government employes working in the new buildings to be constructed in the triangle area will be embodied in a report soon to be submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury by National Garages, Inc., of Detroit, a private concern now engaged in making the survey.

Realizing the difficulties that might be encountered if this item were not carefully considered, the Office of the Supervising Architect and the company plan to study every possibility for handling the thousands of cars which will daily bring a high percentage of Government workers to their offices.

Several plans will be considered, but it has been made clear by the authorities in charge that the one which will be adopted must in no way interfere with the monumental nature of the triangle, thereby marring or detracting from the architectural character and beauty of the new structures.

Among the ideas which will be considered is using the malls, courts and parks for automobiles. It is feared, however, that this is not entirely practical, as it might congest these spots of beauty and make them unattractive. The possibility of the erection of special garage buildings both in the triangle and on the outskirts will be studied. The chief disadvantage of this is that employes using cars would in some cases be obliged to walk quite a distance to their offices, especially should it be decided to place garages outside the triangle.

Another alternative proposed would provide for construction of underground garages under each of the large buildings. It is believed numerous advantages would accrue if this plan were adopted but it is not known yet whether it is entirely feasible from an engineering point of view.

Once the report containing the recommendations is submitted to the Secretary it will in turn be considered by the Board of Architects, with some of the leading architectural talent of the country included in this group. It will then go with recommendations to Congress, which will study it and make appropriations to cover one of the plans. Whatever is finally decided it is certain that the interests of the Federal employe driving his own car to work will be given every consideration.

AUDIT OF HENDERSON ESTATE ASKED PRIOR TO DIVIDING WEALTH

Need to Separate Property of Dowager From That Held for Life Seen.

SHIMA RETURNS DEED TO HOUSE GIVEN HIM

Terms of Wills by Husband and Son Enter Into Present Legal Tangle.

An audit of Mrs. John B. Henderson's properties, to determine which were hers to will away, and which were bequeathed her for life only, last night appeared imminent as the first clarifying step in the maze of Henderson will litigation.

H. Prescott Gatley, attorney for Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, disinherited granddaughter of Mrs. Henderson, said such an accounting is called for in his suit to displace Mrs. Henderson as trustee for the estates of her husband and son.

George E. Edelin, trustee for Mrs. Henderson's estate, under her most recent will, agreed that an audit is necessary. He said it might either be effected through the Wholean suit, or through himself as trustee, under probate proceedings petitioned for on Monday.

Title to Property Filed.

Attorney Edelin filed with the Recorder of Deeds yesterday the title to the Nicaraguan Legation at Fifteenth and Chapin streets northwest, turned over to him by Jesse S. Shima, secretary to Mrs. Henderson.

Shima, who purchased the property from Mrs. Henderson for a $100 consideration December 5, 1930, said he accepted the gift only on Mrs. Henderson's insistence, and never intended to keep it. He executed a deed for the property to Mr. Edelin as trustee.

Still noncommittal as to the probable procedure of Mrs. Wholean in protecting her interests under the wills, Attorney Gatley intimated yesterday that he saw no need for hurry in the matter.

He pointed out that a caveat protesting a testament's provisions might even be filed after the will was admitted to probate. He said he had not had occasion to discuss with Mrs. Wholean his probable course, and added that he did not consider the case nearly so intricate as it had been represented.

Asked Equal Division.

The Wholean suit brought against Mrs. Henderson in February charged that the wealthy dowager had not only sold and given away properties uncontestedly her own, but others her son had left her only for life.

The late Senator Henderson's will asked that his real estate be sold and the proceeds divided equally between his widow and his son, John B. Henderson, jr. This was not done, and the son, at his death, willed his interest in the property to his mother for life, and at her death to Mrs. Wholean, his reputed daughter.

An audit is deemed necessary because Mrs. Henderson did not distinguish between her own property and that due the heir of her son in the six conflicting wills produced since her death.

Believes Suit Stands.

Mr. Gatley said yesterday he believed the suit filed by Mrs. Wholean against Mrs. Henderson in February, which calls for such a division, would in no way be affected by Mrs. Henderson's death, except that some one would have to be designated to represent her interests at court. He said such a division would have to be made in any case before any of the wills could be probated.

The following statement was issued by Shima yesterday in turning back the title to the legation given him by Mrs. Henderson:

"Many times Mrs. Henderson has said to me that in the event of anything happening to her I ought to have a home of my own and that she meant to give me a house. I told her I did not want a house. She kept at this subject, however, and finally said she wanted to give me the Nicaraguan Legation. I told her that I did not want it; that I would not live in it, but she became very insistent. Knowing her disposition and that she would keep at this subject, I finally allowed her to make the deed of the house to me. I took the deed in order to satisfy her, and never meant to keep it."

Shima Relatives in Hawaii.

Honolulu, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Jesse S. Shima, Japanese, made a beneficiary in one of the wills of his employer, Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, of Washington, D. C., has three brothers on the island of Hawaii. His parents, who are in Japan, came to Hawaii in 1912.

Jesse was born in Okinawa, Japan, and went to the mainland United States in 1924. He has two brothers besides the three in Hawaii, also four sisters, one of whom, Mrs. Shizu Taira, is in San Francisco.

FORMER TREASURER OF UNION ARRESTED

Ousted Official of Operating Engineers Charged With Embezzlement.

A former official of the International Union of Operating Engineers last night was charged with embezzlement of his union's funds, following his arrest in Chicago yesterday by Department of Justice agents.

Dave Evans, erstwhile secretary-treasurer of the union, which has been kept before the public eye for the past six months by a series of dramatic events, was the man taken, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago.

Removed from office in the union in March of last year, members of the organization have not known of his whereabouts since, it was stated at their headquarters yesterday.

The Associated Press dispatch said that Evans, who was charged with the embezzling of $2,356, was held in $10,000 bond for a hearing August 18.

Attention was attracted to the union some months ago when a woman horsewhipped one of the officials in front of its headquarters and the district attorney's office refused to issue a warrant in the case.

Then, on May 20, a gunman, who has never been identified, fired several shots at officials of the union in a lunchroom at Tenth and K streets. Arthur M. Huddell, president of the union, died from wounds incurred; Frank Langdon, editor of a labor paper, recovered from wounds in a hospital, and John Possehl, general secretary, escaped unscathed.

The union officials were reputedly investigating a shortage in the organization's finances, estimated at $117,000, at the time of the shooting. The Department of Justice launched its inquiry following charges that "unauthorized securities" were purchased by officials with union funds and local unions not credited.

Big Beer Stock Taken In Warrantless Raid

After receiving several complaints about a house at 54 New York avenue northwest, vice squad members of the First Inspection District, led by Sergt. R. A. Johnson, raided the premises yesterday afternoon, finding 520 bottles of alleged beer in the house.

Thomas Carr, 43, of the New York avenue address, was arrested by the raiders and charged with illegal possession. No warrant was used in the raid.

Injuries Prove Fatal As Iron Worker Falls

Gordon Thompson, 46-year-old iron worker, died last night in Casualty hospital, 12 hours after he fell 16 feet while working on a building at 5607 Sherrier place northwest. The accident occurred, according to police, when he reached for a swinging beam, missed and lost his balance.

The victim was taken to the hospital by William H. McGuire, a fellow worker. Death was caused by fractures of the skull, collarbone and ribs and internal injuries.

Robber in Stolen Auto Seizes Woman's Purse

Leaping out of a stolen automobile, a young man snatched the purse of Mrs. Margaret E. Harrison, Department of Justice employe, as she walked along Concord avenue northwest near Ninth street yesterday afternoon, and sped away in the car, which was driven by another young man.

Mrs. Harrison's scream resulted in a call to police, who responded and began an investigation. The young woman lives at 5812 Ninth street northwest and was on her way home when the incident occurred. About $1 in change, insurance papers and cards were in the purse, Mrs. Harrison said.

A lookout for the car was broadcast by police on the basis of license tag numbers furnished by Mrs. Harrison, and barely 30 minutes after the purse snatching, Jacob H. Lehman, 38 years old, 3708 Ninth street northwest, reported to police the theft of his car from a parking lot.

CHARGES OF MURDER PLANNED FOR THREE

Attempted Holdup and Assault Proposed Against Another in Hackman's Death.

Charges of murder will be placed against three of the four Negroes being held in connection with the slaying of Mannie Solomon, 29-year-old hackman. A fourth member of the quartet will be charged only with attempted holdup and assault which charge will also be placed against the others.

The three men who face the probability of murder charges are: Leonard Augustus Layton, 18, 640 I street southeast; Charles Edward Washington, 23, 410 Six-and-a-Half street southwest, and William C. Robinson, 19, 124 E street southwest, alleged "trigger men" of the group which styles itself the "Silent Four." Ralph Brown, 22, 130 D street southwest, the remaining member of the quartet, is the one who faces only the less serious charge.

All will be taken before a coroner's inquest to be held shortly, a jury panel having been sworn in the day after Solomon's death. The process of justice is then expected to carry the men before a grand jury.

Layton was arrested Monday in Philadelphia by Detective George Darnall, of the homicide squad; Washington was taken into custody on the same day in Baltimore by a detail from the homicide squad comprising Capt. Edward Kelly and Detectives Carlton Tally, Thomas Sweeney, Robert J. Barrett and M. J. Mahaney; Robinson was found in police hands several days ago on another charge while he was being sought in connection with the Solomon killing, and Brown was arrested yesterday.

STREET CAR LEASES SURPRISE OFFICIALS

John H. Hanna Insists Deal Is Still in Tentative Stage; Ham Silent.

Disclosure of the efforts of outside public utility interests to lease the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co., with the aim of operating them jointly on a modernized basis, stirred much interest in utility circles yesterday.

Speculation was rife as to the identity of the would-be promoters. All District officials disclaimed any knowledge of the deal. Harleigh H. Hartman, acting chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, expressed surprise at the story and said he had not been aware of the negotiations.

John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., insisted that the deal was still in a tentative stage and said that nothing may come of it at all. William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., had nothing to say.

The purpose of the promoters is to invest considerable capital in the street car lines for the improvement of service. Up-to-date cars, improved tracks and probably cheaper fares would be effected if the deal is consummated.

A. K. Shipe, Washington attorney, is representing the outside capitalists in the negotiations. Nothing definite is expected until a check of the properties of both lines is completed and assurance is obtained that the consolidation can be brought about without an act of Congress.

Boys Band Soliciting Is Held Unauthorized

Announcement was made yesterday by Maj. C. J. Brown, director of the Washington Boys' Independent Band, that Washington and Alexandria business men had recently been approached by persons soliciting advertisements in a "Boys' Band Booklet" which they said was being sponsored by that organization, although the organization has made no arrangements with any one for soliciting of that kind.

For the past three days Maj. Brown has had a notice inserted in The Post to that effect, and he has asked that all donations be made direct to the band headquarters at 626 F street southwest, or to him personally.

Driver of Death Auto Fined for Bad Brake

Judge John P. McMahon, in Police Court yesterday, fined Mrs. Catherine Robertson, 40 years old, of 5208 Fifth street northwest, driver of the automobile that struck and fatally injured William Stokes, 6 years old, Sunday night, $5 on a charge of having a defective hand brake on her car.

Mrs. Robertson was held blameless by a coroner's jury Monday. Policeman J. E. Bennett, of the Traffic Bureau, examined the brakes of the death car shortly after the mishap and found the hand brake defective. He testified Mrs. Robertson would not have been able to avoid hitting the boy even had the brake been working normally because the boy ran from between two parked cars directly into the path of her machine.

WARDMAN SUIT ASKS JOINING OF BROKERS

New York Bank Seeks Stock Accounting for Sales on Properties Here.

Justice Joseph W. Cox, of the District Supreme Court, last night had under advisement a motion to make Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Hambleton & Co., brokerage houses, party defendants in the suit of the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. of New York, to have the properties of the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., taken over and administered by a trio of receivers for the benefit of holders of bonds of the Wardman company.

The object of bringing the two concerns into the proceedings is to secure from them an accounting of moneys received by them from the sale of stock issues. A total of over $11,000,000 in stock on numerous Wardman properties here were sold to investors.

Two hours were consumed by attorneys in arguing before Justice Cox. C. C. Carlin, attorney, pointed out that Halsey, Stuart & Co. was not represented at the hearing, but that Justice Cox had ample authority to make the brokerage house a party defendant anyway. The justice intimated he would rule on the question at an early date.

At the present time, the properties are being administered by Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson; Julius I. Peyser and Thomas D. Carson.

Commission Buys Land Near School

Three Acres at Bunker Hill Acquired; Contract Is Let for Building.

Purchase of slightly more than three acres of land adjoining the Bunker Hill School from the Friars Minor of the Province of the Most Holy Name was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners. The agreed price is $24,850.

The land was bought to provide for enlargement of the school when the extra space is needed. The new unit will front either on Fourteenth or Taylor streets.

A contract for the construction of the Phoebe Hearst School at Thirty-seventh and Tilden streets northwest was awarded by the Commissioners to Ralph S. Herzog, of Philadelphia, on his low bid of $105,895.

The Lacci Construction Co., of Baltimore, was lowest of ten bidders yesterday afternoon on the construction of a gymnasium at the Randall Junior High School. The estimate was $45,787.

Man Sues for $30,000 For Alleged Injuries

Francis J. Kane, trading as the Kane Transfer Co., 2116 Fifth street northeast, was named defendant in a suit for $30,000 filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Benjamin Lucas, 2712 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Lucas claims he was struck by a truck of the company while he was riding a bicycle at Fourth and V streets northeast in August of last year.

Magazine Issues Warning.

The Washington Chamber of Commerce, through George A. G. Wood, acting president, announces that unauthorized solicitations are being made for subscriptions to Greater Washington, the magazine published by the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and the chamber desires to have it known that no person at the present time is authorized to solicit subscriptions for this publication.

LIQUIDATION BEGUN OF RHEEM ASSETS

Trustees Sell Some Tracts and Will Seek Approval of Other Transactions.

The arduous program of liquidating assets of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. is now actively under way, it was learned last night. One or two properties already have been sold advantageously, and trustees are planning to submit to creditors another group of offers for real estate included in the bankrupt firms holdings.

Trustees today will petition Referee in Bankruptcy Fred J. Eden to call a meeting of creditors, to pass on sale of four modest properties in the Northwest section, as recommended in the trustees' report, it was said. The meeting will be held in about two weeks.

No Distribution Planned.

Although funds in hand are too small to warrant any distribution of assets among the creditors, it was indicated at the company's offices that as liquidation advances, and a substantial sum accumulates to the credit of the trustees, dividends will be declared.

Those in control were unable to predict yesterday just when this distribution will occur, although it was stated authoritatively that none will be made at the forthcoming meeting.

In disposing of real estate of the defunct company, creditors are selecting first those properties that are without tenants and paying no returns, while properties satisfactorily rented are being held for the profits they net, it was learned.

Sold Firehouse Site.

One of the first sales made by the trustees was a strip of land at Thirteenth and Rhode Island avenue northeast, purchased for $15,000 by the District government as a site for a new firehouse.

Of the four properties to be proposed for sale at the approaching meeting of creditors, one is a sector of land adjoining this plot, for which the creditors have received an offer of $42,000. It was pointed out, however, that all but $27,000 of this is encumbered with mortgages that must be paid off.

Two of the other properties proposed for sale are located on Rhode Island avenue extended. Offers of $2,700 and $2,300, respectively, have been received for them, not deducting encumbrances. Sale of a small plot in Forest Glen for $750, also will be recommended.

Check Trial Continued As Girl Teacher Faints

Denied a continuance of her trial on a charge of passing a bad check, Genevieve Friel, a Philadelphia school teacher, took the witness stand in Police Court before Judge Robert E. Mattingly yesterday, and promptly fainted. Judge Mattingly then continued the case.

Courthouse employes revived Miss Friel and Judge Mattingly ordered the case bound over to Thursday. Just before she fainted, she told Judge Mattingly a male companion had been sentenced in Baltimore recently on 11 check charges.

Cab Company Is Sued For $25,000 Damages

A suit for $25,000 against the City Cab Co., 2121 Fourteenth street northwest, and John Hamburg, 1350 Four-and-a-half street southwest, was instituted in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Eugenia Robinson, 22 I street northeast.

Through O'Shea, Burnett and Goldstein, attorneys, the charge is made that she was a passenger in a company cab on March 23 last when it collided with a machine driven by Hamburg at South Capitol and M streets.

Scottie and Danish Friend Return to British Embassy

Donald and Alex walked out yesterday, deliberately walked out on a British diplomat and two high executives in the American Government. Maybe it was because they were restless, maybe there was a cat to chase. Or perhaps it was reflection on the trio's tennis.

Donald is a great Dane and a huge creature for his 10 months. His pal, Alex, is a Scotch terrier and about the same age but a mite alongside his stablemate. Their master is C. J. W. Torr, secretary at the British Embassy.

Mr. Torr, Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison and Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls were playing tennis yesterday on the embassy's court, with Alex and Donald for onlookers, when the dogs abruptly trotted away.

Considerably upset when he discovered his pets had vanished, Mr. Torr notified police, placed an advertisement in The Post and was thinking of arranging a radio broadcast to stimulate the search when Scottie and his Danish friend ambled into the embassy, wagging their tails behind them.

Policeman A. E. Green, of the Seventh Precinct, had found the dogs promenading up Massachusetts avenue, not far from the embassy, and, identifying the pair by Mr. Torr's report, hustled them back to the king's soil.

All told, the wandering thoroughbreds were A. W. O. L. more than two hours.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MORE SUGGESTIONS IN THE ONE-YEAR PLAN FOR AMERICAN BUSINESS.

LESS anxiety about being late to lunch.

A little more graciousness on the telephone.

Not so much effort to produce a great slogan and much more effort to produce a great product.

Less emphasis on what constitutes the wrapper and more emphasis on what constitutes the product inside the wrapper.

A maximum of two hours for all businessmen's lunches.

The complete separation of all executives from the idea that it is okay to give half their time to composing optimistic addresses for business banquets.

A little more patience with the customer, even if he has halitosis, an annoying personality and a rather vague idea of what he wants.

Prompt answering of the telephone.

* * * *

THE dismissal of all stenographers and secretaries who, when asked for the general manager, inquires "Who wants him?" and then reply "He isn't in just now." Nothing drives the customers to a rival house any faster than this.

A little more civility on the part of the outer guards to whom you must present your name when you want to see a big business man in his private office.

A disposition on the part of big business executives to admit a man who merely wants to talk business as quickly as they admit a man who merely wants to show them a new mashie-niblick.

Complete abolition of the ancient American custom of using big names merely for "window dressing purposes."

A wreath of horsefeathers for the executive who receives every suggestion, however brilliant, with an enthusiastic, "That sounds very interesting. I'll make a note of it," and then leaves the notes in wrinkled wads in various pockets for his suit-presser to dispose of.

* * * *

MORE or less modification of the growing theory that the public can be sold anything, good, bad or indifferent if the company can get the right entertainer to entertain over the radio.

Recognition by all people in business houses that they shouldn't yawn in the face of the customer, even if the order is for less than $1,000.

A little action to impress minor executives with the fact that a long correspondence covering three or four weeks is wholly unnecessary in matters that could be finally disposed of at one ten-minute personal meeting.

An occasional visit to the plant in July and August.

Fewer handball clubs in the heart of the business belt.

Permanent abolition of the practice of running a business while sitting in a one-piece bathing suit on a houseboat off Florida from Christmas to Easter.

Business is reported picking up smartly in the shoe manufacturing business. The people are using them to hide their money in.

SECOND EMPIRE MODE.

I do perceive looks very chic;
And I do not mind saying that
She always looks a bit antique.

$240 Bank Roll Vanishes In Palm-Reader's Blessing

Charles H. Rowe, 906 H street northwest, had his "fortune told" yesterday morning, and as a result he is minus a goodly share of his material fortune—$240—he told police.

That "dark person" who is usually prophesied as about to "cross the path" of those who visit the Gypsy seers entered Rowe's life in a rather paradoxical way. He told police that answering a ring at his door he was confronted by a dark Gypsy-like woman of middle age, who solicited the job of reading his palm.

Rowe consented and the reading was made. Then the itinerant prophetess suggested that she bless his roll of money. Rowe said she placed this in a handkerchief—ostensibly—and after making several passes over the little parcel, bid him adieu, collecting a small fee for her services.

Later Rowe discovered that his money was missing from the handkerchief. He now concludes that the woman was not only a master of palm reading, but also of the art of sleight-of-hand. Police are seeking the woman on the description furnished by Rowe.

Tailor Is Beaten In Family Battle

Is Taken to Hospital With Multiple Lacerations; Wife Arrested.

Frank K. Heindrick, merchant tailor, of 1012 Connecticut avenue, last night was in Garfield Hospital suffering from multiple lacerations, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Heindrick, was at the Tenth Precinct facing assault charges, following a pitched battle at their home, 1461 Harvard street northwest, police said.

According to Policemen A. G. Millhill and F. A. Peacox, who went to the home in response to calls of neighbors, most of the furniture, glassware and china on an entire floor of the house were demolished.

They said Mrs. Heindrick struck her husband with a vase, while their their 15-year-old son, Leon, hit him with a golf club. Mr. Heindrick was removed to Garfield Hospital in a Tenth Precinct patrol wagon and Mrs. Heindrick taken to the precinct and charged. The husband was said to be suffering from secondary hemorrhages.
